Reader,

HIS Historical Account of Images was prepar'd for the Press some time before Mr. Owen Died, and had seen the Light long ago, if Treasures of Learning and Reason had past for Estimable Commodities in the World.

The Book sufficiently recommends its self, and is able alone to give the Reverend Author's Name the Priviledge of Immortality.

The Subject is very Instructive and Entertaining, especially to Men of Inquisitive and Distinguishing Minds, and Merits the particular Regards of British Protestants, who may here see from what Mass of Impurity they have emerged by the Reformation.

He has stript the Romish Hierarchy of its Meritorious Mask, and expos'd its Cursed Idolatry to Publick and Perpetual Contempt. Amen.

He

He Traverses the Idolatrous Beast, thro' all the Abstruse Meanders of Antiquity, and Wounds him in the most sensible Part, and by this one Blow has transsix'd the very Bowels of Popery.

I've nothing more to add, but assure the Reader, that the ensuing Tract is the Genuine Off-spring of the Person whose Name is president to it.

The Book faticionship recommends the felt and

His Name is well known by several Learned Tracts he sent abroad into the World himself. And the late Account of his Life may give some Information concerning him, to those that had not an Opportunity to receive it otherwise.

If any Talent were his Master-piece, it was an Acquaintance with Ecclesia-stical History. He had spent a great deal of Time in perusing the several Monuments of Antiquity upon that Copious Subject. And had digested what he had read with such Exactness, that he could not only trace a Doctrine or Practice thro' the several Ages of the Church in a little Time, by the help of his References, but readily entertain his Friends off-hand upon most Subjects of that Nature that were Occasionally started. And his Resle-

His Performances already extant are Specimens of his Abilities this way. But in his latter Years he had form'd a Defign of Prosecuting several Arguments of Consequence in an Historical Way. This is certainly a Method of great Advantage, when manag'd by a Judi-Tis mightily for the Sercious Hand vice of Truth, by reprefenting it in feveral Views, and shewing the Progress of Light and Knowledge, and the feveral Oppositions it has weather'd. 'Tis of equal Use against Errors, by describing their Rife, their Disguises, and Pernicious Consequences in the Examples of former Times. For indeed the Modern Corruptions, either in Do-Arine or Practice, are usually but the Revival of ancient Delusions. Such Accounts therefore are for the Caution of After-ages, against admitting Innovations upon the Scripture-rule, which have

He began with the History of Ordinations, but after he had entred upon that Work, laid it aside for what is now offer'd to your perusal: So that only a Fragment of it remains, because Death prevented his Resuming it.

That which occasion'd his diverting to this Subject, was a Practice very current among us of latter Years, to fill our Bibles and Devotional Books with Pictures. Tho' this has given great Offence to many, yet others may be ready to think it a Matter scarce worth fpeaking of, and rather the Bookfeller's Device for an Ornament to their Copy, than the Fffect of growing Superstition. But certainly, if there be no ill Design. in it, there is an ill Tendency. If they are only intended for an agreeable Amusement to such as relish a good Picture, Books of the most serious Argument are very ill chosen to place 'em in, where nothing should be found but what what may regulate or exeite our Pious Affections. If a Religious Design is pretended, they are so much the worse: When God has so strictly caution'd us against the Use of sensible Representations to excite our Devotions; and Experience has shewn, that Attempts of this kind have generally ended in gross Idolatry.

It may not be amiss to observe what Sentiments that Great Princes, Q. Elizabeth had of this Practice in her Days. That Impartial Historian, Mr. Strype, in his late Annals of the Reformation, during the first twelve Years of Q. Elizabeth, p. 238. has given us a very remarkable Passage out of Sir H. Sidney's Memorials among Archbishop Usber's Manuscripts. Because so large a Book may not come into every hand, I shall not think much to Transcribe the whole -here. Sampson, Dean of Christ church, who Preach'd before ber one New-yearsday at St Paul's, bawing gotten from a Foreigner Several fine Cuts and Pictures, representing the Stories and Passions of the Saints and Martyrs, bad plac'd them against the Epistles and Gospels of their Festivals in a Common-prayer-book This Book be caus'd to be richly Bound, and laid on the Cushion, for the Queen's Ufe, in the Place where she commonly sat : When The came to ber Place, the open'd the Book, and perus'd it, and fam the Pictures, but frown'd and blush'd, and then shut it (of which several took notice) and calling the Verger, bid bim bring ber the old Book, wherein she was formerly wont to read. After Sermon, whereas she was mont to get immediately on Horseback, or into ber Chariot, She went strait to the Vestry, and applying her self to the Dean, thus she spoke to him.

Q. Mr. Dean, How came it to pass that a new Service-Book was placed on my Cushion? To which the Dean Answer'd. D. May it please your Majesty, I caused it to be placed there. Q. Wherefore did you so? D. To present your Majesty with a New-years-gift. Q. You could never present me with a worse. D. Why so, Madam? Q. You know I have an Aversion to Idolatry, to Images and Pictures of this kind. Q. Wherein is the Idolatry, may it please your Majesty? Q. In the Cuts resembling Angels and Saints; nay, grosser Absurdities, Pictures resembling the Blesfed Trinity. D. I meant no barm, nor did I think it would offend your Majesty, when I intended it for a New years-gift. Q. Tou muft needs be ignorant then. Have you forgot our Proclamation against Images, Pictures and Romish Relicks in the Churches ? Was it not read in your Deanry ? D. It was read. But be your Majesty affur'd, I means no barm, when I caus'd the Cuts to be bound with the Service-book. Q. Tou must needs be very ignorant to do this after our Probibition of them. D. It being my Ignorance, your Majesty may the better pardon me. Q. I am forry for it, yet glad to bear it was your Ignorance, rather than your Opinion. D. Be your Majesty affard, it was my Ignorance. Q. If so, Mr. Dean, God grant you his Spirit, and more Wisdom for the future. D. Amen, I pray God. Q. Ipray, Mr. Dean, bow came you by thefe Pi-Hures ?

Aures? Who Engraved them? D. I know not who Engraved them. I bought them. Q. From whom bought you them? D. From a German. Q. It is well it was from a Stranger. Had it been any of our Subjects, we should have questioned the Matter. Pray let no more of these Mistakes, or of this kind, be committed within the Churches of our Realm for the future. D. There shall not.

And we are further told, that this Matter occasion dall the Clergy, in and about London, and the Church-wardens of each Parish, to search their Churches and Chappels, and caused them to wash out of the Walls all Paintings that seemed to be Romish and Idolatrous, and in lieu thereof, suitable Texts taken out of the

That the Concern of this Great Queen was not Unjust or Unreasonable, will evidently appear to any one that reads in the ensuing Tract the gradual Progress of Image-worship, particularly in the Christian Church Images insensibly crept into Places and Things apply'd to a Sacred Use; and meeting with little Opposition at first, because esteem'd harmless, and not avow'd to be for a Religious Use, gain'd at length fuch an Ascendant over the Imaginations of the People, that they fell into rank Idolatry. Which justly makes those that are concern'd for the Purity of Christian Worship, to take Umbrage at fuch unwarrantable Practices.

I shall only add one thing, that the common Objection against Posthumous Pieces, of their wanting the Author's last Hand to them, has no place here. For I can assure all, that he had entirely finish'd the Work, and Transmitted it to my Hands to be Publish'd a Month before he Dy'd. I pray God his Christian Design in it may be promoted by this Publication, the Confirmation of Protestants in their Abhorrence of Popish Idolatry, and the Discountenancing of every thing among us that may have a Tendency that way valtations of the Reformed Churches in Foreign Countries, and the visible Degeneracy in the Principles and Vital Power of Religion among our selves, we have Reason to fear the Progressive Approaches of Divine Wrath, and to behold with trembling the irresistible Hand which is listed up to Punish us. We may flatter our selves, and say with secure Israel, No Evil shall come upon us, but while the Lord hath a Controversie with the Nations, and Pleads with all Flesh, nothing but a deep Humiliation, and a general forsaking of our Evil Ways, can prevent the Eruption of Destructive Vengeance.

The Day of God's Patience with us should be applied to the proper Exercises of a Preparatory State. This is the Time to fortifie our selves against the Hereses and Idolatries of the Romish Community, that we perish not by the Abomination which bath made Desolate the Sanctuaries of God in other Nations.

The following History is recommended as an Antidote against the Intoxicating Cup of the Great Whore Subo hath made the Inhabitants of the Earth Drunk with the Wine of her Fornication. Whoredom and Cruelty Constitute her Character. She makes the Nations Drunk with the Golden Cup; which is full of Abominations and Filtbiness of her nication, † are made Victims to her + Ezek. 16. Brutal Rage, to which nothing is fo agreeable as the Flesh of Martyrs, and Blood of Saints. The enfuing Discourse gives a clear Prospect of the Idolarry of Image-worthip, in the different Forms and Denominations by which it has Captivated the Senfual and Superstitious World. It shews the Occaffons, Rife, and Progress of it among Pagens. Fews, and Apostate Christians. It discovers the Subtle Methods and Artifices, by which the God of this World Usurp'd the Divine Prerogatives, and transfer'd to himself the Incommunicable Glory of the Eternal Jehovah. Here you may see in their full Strength, the Arguments and Pleas of the Gentiles for their Way of Worshipping Images, and also the Reasons and Grounds of the Oriental and Western Christians for their Mode of Image worthip, with the exact Harmony between the Worship of the Antient Pagans, and that of the Modern Romanists.

More particularly you will find here all the Arguments of the Ancient Roman Pontiffs, and of the Second Synod of Nice, for Image-worthip, Examin'd and Refuted: With the History of that Idolatrous Council, and the Artful Methods by which Imageworthip was Establish'd in it, as also an Abridgment of the Eight Actions of this Council, and large Remarks on each of 'em, especially on the Sixth Adion, which contains the Ads of the Seventh Genenal Council, held at Conftantinopte, under Conftantine Copronymus, in which the Abolition of Images was Decreed. The Ads of this Council are represented in fix Tomes, to each of which is fubjoyn'd the pretended Refusation of the Nicenes, with an Answer to each Paragraph of it, shewing the Refutation of the Bishops at Nice to be Weak, Impertinent and Frivolous; and the Reasons of the Fathers at Conftantinople to be impregnable, and to remain in their full Strength. The Council of Constantinople is proved to be truly General, and the latter Convention at Nice, to be neither a General, nor a Lawful Council.

The PREFACE.

The Reader is also accommodated with the exact Hiftory of the Contents about Images between the Iconoclasta, or Image-breakers, and the Iconoduli, or Image worshippers. The Characters of the Eastern Emperors, who Defroy'd Images are Reftor'd and Vindicated; the vile Calumnies and Mifrepresentations, by which the Byzantine Monks, and Romish Writers have Blacken'd their Memories, are Dete-Red and Exposed, and the Ignorance, Superstition, Impostures, Seditions, and furious Bigottry of the Monks in Defence of Images are fet in a clear Light.

Befides, here is also a full Account of the Establishment of Idolatry in the West by the Popes of Rome, and their Dependants with the Struggles of some Western Emperors, Councils and Bishops against the prevailing Herefie of Image-worship; together with the Illustrious Testimony of the Waldenfes and their Disciples, who Prophecied in Sackcloath, while the outward Court was given to the Gentiles, and Gentilism introduced in the room of the Primitive Purity of Christian Worship.

In a word, you have here a compleat History of Idolatry, and a Preservative against the Malignant Contagion of it.

As Idolatry is the distinguishing Character of the Grand Antichrift, and Apocalyptick Whore, fo the Followers of Christ are described to be a company of Virgins who have not Defiled themselves with Idols.

Such as are Espoused as Chafte Virgins unto Chrift, must keep themselves from the Pollutions of Idols, and Religiously observe the Covenant of their Espousals to the Jealous God.

The Idolatry of the ancient Pagans, and that of the Eastern Church had its Original in an excessive Fondness for Religious Pictures. These exectable Helps to Devotion have introduced the Abomination of Image worthip.

Let those little Souls that are capable of no Ideas. but such as are Earthly and Sensual, admire their Pupper-Gods, and Imaginary Deities; but such as have entertain'd fublime and becoming Thoughts of the Infinite Majesty of God, will difect their Adorations to him only, and not to fuch Objects as are much baser than the Persons of the Worshippers. These are the Workmanship of God, but the impotent Things to which they Address their Worship, are the despicable Work of fordid Men.

CHAP. I.

Images unfit to excite Devotion. Not appointed to that End. Forbidden. Humane Nature prone to Idolatry. All Occasions of it to be avoided.

I. T is very surprizing to find our Books of Devotion, interleav'd with Pillures or Images of Jesus Christ, and of the Apostles and other Saints. Our Common-Prayer Books fince the Restoration in the Year 1660, have been printed with Crucifixes and other Pictures. They are continued in the late Editions of it. Several of our other Books of Devotion have a Crucifix in the Frontispiece.

2 . The History of Images and Image-Worship.

These goodly Pictures are design'd to promote Devotion, that by beholding the Representations which they make of the Acts and Sufferings of Jesus Christ and other Holy Persons, we may be suitably affected and excited to imitate their Examples. But a good End can't justify a bad Action. The End and the Means must be of a Piece. Devotion must be exercised by lawful Means. Religious Worsship must be regulated by the Laws of Religion: As it is a Divine thing in its Original, Nature and Tendency, so the only Measure and Motive of it, is the Divine Will. The very Heathens acknowledged the Truth of this, I always took it for granted, O ye Pontifs, saith Cicero, that the Chief thing in the Practice of Religion, is to understand the Will of the Immortal Gods. It is the Privilege of and Religious Worship.

If once we forfake the Holy Scriptures, as the Rule of Worship, we become vain in our own Imaginations, and lose our selves in the thick Darkness of carnal Wisdom; as the Idolatrous Romans, not liking to retain God in their Knowledge, and professing themselves to be wise, became fools, and changed the glory of the incorruptible God, into an Image made like to corruptible Man. +

Philo observes, that the Jews abhor'd Idols to that Degree, 'That they cheerfully exposed themselves to a voluntary Death, as to a blessed Immortality, rather than suffer the least thing || to be alter'd in their || it is been construction one Stone be taken out, the other Parts that seem firm, being loosened, will by degrees fink

II. Tis certain, that Images or Pictures were no where appointed of God, to be helps to Devotion. We read of several Ordinances for advancing Religion in the Old and New Testament, but not one Word of the nie of Images, to beget in us devout Reflections. Our Lord Jesus hath appointed Two Sacraments to be fensible Signs, or Representations of Spiritual Bleffings, and these he will bless with his Prefence, and will make 'em effectual Means of Communicating the Benefits of Redemption: But Images are no where recommended in the Gospel, nor is there any Promise to the use of 'em.

III. 'Tis as evident, that the Second Commandment forbids the making of Images for Religious Intentions; it forbids not only the groffer Acts of Adoration and Service to graven Images, but all the Appearances and Occations of Idolatry. Romanists being Condemned by this Command, have Impiously expung'd it; and that they may feem innocent herein, allow but Three Commands to the First Table, making the Second an Explication of the First, and Seven to the Second Table, to which end they split the Tenth into Two. In this Divifion, they pretend to follow Austin, who assigns Three Commands to the First Table, to illustrate the Mystery of the Trinity, and Seven to the Second

Table. 4 Herein Austin differs not only from other Fathers, Athanafius, 5 Origen, 6 Chrysoftom, 7 Jerom, 8 Ambrose, 9 but from himfelf, who in another Place follows the receiv'd Division. Which was the Ancient Division received in the Jewish Church as appears, from Philo, who affirms the Second II Lib.quis Command, forbids the forming of Gods retum Div. out of Creatures, by the deceitful Arts hæres p. 504. Antiq. of Painters and Statuaries. 11 The same Division is observ'd by Fosephus 12

4 Lib. 2.quæft. Super Exod. cap. 71.

8 In Eph. 6. 9 In cund. foc. 10 Quaft. vet. & N. Teft. cap. 7.

IV. There is a strange Proneness in Humane Nature to Idolarry. Since Man is funk from a Life of Faith, to that of Sense, he is under the Dominion of the Carnal Mind, and favours not the things that are Divine and Spiritual. He likes not the Simplicity of the Gospel, he affects outward Pomp and the gandy Luftre of this World. As he follows the Conduct of the Senfual Mind, he devises a Religion which may gratifie his Senses. He accompdates the most Spiritual Things, to the Inclinations of the Flesh; this is the true Source of Will Worship and Idolatry.

He assumes to himself the Monopoly of Wildom, and Fancies he can comprehend all the deep Things of God. He submits not to the Wisdom of God, but affects to be Wise, not only above, but contrary to what is written. Hence the World by Wisdom knew not God, as the Apostle obferves; they oppose the Dictates of imperfect and corrupt Reason, to the Oracles of Divine Wisdom; and by truffing to their own Understandings, forfeit

VII. Such Things as were forbidden the Jews by the Universal Law of the Ten Commandments, which Christ came to Establish, and not to Destroy, are very improper Motives of Devotion. The Pictures and Crucifixes in our Books of Devotion, must need attract the Eye, which affects the Heart, and conveys into it a secret Love to Images, or at least our Familiar Conversing with them, lessens the Aversion we ought to have for Image Worship.

The Guilt and Contagion of Spiritual, as well as Corporeal Adultery is communicated by the Eye.

ber ;† In like manner, fuch as would not be defiled with Spiritual Whoredom or Idolatry, must not suffer their Eyes to gaze on Pictures to excite their Devotion. The Beauties of a Picture, and of a comely Woman, are equally alluring to a corrupt Mind. He that wou'd be preserved from Pollutions of both Kinds, must make a Covenant with his Eyes, and decline the Occasions of Sin.

VIII. We ought to be the more upon our Guard against this Sin of Idolatry, because it is the greatest of all Abominations. The Jealous God will visit this Iniquity of the Fathers, unto the third and fourth Generation of them that hate him. This is like the Sin of Wheredom in a Wise, which dissolves the Bonds of Matrimony. Idolatry is the most notorious Violation of the Covenant, between God

And the rather, because we know not how soon our constant and firm Adherence, to the pure Worthip of the Gospel, may be brought to the Test. The fubtile Emissaries of Rome watch all Occasions of affaulting our Faith, and improve all Advantages of infinuating into us, a good Opinion of their Idolatrous way of Worship: They will suggest that, by the same Reason that we have Images in our Devotion Books, we should have them also in our Temples and Closets. Our Brethren abroad have undergone the fiery Trial, we also ought to prepare, and to fortifie our felves against the Idolarry of that Church. May we never feel the effects of their Tyrannic Power over our Consciences, in the Matter of Religious Worship; if Romish Pictures come to have any Influence on our Devotions, they will in time Captivate our Mind and Command our Adorations. CHAP. H.

An Abstract of the Homily against Idolatry. Images forbidden in the Old and New Testament. Testimonies of Fathers against Images. Those of Christ unlawful. Objections answered.

Y what Artifice foever Pictures have crept into D'our Books of Devotion, they are fully Condemn'd by the Homilies of our Church, as unlawful in themselves, and of the most pernicious Consequence. The Homilies contain the Established Do-Strine of the Church of England, and for that Reafon, are inferred into the 39 Articles of Religion, of which the XXXVth is in these Words; The Second Book of Homilies, the several Titles whereof we have join'd under this Article, doth contain a Godly and wholefom Doctrine, and necessary for those Times, as doth the former Book of Homilies, which were fet forth in the Time of Edward the Sixth; and therefore we judge 'em to be read in Churches by the Minister, diligently and distinctly, that they may be understood of the People.

The Cannon requires all Ministers, to allow the Book of Articles of Religion, agreed upon by the Arch-Bishops and Bishops of both Provinces, and the whole Clergy.———A. 1562. And to acknowledge all and every the Articles therein contain'd being in Number 39, to be agreeable to (14) Can. 36, the Word of God. (14)

I-will give a short Abridgment of the Godly and wholesome Dodrine, contained in the Homily against Peril of Idolatry. This Homily is divided into Three Parts.

I. The

The History of Images and Image-Worship.

I. The first proves the unlawfulness of having any Images in Churches, by the Authority of God's Holy Word, out of the Old and New Testament.

'It shews that Images and Idels, are one and the same thing in Scripture; that St. Jerom translates the Greek adwa, by Simulachra, Images: That Tertullian explains St. John's, Beware of Idols, of the Images themselves. The Scriptures of the Old Testament condemn-(15) De ing (15) and abhorring as well all

'Idolatry, or worthipping of Images, as also the very Idols or Images themselves, especially in Temples, are so manifest and plentiful, that it were almost an infinite Work, to record all the Places concerning the same:

Cor. milit,

The Places alledged, are Deut. 4. Num. 22. on which the Homilist thus Paraphrases, ' 1. That God calls on Ifrael, to mark and take heed, and that upon the Peril of their Souls, to the Charge which he gives them. 2. He forbids the making of any Image, or the likeness of any thing in Heaven, in Earth, and in the Water. 3. He denounceth horrible Destruction to them and their Posterity, if they make or worship any Images or Similitude.

Agreeable hereunto is Deut. 27. Curfed be the Man that maketh a carved Image, or a cast, or a molten Image, which is abomination before the Lord, the Work of the Artificer's Hand, and setteth it up in a secret Corner, and all the People Shall Say, Amen.

certain Church to pray, I found there a Linnen Cloth, hanging in the Church Door, Painted, and having in it the Image of Christ, as it were, or of some other Saint, (for I remember not well whose Image it was) therefore, when I did see the Image of a Man hanging in the Church of Christ, contrary to the Authority of the Scriptures, I did tear it, and gave Counsel to the Keepers of the Church, that they should wind a poor Man that was dead, in the said Cloth, and so bury him.

On this Story, the Author makes these Remarks,

1. ' That Epiphanius, Bishop of Salamine in Cyprus, judged it contrary to the Christian Religion and the Authority of the Scriptures, to have any Images in Christ's Church. 2. He rejected not only carved, graven, and molten Images, but alfo painted Images, out of Christ's Church. 3. That he regarded not whether it were the Image of Christ, or of any other Saint, but being an Image, wou'd not fuffer it in the Church. 4. That he did not only remove it out of the Church, but with a vehement Zeal, tore it in funder, judging it meet for nothing but to rot in the Earth. This Act of Epiphanius was not condemned by the Godly Bishops of that Age, which is an evident Proof, that about 400 Years after our Saviour Christ, there were no Images publickly nsed and received in the Church of Christ.

* Eusebius and Ferom do both expressy say, that the Errors of Images have come in, and passed to the Christians from the Gentiles, by an Heathenish

" Use and Custom.

About the Year 460. Pontius Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, caused the Walls of the Temple to be painted with Stories taken out of the Old Testament ment, that the People beholding those Pictures, might the better abstain from too much Surfeiting and Riot, while they celebrated the Birth-Day of St. Felix in the Temple, where they used to Banquet fumptuously. About the same time Aurelius Prudentius, a Christian Poet, declares how he did fee Painted in a Church, the History of the Passion of St. Cassian: These were the first Paintings in Churches, that were notable in Antiquity; and fo by this Example came in Painting, and afterwards Images of Timber and Stone, into the Churches of Christians: But from Learning by painted Stories, it came by little and little to Idolatry. Which when Godly Men, to wit Emperors and Bishops perceived, they commanded that such Pictures, Images, or Idols, should be used no more.

'Valens and Theodosius the Second, Emperors, forbad that any Image should be made or painted privately; for certain it is, that there was none in Temples in their Time, which was about 400 Years after Christ's Ascension. [See the Edict at large in allow the open having of Images in Churches:

But as all things that be amifs, have from a tolerable beginning grown worse and worse, so did this Matter of Images. First, Men used privately, Stories painted in Tables, Cloths, and Walls.
Afterwards gross and embossed Images privately in their own Houses. Then afterwards they began to creep into Churches, Learned and Godly men, ever speaking against them. Then by use it was openly maintained that they might be in Churches, but yet forbidden that they shou'd be worshipped; of which Opinion was Gregory, as appears by his Epistle to Serenus.

"Gregory's Authority was fo great in all the West, that by his encouragement, Men fet up was for destroying them, had taken Place, Idolatry had been overthrown; for to that which is not, no Man committeth Idolatry.

What Mischief hath followed afterward to all Christendom, Experience hath proved. 1. By the Schism between the Eastern and Western Church about the said Images. 2. By the Division of the Empire into two Parts, by the same Occasion of Images, to the great weakening of all Christendom. Whereby (3dly,) hath followed the utter Overthrow of the Christian Religion and Noble Empire in Greece, and the Increase of Mahomet's salse Religion, and the cruel Dominion of the Saracens and Turks: And all this we owe to our Idols and Images, and our Idolatry in Worshipping them.

Philippicus, and Arthemius, or Anastasius, Emperors of Constantinople, commanded Images and Pictures to be pulled down, and rased out in every Place of their Dominion. Theodosius III. commanded the defaced Images to be painted and set up again.

Leo III. a very Wise, Godly, Merciful and Valiant Prince, commanded Images to be taken down and defaced. Gregory III. Bishop of Rome, affembled a Council of Italian Bishops against him, and there made Decrees for Images, and stirred up the Italians against the Emperor, and moved them to Rebellion; which Example other Bishops of Rome have continually follow'd, and gone through with a most shoutly.

The Author gives a large Account of the Contests about Images, how they were opposed by several Emperors of the East, by the Council of Eliberis in Spain, and the 12th Council of Toledo, and by the Council of Franckford, assembled by Charles the Great, which it should seem, the Popes and and Papists have most shamefully corrupted, as their manner is to corrupt Councils and Doctors.

'III. The Third Part confutes the Principal Argu-'ments, which are used for the maintenance of Images.

To this is answer'd, 'That all Images, as well ours, as the Idols of the Gentiles be forbidden, Deut. 4. Ifa. 40. Act. 17. Hab. 2. Rom. 1.

As to the Image of Christ, it appears that no Image can be made of Christ but a hying Image; (1.) For Christ is God and Man. Seeing therefore that for the Godhead, which is the most excellent Part, no Images can be made, its falsely call'd the Image of Christ; wherefore Images of Christ be not only Defeds, but also Lies. Which Reason ferveth also for the Images of Saints, whose Souls, the most excellent Parts of 'em can by no Images be express'd; wherefore they be no Images of Saints, whose Souls reign in Joy with God, but of the Bodies of Saints, which as yet lie putrified in the Graves, do sanson behave one

(2.) Furthermore, no true Image can be made of Christ's Body, for it is unknown now of what Form and Countenance he was and there be in Greece and at Rome, and in other Places, divers · Images of Christ, and none of them like to other; and yet every of them affirmeth, that theirs is the true and lively Image of Christ, which cannot offibly be. Wherefore as foon as an Image of Christ is made, by and by is made a Lye of him, which by God's Word is forbidden; which is also true of the Images of any Saints of Antiquity, for that it is unknown of what Form and Countenance they were: Wherefore fince Religion ought to be grounded upon Truth, Images, which cannot be without Lies, ought not to be made or put to any " Use of Religion.

2. Hereby is also confuted that their Allegation, that Images be Laymen's Books; for its evident by what hath been rehearfed, that they teach no Things of God, of our Saviour Christ, and of his Saints, but Lies and Errors; wherefore, either they be no Books, or if they be, they be false and 1 lying Books, the Teachers of all Error.

(3) And if it should be granted that an Image of Christ could truly be made, yet it is unlawful ' ir should be made, yea, or that the Image of any Saint should be made, especially to be fer up in Temples, to the great and unavoidable Danger of ' Idolatry.

(4.) Irenews reprov'd the Gnofficks, for that they carried about the Image of Christ, made truly afe ter his own Proportion in Pilate's time (as they faid) and therefore more to be effected, than those lying

'That the Law of God is to be understood against all our Images, as well of Christ as his Saints. in Temples and Churches, is the Judgment of the ' Primitive Church, and of the old Doctors, fuch as Epiphanius, Austin, Origen, and Ireneus.

2. Obj. 'God forbids not all Images to be made, but that they should be made to be worshipped.

Anf. 'We would not admit and grant them that Images used for no Religion, or not worthipped, nor in Danger to be worthipped of any, may be fuffer'd: But Images placed publickly in Temples, cannot possibly be without Danger of Worshipping and Idolatry. The Jews to whom this Law (of the Second Commandment) was first given, had no Images publickly in their Temple, and would by no Means confent to Herod, Pilate or Petromiss, that Images should be placed only in the Temple at Ferufalem, (altho' no worthipping of Images was required at their Hands) but rather offer'd themselves to Death than assent to it, nor would they fuffer any Image maker among them.

Obj. 2. If they object the Brasen Serpent, or the Image of the Cherubims in the Temple.

The Answer is easie, We must in Religion obey. God's general Law, which binds all Men, and not follow Examples of particular Difpensation, which be no Warrants for us. Neither can those Images of Cherubins fet in secret, where no Man might come nor behold, be any Example for fetting up Images in Churches.

Obj. 4. 'Where they fay that Images, fo they be not worshipp'd as things indifferent, may be tolerable in Temples and Churches: We infer and fay, that all our images of God, of Christ and his Saints publickly fet up in Temples, Places peculiarly appointed to the true worthipping of God, be not Things Indifferent nor Tolerable; but against God's Law and Commandment.

r. For that all Images fo fet up publickly, have been worshipped of the Unlearned and Learned also. 2. They are worshipped in fundry Places now in our Time also. 3. It is impossible that Images of God,

Christ, or his Saints, can be suffer'd (especially in Temples) any While or Space without Worshipping of them: And Idolatry can't be avoided, except Images be destroy'd.

Obj. 5. 'They fay they do not Worship the Images, as the Gentiles did their Idols, but God and the Saints, whom the Images do represent.

St, Austin, Lattantius and Clemens, do prove evidently, that by this their Answer, they be all one with the Gentile Idolaters. The Gentiles, faith St. Austin, do fay, we worship not the Images, but by the Corporeal Image, we do behold the Signs of the things which we ought to Worship. Aust. Pf. 135. Lastantius saith, the Gentiles say, we fear not the Images, but them after whose likeness the Images be made, and to whose Names they be consecrated. Lib. r. Instit.

Clemens faith, That the Serpent, the Devil uttereth these Words by the Mouth of certain Men, We to the Honour of the invisible God, worship vi-fible Images, which surely is most false.

fames Naclantus, Bishop of Clugium (in Rom. cap. 1.) saith, that it is not only to be confessed, that the Faithful in the Church do Worship before an Image, (as some peradventure do warily speak) but also do Worship the I-

The Homilist having answer'd some other Objections, adviseth us of these Latter Days to learn this Lesson of the Experience of Antiquity, that Idolatry cannot possibly be separated from Images any long time: But as an unseparable Accident, or as a Shadow follows the Body when the Sun shineth, so Idolary followeth and cleaveth to the publick having of Images in Temples and Churches. And finally, as Idolatry is to be abhorid and avoided, so are Images (which cannot be long without Idolatry) to be put away and destoy'd.

Besides which Experiments and Proof of Times before, the very Nature and Origin of Images themselves, draws to Idolatry most violently; and Mens Nature and Inclination also is bent to Idolatry so vehemently, that it is not possible to sever or part Images, nor to keep Men from Idolatry, if Images be suffer'd publickly. The first Invention of them is naught, and no good can come of that which had an evil beginning. As the Invention of them was the beginning of Spiritual Fornication; (Sap. 14.) so will they naturally (as it were of necessity) turn to their Origin from whence they came, and draw us with them most violently violently to Idolatry, abominable to God and all good Men.

As for a Man given to Lust, to sit down by a Strumpet, is to tempt God: So is it likewise to erect an Idol in this proneness of Man's Nature to Idolatry, which is Spiritual Fornication. Lev. 17.

'and'20. Num. 25. Deut. 31.

Be not Men and Women as prone to Spiritual Fornication, or Idolatry, as to Carnal Fornication? If this be dented, let all Nations upon the Earth, which have been Idolaters, prove it true. Let the Jews and the People of God, who against Warnings, Threatnings and Judgments fell into it, prove it to be true. For Wife Men, ye have the Egyptians and the Indian Gymnosophists, the Wifest Men of the World, you have Solomon, the Wifest of all other. For Learned Men, the Greeks, namely the Athenians, Act. 17. For Princes and Governors, you have the Romans, and the Kings of Israel and Juda, saving David, Ezekias, and Joses, and one or two more. All these and infinite others. 2. Let me add, that the inferting of Images or Piltures, into our Common-Prayers and other Books of Devotion, is as bad, if not worse than the setting of them up in Public Temples and Churches. When they are set up in Churches, one or two Images serve to excite the Devotions of the whole Congregation, but in this Case, every one that useth a Common-Prayer Book, has a particular Image before him. Besides, the Eye of the People can't be constantly fixed on those Images that are set up in Churches, but these in the Book are always in sight, and the Worshippers cannot read the Book in performing their Devotions, without glancing or gazing on the Picture.

CHAP. III.

Of the Idolatry of the Pagans. The Original of it. The Wiser Heathens against Images. Others worshipped one God by them. Images Occasions of Idolatry. God's Wrath on Pagan Idolaters.

THE Religious Use of Images is a Branch of Paganism, for the Structure and Adoration of them is of Pagan Invention. This Impiety of the Gentiles is justly censur'd by the Apostle, who affirms the Wrath of God to be revealed from Heaven, against all Ungodliness and Unrighteousness of Men, who who hold the Truth in Unrighteousness: Because that which may be known of God, is manisest in them, for God hath shew'd it unto them. The Idolatry of the Old World feems to be cenfured by Mofes, in Gen. 6. 11. The Earth alfo was Corrupt before God. God himself expresses the Idolarry of the Golden Galf by this form of Speech, when he tells Mofes in the Mount, that the People had corrupted themselves, Exod. 32. 7. The same Word is applied unto idols in Deut. 32.5. Judg. 2.19.

The extrem Impiety of the Old World is described by Moses, in Gen. 6. 5. Every Imagination of the Thoughts of his Heart, was only Evil continually. This Evil Imagination or Figment of Man's Mind, the Apostle applies to Idolatry, Rom. 1. 21. They became vain in their Imaginations, and their foolish Heart was darken'd.

The Alcoran introduces the Ante-diluvian World conspiring against Noah, and adhering to their false Gods, Wadda, Suwha, Fagouc, and Na. fera. (5) The Fabulous Impostor seems to refer to some Fewish Tradition.

Moses records concerning Rachel, that she stole the Gods of her Father Laban, who was the Grandfon of Nabor. These Gods were the Teraphim, or Images which she hid from her Father.

Either these Images, or some others, continued several Years after in Facob's Family, and were secretly used by some of his Domesticks, until the Patriarch by special Revelation Reformed and buried the Earth-born Gods under the Oak which was by Shechem.

Cyril affirms, that Idolatry had its first Rise in Babylon, where Divine Honours were exhibited to Arbelus, who was succeeded by Ninus. (8)

The Heathens believ'd a Relation between the Image and the God whom it represented, and that after Consecration of the Image, some Deity resided in it; This is affirm'd by Olympius, the Alexandrian Philosopher, who fays, That Some Di- (31) Sozom. vine Powers bad dwelt in the Images, Hift. 'It exceeds the Admiration of all Wonders, faith Mercurius Trismegistus, that Man should find out the Divine Nature, and be able to produce it, becaufe our Fore-fathers much err'd, being incredulous concerning the Nature of the Gods; and not attending to Religious and Divine Worship, they found an Art of making Gods (i.e. Images) which being found, they added thereto fuch Virtues as are agreeable to the Constitution of the World, and these they mingled together: And because they could not make Souls (for their Images) they called the Souls of Demons or Angels, and put them into the Sacred Images, and Divine Myste-

In like manner speaks Porphyrie in Eusebius. The Gods delight in Images, are circumscribed by them, and are contain'd in the Consecrated Images as in Holy Ground; which being taken away, that is immediately dissolved which contain'd the God.

By their own Contession the Pagans Worshipp'd Devils sometimes, being imposed upon by Evil Spirits. But the Truth is, they always Worshipp'd Devils, when they Worshipp'd Images, which God forbad, and never honour'd with his Presence. The Devils on the other Hand were present with them, and became the Object of the Idolatrous Worship of the Pagans.

2. Image Worship, is the Worship of Denils, because that Way of Worship was invented by the Devil. God forbids it under severe Penalties, and therefore Image Worship cannot be of God. It follows, it must be of the Devil, who affects Divine Honours, and Studies to corrupt the pure Worship of God. He had the Impudence to solicit on Lord Jesus to Worship him, much more does he tempt frail Men to give him Adoration.

Histories tell us, that he gave Oracles injoining image Worship. The Epidaurii, as Herodotus writes, in a Time of Dearth sent to Consult the Delphic Oracle, to whom the Pythian Prophetels answer'd, that they should erect Images at Damia and Auxesia, and when they had set them up, their Affairs would grow herter. The Epidaurii inquiring farther, whether they should make them of Brass, or Stone; Apollo answer'd, that he would not suffer them to be made of either, but of an Olive-Tree, not (35) Herod. the wild, but the genuine Olive. Death of Solomon, he was chosen King by the Ten Tribes, and searing least his Subjects by their frequent going to Jerusalem to Worship, should return to the House of David; he set up Two Golden-Calves, one at Dan, the other at Betbel, and commanded the People to Worship there, and not at Jerusalem. This was the beginning and Occasion of the Apostacy of Israel, or the Ten Tribes, from which they could never be reclaimed, until their Idolatrous Kingdom was utterly destroy'd, by Shalmanezer King of Assiria, and the Remnant that escaped, were dispersed among the Nations, and return'd no more to their own Land.

The Cause of this unpartalled Instance of God's Wrath, was their Idolatry, as the Lord speaks, 1 Kin. 17. 10, 11. They set them up images and Groves in every high Hill, and under every green Tree: And there they burnt incense in all the high Places,

These alfo for their obstinate love to Graven Images, elpecially the Egyptian Idols, were carried Captive to Babylon. This is mention'd by Ezekiel, among the Causes of Juda's Captivity, Ezek. 8. and 16 Chapters.

The Babylonist Captivity effectually cured the Jews of their Idolatry, for we do not find that after their Return to their own Land, they ever defiled themfelves with Graven Images. His other Grandfather, Tiberius Cafar, preserv'd inviolable the ancient Religion of the Temple. For when Pilate, Governor of Judea, dedicated Golden Shields in the Holy City, in Honour of Tiberius, which though they had no Image upon them, yet because the Title contain'd the Name of the Person Dedicating, and his to whom it was Dedicated; the Fewish Nobles remonstrated against them, and Address'd Tiberius on this Occasion, who order'd them to be remov'd to Cafarea.

4. The Idolatry of Judah, confisted also in worthipping the True God by visible Representation. This is Evident by the Demand which God make unto the Idolatrous Jews, to whom will ye like God? This proves that the Images which the Jews made and worshipp'd, were Images of God; and the worshipping of Jehovah by these, was the Abomination for which the Lord cast them out of his fight.

When God gave them his Law and spoke to them out of the Fire, they saw no manner of similitude, least they should be tempted to make any Image of Moses inters hence, that they must not make any Graven Image, the similitude of any Figure whatfoever, on Earth, in the Air, or Water, † Deut. 4. 15, nor must they Worship the Sun, Moon 16, 17, 18,19. and Stars. +

All Artificial Representations of God in the shape of any Creature, are here forbidden; as also the worshipping of God by any of his Creatures, tho' never fo Noble and Glorious, as the Sun, Moon, and Stars; these declare his Glory, but God will not share his Glory with them. And if we must not worship God's Creatures, much less a Creature of our own making. The Stars are God's illustrious Workmanship, Images are the Workmanship of Man. fation was more accommodated to the Infant State of the Church, and had many Carnal Ordinances and Sensible Representations of Heavenly Things. Their Sanctuary, Sacrifices, Priesthood, and in a manner the whole Frame of their Religion, was Typical and Figurative. God led them by Jensible Things, to the Knowledge and Contemplation of Things Spiritual and Intelledual. The Apostle calls this their Servile State, when they were in Bondage un-+ Gal. 4. 3. der the Elements of the World +

But in this Infant and Servile State of the Church, the Use of Images was forbidden; and if they were unlawful then, how much more now under the Gospel, when the Shadows are done away, and the Church arrived at full Age? The very Ceremonies of the Old Law, are now become weak and beggarly Elements. (s.) If the sensible Emblems of Divine Things, which God once com- (1) Gal. 4. 9. manded, be done away by the Gospel, can it be thought that fensible Images, which he has

Christ was manifested to destroy the Works of the Devil. The Invention and Adoration of Images, is one of the Chief of the Works he came to destroy. Whereever the Gospel came in the Power of it, it turn'd the Gentiles from Idols to God, to serve the living and true God. 6. II. The Tendency of the Gospel, is to bring us to a Life of Faith. God hath reveal'd himself more fully and clearly in Fesus Christ, than he had in the Old Law. No Man bath seen God at any time, but Fesus Christ hath declared him. (w) He

As therefore no Image can be made of God the Father, no more can any Image he made of the Son of God, because he and the Father are one, he in the Father, and the Father in him. The Humane Nature of Christ did not subsist one Moment, but in the Union of the Godhead; and therefore to paint or represent his Humanity, is to make a false Image of him: It is to represent the Person of the Son of God in the Person of a Man. He took not on him the Person of a Man, as the Nestorian Heresy affirm'd, and therefore ought not to be painted in the Form of a Man, which is to represent him as a Humane Person. 'Tis not therefore the Person of Christ that the Image represents, but his Humane Form, which is no Person. And fince it is not the Image of the Person of Christ, it is not the Image of Christ, and if it be not the Image of Christ, it is a Falsity, and a Doctrine of Lies.

We must behold Christ with an Eye of Faith, in his Word and Ordinances, as sitting on the Right Hand of God, cloath'd with Glory and Majesty, which no Eye hath seen, nor can it be express'd by the Art of Painters and Statuaries. This puts me in mind of Eusebius's Answer to Constantia the Empress, who sent to him for the Image of Christ.

What kind of Images of Christ does your Imperial Majetty defire to be fent you? Is it his True unchangeable Image, or is it that which he assumed for our Sakes, being cloath'd with the Figure and Form of a Servant? As to the Form of God, I presume you seek not after that, because no Man hath known the Son but the Father, nor hath any Man known the Father but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

But you inquire after the Image of the Form of a Servant, and of the little Body with which he was cloathed for our Sakes: But we are taught to believe that his Body is temper'd with the Glory of the Deity, and that which was Mortal, is fwallowed up of Life. Who can describe the most bright and darling Lustre of the Divine Glory and Majesty, in dead and lifeless Colours, and with

6. III. Images are fo far from helping forward Men's Devotion, that they are most destructive of it, for they beget in them low and unbecoming Thoughts of the Majesty and incomprehensible Perfections of the Deity. They dispose them to think God like themselves, to measure the Infinite Being and his Transcendent Powers, by the debasing Forms of frail Humanity. They tend to confound the Ideas of the Creator and Creature, and to level the Most High with defiled Duft. Nothing can be more dishonourable to God, or more incontistent with the Fear and Love which is due unto him, than to paint him in a Humane Shape. These diminutive Representations of Infinite Majesty, instead of missing our Minds towards God, do depress our Thoughts, and extinguilh in us all sublime and exalted Ideas of God. Hence the Heathen by framing their Notions of a Divinity by fentible Forms and Images, limited his Prefence and Power, and confined his Boundless and Immense Essence, to the inchanted Circles of Confeerated Places. The Glory of the Divine Majesty is beheld beheld not in the defiled Works of fordid Mechanicks, but in those Noble and unimitable Works which himself hath wrought, for a perpetual and visible Monument of his Eternal Power and Godhead. These are not only Laymens Books, wherein the Divine Persections are written in the most radiant and indelible Characters, which are intelligible to the meanest Capacities; but they contain such profound Mysteries and impenetrable Depths, as are sufficient to exercise and puzzle the most inquisitive Intellects.

Its pretended that Images are useful to bring God the Father, and his Son Jesus Christ to our Remembrance: But those Images which proceed from forgetfulness of God, cannot be proper means to bring him to our Remembrance. What the Prophet speaks of Idolatrous Temples, may be applied to Images, Hosh. 8. 14. Israel hath forgotten his Maker, and builds Temples. The Apostle also assirus, that such as chang'd the Glory of the Incorruptible God, into the Image of a Corruptible Man, did not the like to retain God in their Knowledge.

Fesus Christ hath appointed the Sacred Use of Bread and Wine, as a Solemn Commemoration of him, but hath lest us no Visible Forms or Figures to represent his Person. There is not the least intimation in all the New Testament of any Image or Picture of Christ, either as injoyn'd by him, or used by any of

A Person that had never seen the New Testament, and observing the vast Number of Images, wherewith the Romish Temples and Oratories abound, and the Religious Deserence which is every where paid unto them, would be apt to conclude, that the Law of Christ authorizes the Sacred Use of Images, which are forbidden by the Law of Moses; that every Page of the New Testament is full of the Dostrine of Images.

Images and Crucifixes, that they are as much injoin'd in the Gospel, as they were prohibited in the Law. But if the Romanists were so faithful to their Votaries, as to let them see with their own Eyes, the New Testament would soon convince them, that Graven Images are as contrary to the New, as they are to the Old Testament: That the Gospel confirms the Origen affirms the Christian Doctrine to be this. That none of those things which are prepared by Men, and applied to the Honour of the Gods, can be ' lawfully worshipp'd, either without God, the Creator of all Things, or together with him. For to compare things, not fit to be compared, with him who infinite-'ly excels all created things, is the Work (k) Contra of those whose Understandings are

Arnobius brings in the Heathen accusing the Christians, that They built no Temples for Religious Worship, that they erected no Image or Picture to any of the Gods, &c. Arnobius owns matter of Fact to be true, and fays, that this Kind of Honour would provoke the Laughter or Indignation of the Gods, if they be + Arnob. VI.

3. How comes Pilate to make Images of Christ, did the Roman Governor turn Painter? It does not appear he had any Conversation with him, or any Knowledge of him, before he was brought before him to be Crucified by him. He erected a Title for him, fignifying the pretended Crime, why he condemned him, and a Cross, on which he was Crucified, but he sets up no Statue or Image in Honour of him. So that the first Invention of the Images of Christ was sounded in a Lye, a meet beginning for a Practise which grossy deviates from the Truth, and has introduced the Worship of Images,

The Inhabitants said that this Image resembled Christ. It remained unto our Times, for being once in that City, I my self saw it.

On which Narrative the Learned Historian hath this Remark.

'We must not wonder that the Heathen having obtained some Benefit by Jesus Christ, should do these things, since I have seen the Pictures of the Apostles, Peter and Paul, and even of Jesus Christ, preferved in Frames. Because those of

It is evident then, that the use of Images in the Christian World, was derived from the Pagans, and the respect which is paid them, is a Superstitious Imitation of Insidels, who could not distinguish between Christ and his Apostles, but made Saviours in common of them, and gave them equal Honour. None but Hereticks and Pagans had Images of Christ at this time. As to the Images at Casarea Philippi, I cannot think they were erected by the Woman, whose Cure they are said to represent, because the was poor, having spent all her Livelyhood on Physicians. (p) I will not dispute the Virthey were Natural, or Preternatural, to promote Idolatry by the subtle Master of the Magicians, who might get it transplanted thither to give Credit to the Image. I cannot think the True God would work any Miracles by that Plant, to give reputation to a Molten Image erected by Pagans. It is certain that the Inhabitants of that Place, were generally nerally Idolaters, and that the Devil, or his Agents, the Pagan Priests, imposed upon their Credulity, by causing the Pagan Sacrifices that were thrown into the Fountains of Jordan all of a sudden to disappear, until the Prayers of Astu-H. VII. 17. rias the Senator, put a nop to the Im-

Its probable, that this Image at Cefarea Philippi was fet up by the Gnostic Hereticks, whose Religion was intirely Pagan, sprinkled with a few Christian Terms. Their Æones, and the Generation of them, they borrow'd from Hessod's Theogonia, as Epiphanes observes, † or from Antiphanes the Comedian, as Ireneus affirms. || We have proved above that the Gnosticks had Images; this of Christ and the Woman with the Bloody Issue, was probably fet up by them, for they made this Woman with her Twelve Years Infirmi-

These Historical Monuments proved the occasion of Idolatry, and were soon abused to Superstition, which occasion'd several Worthy Men to declare against 'em, as things of dangerous Consequence.

The Council of Eliberis forbad the fetting up of Pictures in Temples, in the beginning of the IVth Age, Can. 36. It pleases us, that no Pictures be in any Church, lest that which is Worshipped and Adored be Painted on Walls. This Canon extends to Pictures of Christ, as well as of the Father; for Jesus Christ is the Object of Religious Worship, and according to the Council, nothing that is Worshipp'd ought to be Painted on the Walls.

Epiphanius, Bishop of Constantia in Cyprus, who Brm 320 flourished about the Year, 368, Zealously opposed Dud 403

the bringing of Images into Churches.

'As I entered into a certain Church, faith he, at Anablatha, near Bethel, I found there a colour'd Veil Painted, and having the Image of Christ, or fome other Saint; for I do not well remember whose Image it was. When I saw the Image of a Man hanging in the Church of Christ, contrary to the Authority of the Scriptures, I tore it, and advifed the Keepers of the Place, to make a Winding-Sheet of it to Bury some Poor Man in. But they murmur'd, and said, fince he hath (*) Epiph. Jotorn it, he ought to have given 'em han. Epo. Which, when I heard another. Hierof. in Hi-I promised to send them another eron. Tom.If. Epift. LX. speedily, and did so. (r)

To this agrees a Passage, Cited out of his Books sainst Idolatry, by the Fathers in the Council of Confiant stantinople, under Constantine Copronymus, against Images; the words are thefe:

Take heed unto your felves, and observe the Traditions which you have receiv'd. Bring no Images into the Churches, or Church yards of the Saints, no, nor into your common Houses; but have God by way of Remembrance in your Hearts. For it be-and the Wandrings of his Mind.

The fecond Council of Nice excepts against these Books, as not receiv'd by any Christian. † But this is false, for the 338 Bithops

t Act. VI. Tom. 5. The Council above mention'd received as Authentick. 'Tis certain, that the Doctrine contained in them is agreeable to Epiphanius his undeniable Practice.

John Chrysoftom also is Cited by the faid Council,

We enjoy the Presence of the Saints by the Scriptures, not having it he Image of their Bodies, but of their Minds. For their Sayings are the

' mage of their Minds.

Amphilochius, Bishop of Iconium, professes in the Name of the Christians, 'That they were not Solicitous to draw the Pictures of the Saints Carnal Part, because they needed not their Images, but a Virtuou

Imitation of their Lives.

All that the Nicene Image worshippers can say to these Testimonies, is, that we may imitate the Saints by beholding their Pictures: But they may take notice of the main End for which they were alledged by the Fathers at Constantinople, which was to prove, that in the Opinion of these excellent Do Gors, Images were improper Means to promote De votion and Virtue; for Chrysostom saith, That they had not the Image of their Bodies, and their Sayings Recorded in the Scriptures, are the Images of their Minds:

About the Year 600, Images began to be Wor-shipped in some Places, for which Reason Serenus, Bishop of Marseilles broke em, and threw em out of the Church, as appears by Gregory, Bishop of Rome's Letter to him, in which he tells him, 'That' he was inform'd that he had broken, and cast out of the Church, the Images which he had observed fome to Worship. He commends his Zeal against Worshipping that which is made with Hands, but judges that he ought not to destroy those Images.

up in Churches, that such as cannot Lib. vii. Inread, may behold on the Walls what diff. II. Ep.

they cannot read in Books. (s.) 109.

Gregory's Great Name, and Extensive Authority bore down all Opposition to the setting up of Images in Churches. So that from the Date of this Decretal Epistle, we may reckon the Establishment of Images. And the Gregory himself was against Worshipping of 'em, the Publick and Authorized Use of 'em soon introduced Image-worship, as will appear in the next Age, of which hereafter:

§. VII. But this did not so generally prevail, until lying Miracles and Visions were invented and spread abroad to give Countenance to this new sort of Worship, or rather the old Pagan Worship re-

Baronius tells another fine Story out of Theophanes, which he fays is worthy of Admiration. In the Year, 780, a certain Man digging at the long Walls of

He wou'd have faid, thou shalt see him again. This is also a Blunder in the old Prophet of Bethel: but behold a worse, he blasphemously overthrows the second Appearance of Jesus Christ, and makes it to confift in fetting up Images of him in the Face of the Sun.

This is fuch a Miracle as overcharges any Faith that is not strong enough to digest Transubstantiation: We whose Faith is guided by the Holy Scriptures, cannot conceive that the Image of Christ shou'd pour out such a prodigious quantity of Blood as was not to be found in his Blessed Body; and that this Imaginary Blood shou'd produce Effects, that the Scriptures no where ascribe to the Precious Blood which our Great Redeemer Shed on the Cross. The Apostles, who expected Salvation by the Blood of Christ, were either unacquainted with this Sanative Virtue of it, or extream Improvident not to preserve it, when Shed on the Cross for the Cure of Distempers.

But the Image-worshippers of the VIIIth Age, were more careful to gain Reputation to Images, by mimicking and misapplying the Sufferings of Jesus Christ, than they were to exalt the Merits of his Precious Blood, and the Dignity of his Person; there is this difference between the Vertues of Christ's Blood, and the Blood of the Image; that Christ's Blood heals the Souls of them that believe, but the Blood of the Image heal'd the Unbelieving Jews.

Constantine, Bishop of Cyprus, mentions a certain Man, who driving a Nail into the Wall, happen'd to pierce the Forehead of St. Peter's Picture which was Painted on the Wall. Hereupon the Man was taken with a fore Head ach, and being Synod. Nic. 2. advised to take out the Nail, he grew

We are sure the Doctrine of Images is no part of the Gospel of Jesus Christ; we must therefore say, concerning the Visions, Revelations, and Miracles by which they pretend to Establish it. If an Angel

CHAP. VI.

Leo Isaurus, Constantinus Copronymus, and the Seventh General Council against Images. P. Gregory II. P. Stephen, and the Second Nicene Council for 'em. Remarks on P. Gregory's Epistles to Leo Isaurus.

6. I. NEither Visions nor Miracles were sufficient to Establish Image-worship in the Christian World, without the Authority of Councils, and the Assistance of the Secular Power, of which I am now to Treat.

Bellarmin confidently affirms, that the first Opposers of Images were the Jews, Mahometans, Magicians and Herelicks. (u) De Reliq. Sanst. Lib. 11. Cap. 6.

This is most false, as we have seen above, and will appear hereaster. If Matter of Fact were true, as it is not, the more shame it is for Image-worshippers, that the very Jews shou'd condemn their Idolatry. That as a Pagan once reproved Jonah, a true Prophet, and an As reproved the Madness of another F 4 profess'd profes'd Prophet, so the Fews condemn the Idolatry of Christians, and shall rife up in Judgment against em. But how come the Fews to condemn Images? Because the God of Israel forbids Images in the Second Commandment, to which all the Sophistry of the Car. dinal will never be able to reconcile 'em.

But faith Bellarmin, the Fews first opposed Images in their Talmud, which came out, A. D. CDLXXVI. wherein they call the Christian Churches, Houses of Idolatry. It is to be lamented, that the Idolatry of profess'd Christians shou'd be a Stumbling block to the Jews, and prejudice 'em against Christianity.

The Fewish Council, held October 22. 1650. is a lamentable Instance of the Truth of this: 'The ' Council met in the Plain of Ageda, 30 Leagues from Buda in Hungary, to fearch the Scriptures concerning the Meshab, whether he was already come, and who he was. Several argued the Posfibility of Jesus being the Messiah, from his Miracles, their unparallel'd Desolation, and Captivity ' fince his Crucifixion, and the Lord's not answering their Prayers, as formerly. After feven Days debate the Romish Deputies were called in, namely, two Jesuits, two Franciscan, and two Augustin Fryars, to inform 'em, that if Felus be the Melhab, what Rules and Orders he has left his Followers to walk by.

' These Popish Champions being admitted, forgot the Cause of Christ, and spake not a word for him or it; but began to Solicit 'em to become Profe-' lites to their Holy Catholick Church (as they call ' that of Rome) whose Rules and Governments, ' faid they, are the only Institutions of Christ, whose Vicar the Pope is, &c. They Afferted Transubstantiation, Invocation of Saints, and in pir ticular of the Virgin, the Adoration of the Cross, &c.

b. II. Instead of enquiring who first opposed Images, Bellarmin shou'd have given an account who first introduced 'em into the Christian Church; for from the beginning the Christians had no Images. They cou'd not be opposed before they were in Being, and they were used for Ornament before they were Worshipped.

Leo Isaurus, Emperor of Constantinople, in the Year 726, illu'd out an Edict for Demolishing of Images, (x) when he had observ'd 'em (x) Baron. to be generally abused to Idola-Aunal. ad A.

In the Year 730, he call'd a Council, wherein the Point of Images, the Intercession of the Virgin Mary, and the Saints, and the Relicks of the Dead were Debated. After these Points were discussed, the Adoration of Relicks and Images, and the Intercession of Saints were condemned by the Council as Idola-

refused to Subscribe the Decrees of the Council, until they were confirmed by a General Council, and of his own accord he laid down his Episcopal Charge:

The Council substituted Anastasius in his Place. † Baronius takes no notice of this Council, and the Image-worship pers have taken care to destroy the Alls of it, and to suppress the Names of the Bishops that fate in it.

The Libellus Synodicus calls it a Wicked Council held in the Imperial Palace. Baronius observes out of the Acts of Stephen the Monk, that the Emperor conven'd a Council of Senators. In the second Nicene Council, the Bishop of Nacolia, and others are said to have approv'd what was Decreed against Images.

It appears by P. Gregory's Epistle to Leo, that he won'd have call'd a General Council, in these words, You have written that there shou'd be Summon'd a General Council, but that seems to us an unprofitable thing.

Platina mentions a Decree of Leo. In Vit. for removing the Cause of Idolatry. + Ba-Greg. II. ronius confesses, that Leo at first had no thoughts of destroying Images, but to raise them higher in the Churches, that they might + Ad. AD. not be Worshipp'd by the People. + But 726. Num. 3. the violent Oppositions made to this Edid by Germanus and his Confederates, and by the Pope of Rome, produced another Order of the Emfor the removing of Images out of all Churches, and the Destroying of 'em, as Monuments and Motives of Idolatry. Hence the Name of Iconoclasts, or Image-breakers, which was given to the Emperor and his Party.

Observe how contrary the Pope's Judgment is to that of God; God saith in the Second Commandment, that the Makers and Worshippers of Images do hate him. The Pope imputes the Hatred of God to the Breakers of Images.

Besides, it is worth noting, that the Pope Established Images in the West, by an infamous Desettion from his lawful Prince, and calling in a Foteigner to Usurp his Dominions. This Rebellion succeeded so well, that the Roman Pontifs have fince erected an Office of transfering Empires.

This fatal Division of the Empire, which was wholly owing to Papal Bigotry for Images, occasion'd the Ruine of Christianity in the East, and the Establishment of the Mahometan Powers, under which the poor Remains of the Greek Churches groan to this Day.

In the Year 732, Pope Gregory III. held a Council at Rome of 93 Bishops, in which he Excommunicated the Emperor and his Adherents, if they continu'd to oppose Images.

The same Pope, as Baronius saith out of Anastasius, set up in divers Churches at Rome, many famous and very valuable Images, of Christ, of the

The Effect of this Council was the breaking of Images in pieces, the burning of 'em, and the defacing of those that were Painted on the Wall. The Annalist adds, that the Emperor obliged the People of Constantinople to Swear by the Body of Christ, the Sacred Cross, and the Holy Evangelifts, that they wou'd no more Wor- (c) Ibid. ad thip Images, but that they would call 6.7. them Idols. (c.)

In the Year 762, the Turks made Irruptions into Armenia, a just Punishment, saith Baronius, for opposing Images, and the Ad An. 763:

Monkish Image-mongers_+

The truth is, they are the terrible Instruments of God's Vengeance on the Christians for their Idolatry, as was foretold (in Rev. 9. 15 .---) That the four Angels that were bound at the River Euphrates, should be let loofe with their mighty Armies to plague the Ido. latrous impenitent World, Rev. 9. 20, 21.

In the Year 766, there was a Council at Gentiliace in France, in which the Case of Images was debated, the Acts of it are lost or dettroy'd. (d) It is probable it was (d) Ad. An.

against Images, as were the French Bi. 1766. N. 2. shops of this Age: And that is the reason why they are not to be found. It appears that the image-worthippers have suppress'd the Acts of other Councils that were against Images; as the Council of Constantinople, under Leo Isaurus, the Acts of which are not to be found in the Editions of the Councils.

In the Year 769, Stephen, Pope of Rome, called a Council at Rome, in which were 12 Select French Bishops, sent for by the Pope the Year before. This Roman Council Anathematiz'd all that had been Decreed by the Council at Constantinople against Images, and approved the Synodal Epistle of the three Patriarchs of the East, written to Patriarchs of the East, written to Pope Paul for the Adoration of Ima-

Ann. 775.

Michael the Emperor (doubtless at the Instigation of the Idolatrous Monks, and other Image-worshippers, who had been Punish'd by Constantine for their Obstinacy) digg'd up his Body, together with the Body of John, Patriarch of Constantinople, who was an Image-breaker, and Omophorius his Body, several Years after their Death, which were shew'd unto the People, severely beaten, and afterwards burnt. (f) This is an Instance of the burnt. (f) This is an infrance of the barbarous and inhuman Temper of the Party.

In the Year 780, Leo IV. Emperor of Constantinople, reviv'd the Severities against the Image worshippers, which were occasion'd by his finding two Images under his Empress Irene her Bolster, for which he put her off, and never wou'd lye with her more. (g)

6. III. We are come at length to the Second Council of Nice, in which Image worship was restored and Established.

This Council was held under Constantine, and his Mother Irene, in the Year 787, they met first in the Year 786 at Constantinople, but the Soldiers, who had adhered to Constantine Copronymus, being zealous against Image-worship, disturbed the Bishops, which obliged em to remove to Nice, where they Established Impiety by a Law: But of this hereafter.

But Copronymus was a Heretick, say the Fathers of the Nicene Council. He was no more a Heretick than the Reforming Kings of Ifrael, who destroy'd Idolatry, especially King Hezekiah, who destroy'd the Brazen Serpent, when it was abused to Idolatry, tho' it was originally of Divine Institution; the Images which Copronymus destroy'd were not so, and they had been abused to Idolatry near two hundred Years before, as we have observed out of Pope Gregory's Epistle to Serenus, Bishop of Marseilles. Johannes Cancellarius objects against it, how can that be called the Seventh, which (b) In Bingrees not with the Six General Countrols.

This is an unjust Imputation on the Council, for they received the Six General Councils, as appears by the A&s of this Council, which are recited in the Sixth Action of the Second Nicene Council.

It is objected further, that the Pope of Rome had fent no Deputies thither, nor confented to it.

The Pope's Consent is not Essential to the Acts of a General Council; for Pope Honorius is condemn'd for a Heretick in the Sixth General Council, in which his Epistles were burnt. And in their Seventh General Synod, in the last Action, the whole Council denounces an Anathema against Honorius, Sergius, Cyrus, and the rest of the Monothelites.

Pontiff, by faying, either the Council was Corrupted, which he cannot prove, Rom. IV. Cap.

or else that the Fathers were misinform'd concerning Honorius. (i)

Let the Pope be guilty or innocent, 'tis sufficient to my Purpose, that two Universal Councils censur'd him for a Heretick; which proves they did not take the Pope to be Infallible, nor his Consent Essential to their Acts.

Hence it follows, that a Council may be General without a Pope, and that an Heretical Pope may be justly condemn'd by such a Council. The absence of the Pope, and the Eastern Patriarchs is an Evidence of their Guilt, but derogates not from the Authority of the Council. They ought to have appear'd in the Council, and Pleaded for their Dumb Idols, if they had any thing to fay for 'em. and any as

The Council of Constantinople, which consisted of 338 Bishops, and condemned sunage worship, according to the Scriptures, was more justly Entitled to the Denomination of General, than the Nicene Assembly, who Established the Worship of Images, contrary to the Scriptures. The First Council of Nice, consisted but of 318 Bishops. The Second General Council at Constantinople had but 150 Bishops, and there was no Bishop of Rome in it, either in his own Person, or by his Legares. In the General Council of Ephesus against Nestorius, there were about 200 Bishops.

The fecond Council of Nice, tho' it had about 350 Bishops, had none from the West, but the Pope's two Legates.

The Papists themselves are not agreed about the Authority of this Council. Albertus Pighius wrote a Book, to prove the Sixth and Seventh Councils both forged. The Seventh was then newly Published, but from what Copy, or upon what Authority, he says, was unknown. Turrianus undertook their Defence. Bellarmin is for Compounding the Business, and is willing

Greg. Lib. 5. ep. 14. (m)

We have therefore reason to suspect, that the Acts of the Council of Constantinople, under Copronymus, which are recited in the Second Council of Nice have been corrupted, and are not truly represented.

Bellarmin affirms, it was the usual practice of the Greeks to Corrupt Authors. This he proves from the several Corruptions which the Fathers of the Sixth Council discover'd in the Fifth General Council. Pope Leo complains, that the Greeks had corrupted his Epistle to Flavianus in his Life-time, Epist. 83. ad Palestin. Pope Gregory charges the Constantinopolitans with corrupting the Council of Chalcedon, and suspects they had hone the like by the Council of Epbesus. P. 1000.

The Romanists may shake hands with the Greeks for corrupting the Fathers and Councils. Their Index Expurgatorius proves the former; Dr. Comber's unanswerable Discourse of Roman Forgeries demonstrates the latter. But more hereafter of these Coun-

§. IV. Let us consider what the Second Nicene Council can say in Defence of Image-worship.

We will begin with Pope Gregory's Epistles to Leo Waurus, which are prefixed to the Acts of that Council.

In the first Epistle, he tells the Emperor, 'That to destroy Images was to Scandalize the whole World, Luke 16. 2. That the Second Commandment forbid Pagan Images, that the crassus. Emperor is Unlearned and Blockish for not

' not understanding this; that God commanded two

" Tables of Stone to be hew'd, Cherubims and Sera ' phims to be made, the Golden Table, and the Ark, and are not these Figures and Images? That Christ hath said, where the Body is, there the Eae gles will gather together, Matth. 24. Christ is the Carcals, and the Eagles that fly on high are Religious Men; who when they faw the Lord, took his Picture that others might fee him. In like " manner, they took the Picture of James, the Lord's Brother, and of Stephen the Protomartyr. Augarus, King of Edessa wrote to Christ, who fent him an Answer under his own Hand, with his Sacred and Glorious Face; that we Worthip I mages not as Gods, but we Worthip Christ and the Saints by their Images. The fight of Images raise Comput

' Etion in us.

These are the Pope's Arguments for Images. As to the First, It was not the Destroying, but the Ere Aing of Images that has proved a Scandal, and Stumbling block unto the World, whereby thou fands have perish'd under the dreadful Guilt of Idola try. It was not the destroying, but the (n) Fudg. 8.27. ferring up of Gideon's Ephod, that prov's a Scandal and a Snare unto Gideon. (1) to their Images.

It was not the Destroying, but the Burning Incent to the Brazen Serpent that provoked (0) 2 King. (o) The Romanists burn Incent God. 18.4.

2. We have proved above, that the Second Com mandment, forbids all Images of God the Father and of his Son Fefus Christ. The Emperor was no Blockish, as the Insolent Pope impudently tells hi Soveraign Prince, but was quick of Understanding in the Fear of the Lord, and used the Power which God had given him to cut off the Occasions of Idola faith not try.

3. The Tables of Stone, Altar, and Ark, were no Images to be Worshipp'd, and therefore are impertinently alledged. The Cherubims were out of the Peoples fight, were not made to be Worshipp'd, and were fet up by express Command. Popish Images are fet up in the view of all, that they may be Worthipped, not only without, but against the express Commandment of the Lord.

4. Gregory's Fourth Argument is a gross perverting of the Holy Scripture; none but a Man of the Pope's Acuteness wou'd have call'd the Person of our Bleffed Saviour a Carcass, and Painters high-flying

This is fuch a Commentary on the Words of Christ (Matth. 24.) as gives but an odd Idea of the Infallible Intellect of a Pope. He shou'd have told the Emperor, who were these Religious High flyers, when, and where they took the Pictures of Christ and his Apostles.

The Epistle of Abgarus, and Christ's Answer, are suspected by Valesius to be Spurious. (p) The Story of Christ's sending (1.) Annot. in lola H. Eccl. Euhis Pidure to him, was invented after Eusebius his Time, who met with no such thing in the Records of Edessa.

Abgarus directs his Letter ' to Fesus, the Good Saviour, who appear'd in the Coasts of Ferusalem. He concludes from his Miracles, that he is either God come down from Heaven, or the Son of God.

How comes the King of Edessa to know Jesus Christ to be a Saviour, and to have appear'd among Men, and to be God, or the Son of God? Christ night have faid concerning this Man, as he did conerning the Centurion, that he had not found so great aith, no, not in Israel: And, if so, how comes his aith not to obtain the same Effect of a present Cure, as that of the Centurion. Abgarus was not heal'd of his Disease till Christ was ascended to Heaven.

The Expressions of Saviour, and the Appearance of the Son of God, are apparently taken out of the Gospel, and cou'd not proceed from a Heathen Prince without special Revelation.

Christ's Answer to him begins thus, Bleffed art thou, O Abgarus, who hast believed in me whom thou haft not feen.

These words are taken out of John 20.29. whose Gospel was written long after this pretended Epistle of Christ. It is also very unlikely that

Tropic pungo-Abgarus, a Petty King of a very little City, 1 as he himself calls it, should tell Thaddeus, when he came to him, that he would have made a War on the Jewish Nation, and de firoy'd 'em for Crucifying Christ, but that he fear'd the Romans.

Eusebius calls him romigens, which Valesius renders bujus civitatis regulus. In his Epistle, he stiles himself remignes edwars, the little Prince of Edella. Toparcha, according to Calepin, is the Governor The En of one Province, or Place, which was called a to be and he refers us to this History of Afferti Toparchy, Abgarus. Such a Petty Prince was no March for destroy the Jewish Nation, if the Romans had stood New the Je ters.

5. Gregory's Fifth Argument, that they Wor If it ship'd Christ and the Saints by their Images, has to defend been consider'd above in the Jewish and Pagan tells his Idolatry. The Jews Worshipp'd God by Images first Tento did the wifer Pagans. The Romish Idolatry is vations therefore the same in Substance with that of the Jewand Idolatry is part of the Jewans. and Pagans.

God will bless only his own Ordinances; and Satan, who transforms himself into an Argel of Light, may excite some counterfeit Affections by Graven Images, the more to recommend 'em to Superstitions Persons.

7. This Epistle informs us of the true Reason, why the Emperor Demolished Images; it was because they were abused to Idolatry.

Baronius himself confesses, that the Emperor that An. 726. was first put upon destroying Images by Theophilus, Metropolitan of Macolia in Phrygia. †

8. Another thing remarkable in the Pope's Letter, is the huffing Language which he gives the Emperor, his Lord and Sovereign. We observ'd above, how he calls him Ignorant and Blockish. He tells him, That he has nothing to do in Church Affairs; that tho' the Emperor had written to him to have a General Council call'd, be judged it needless and unprofitable: That his oppofing Images is Turbulent, Infolent, and Proud: That he and his Brother Germanus, Bishop of Constantinople, who was also an s Image-worshipper, had Power to loose things in · Heaven and on Earth. He commends the Zeal of the Women of Chalcopratia, who kill'd the Emperor's Officer as he was destroying the Image of Christ, in Obedience to the Emperor's Command; and blames the Emperor for fending his Soldiers to " Murder he knows not how many Women: He calls the Emperor's Actions juvenile, and puerile; infults him on the account of the Contempt done his Image in the West, where it was trampled, and broken to pieces: Reproaches him with the In curfions of the Lombards, and other Northern Na tions, who had wasted Decapolis, and taken Ra venna; all which he suffer'd for his Impudence and Folly.

It cannot be the Spirit of Christ, but of Anti-christ, that directed a Subject thus to insult and threaten his Sovereign; to approve the most barbarous Assassination of another Emperor in the most Sacred Place, by the Hereticating Judgment of the Bishops, Men of the most Sacred Character, to pronounce St. Peter, the Terrestrial God of all the Western Kingdoms.

I have given the fuller Account of this first Epifile of Gregory to Leo Isaurus, because it contains the Substance of the Arguments for Images, and gives a just Idea of the chief Patron of 'em.

s. V. Pope Gregory's Second Epistle to Leo Isanrus, has no new Arguments in Defence of Images. It seems his Holiness had spent all his Ammunition in his First Epistle, which wrought no Change in the Emperor, as he complains in the beginning of this Epistle, in which he Censures the Emperor for 'not' following the Holy Fathers, Gregory Thaumaturgus. Greg. Nyssen, and Greg. the Theologue, Basil and Chryfostom. He blames the Emperor for Ciling himself Emperor and Priest, shews the difference between both.

The Emperorasks the Pope, How came it to pass, that there is nothing said of Images in the Six General Councils?

The Pope answers, 'Even as there is nothing said in them about Eating and Drinking, because the Necessaries of Life were appointed from the begining: So were Images delivered, and the Bishops brought Images to the Councils, nor are there any lovers of Christ, or Religious Persons who travel without 'em.

4. The Pope again reproaches the Emperor's Foolish and Blockish Intellect, because it's not of the same fize with that of his Papal Humility. But if we believe the Prophet, who saith, that those that trust to Graven Images are like unto them, they that worship Blocks have the most Blockish Intellects.

Christ to send the Devil to the Emperor? Peter Pray'd to Christ to deliver Souls from the Devil, and the Pope Prays 'em to the Devil. St. Paul bids us Pray for Pagan Emperors, and Pope Gregory Prays against a Christian Emperor. Indeed the Aposse delivers an Inecstuous Person to Satan, that is, casts him out of the Church into the Kingdom of Satan; but but he Prays not unto God to fet the Devil upon him, as the Pope doth.

6. His Answer to the Emperor's Question, Why the Sixth Councils made no mention of Images, is very Comical, because, forfooth, they do not mention Meat and Drink; as if Images were as necessary for Devotion, as Meat and Drink are for the Support of Life. Pope Gregory shou'd have prov'd, that the Bishops brought Images to the Six General Councils.

We are told indeed, that Justinian the Emperor, and some others before him, had Painted in the Porch of the Temple of Sophia at Constantinople, the Bithops who had been at the Six General Councils, but they were not fet up to be Worshipp'd.

Philippicus, Emperor of Constantinople, being a Monotheline, order'd these Pictures to be razed out, not out of any dislike to Images, as Bellarmin observes; thut in Opposition to the Sixth Council which had condemn'd the Monothelites. Pope Constantine, to shew his Respect to the Six General Councils, caused 'em to be curiously Painted in the Porch of St. Peter's Church at Rome: And he Decreed, that the Name of Philippicus shou'd not be receiv'd at Rome in any publick or private Writings,

(u) Plat. in nor his Image stamp'd on their Coin. (u) But this does not prove that the Fathers of the Six General Councils

Pope Gregory Suggests.

7. It appears by this Epistle, that Pope Gregory, and Germanus were the two Champions of the Image-worshippers; and that by Virtue of their Power of Binding and Loosing things in Heaven and Earth, they thought themselves Infallible, and that they cou'd not be charged with any Error. This is usually called the Key of Dodrine and Discipline; but if the Pope, or any other Bishop misuse the Keys, by binding where Christ looses, or loosing where Christ binds, they may shut themselves out of the Kingdom of Heaven, but cannot prejudice fuch as believe in the Son of God, and obey his Gospel. The Keys that pretend to Authorize the Worship of Graven Images, which excludes from the Kingdom of Heaven. can be no other but those of the Bottomless Pit. which were given to a certain Star which was fallen from Heaven, who open'd the Bottomless Pit, fill'd the World with a Hellish Smoak, in the Darkness of which the Worship of Devils, and Idols of Gold, and Silver, and Brass, and Stone + Rev. 9. 1, and Wood, enter'd into the Christian 2, 3, 20, 21. The History of the Second Nicene Synod. Begun at Constantinople. Consisted of Eight Actions: Remarks on Action I. II, III, IV. Their Arguments for Image-worship, Answer'd. First, From Scripture. Secondly, Testimonies of Fathers. Thirdly, Miracles.

THE Second Council of Nice first conven'd at Constantinople, where it met with great Opposition from several Bishops, and a vast number of Laicks, Laicks, who remonstrated against the Assembling of a Synod, and that they ought to confent to the removing of Images. Several Bishops had their Meetings, (or Conventicles, as they were called) and complain'd of the Patriarch, who threaten'd to Sufpend 'em for Conventicling.

The Emperors and States being come, they commanded the Council to meet at the Apostles Church. The Day before they were to fit, the Soldiers came to the Temple in a furious manner, and cried unanimoufly, there shou'd be no Synod held there. However, on the Day appointed they met in the appointed Place, and as they were reading some Synodical Writings, forbidding the holding of an Universal Synod, without the Consent of all the Patriarchs, the Soldiers Tumultyoully Assembled at the Churchdoor, exclaiming against the Council, who were set on by some in the Council that were ill-affected to Images. Whereupon the Government commanded the Council to separate, that they might escape the Popular Fury.

As the Bishops were going out, some of 'em, in Confort with the People, cried up the late Seventh

Adoration of Images. Several Bishops, Senators, and great Officers opposed Image-worship. When the Patrons of Images cou'd not prevail by Argument, they attempted to exclude the other Party from the Congress and Disputation. This occasion'd a Tumult of the People, which yet was soon suppress'd. For the People cou'd not endure to see those that opposed Images excluded the Disputation. When they were re-admitted, the People was quiet.

They return to their Disputation. The Opposers of Images so press'd the I-mage-worshippers with the Testimonies of the Scripture, that despairing the Scripture, that despairing the Scripture, that despairing the System of the Victory, they Dissolved the System of the nod, and took other Measures. +

This Disagreement between Ignatius the Monk, who Publish'd the Life of Tarasius, and Paulus Diaconus, is an Argument, that things are unfairly reprefented by the Monks.

This Narrative shews, that the Empress and her Idol-shepherds, met with greater Difficulties than they expected in establishing Image-worship: That there were great Numbers of Bishops and Laymen, that couragiously afferted the Seventh General Council against Images.

The following Year having cashier'd the Dissenting Bishops, or brought 'em over to their Party, the Patrons of Images met at Nice, not to Consult and Deliberate, whether it was Lawful to Worship Images, but to Decree the Adoration of Images. This appears by Tarasius the Patriarch of Constantinople's Synodical Oration.

The First Adion contains the Testimonies of divers approved Authors, shewing, that penitent Hereticks may be admitted, as may also such Orthodox Persons as have received Impositions of Hands from Hereticks.

In this Action, we have the Names of several Bishops who had opposed Images. These were obliged to renounce their former Heresie, as they call it, and on their publick Recantation, were admitted to sit in the Council. Of this Number, was Basil, Bishop of Ancyra, Theodorus of Myra, and Theodosius of Ammorium. This is a Demonstration, that Freedom of Debates was not to be expected, in this Council, since none were admitted to sit in it but such as declared themselves for Image-Worship.

ACTION II.

§. I. Gregory, Bishop of Neocesaria was introduced into the Council by the Emperor's Messenger, where he made a Recantation of his Heresie in opposing Images, but was not admitted to sit in the Council until they shou'd further consider his Case.

Pope Adrian's Letter to the Emperor was read, in which he presses 'em to restore the Sacred Images, by many Arguments.

First, he tells'em, the Legend of Constantine the Great, 'who being a Persecutor, and a Bloody Man, and also a Leper, dream'd, that St. Peter and St. Paul came to him, and admonished him to send for Pope Silvester, who was sled to hide him in the Mount Soralle, because of the Emperor's Persecution, and the Pope wou'd shew him a Fish pond, by washing in which he shou'd be cured of his Leprose. He sent for Silvester, and having discoursed him about his Dream, ask'd him, if he had the Images of those Apostles; which when Pope Silvester's Deacon brought to the Emperor, he cried out, that these were they whom he had seen. Behold, saith Pope Adrian, how from the very beginning of our ' Religion, all Christians had Images.

God commanded the making of the Tabernacle and Cherubims. Therefore all things that are done ' in the Church for the Honour of God, are Holy and Sacred. God commanded Moses also to make the Brazen Serpent, and to set it up for a Sign. O the Madness of those that will not Worship Images! Were the Israelites heal'd by beholding the Brazen Serpent, and shall we doubt of their being ' faved who behold and Worship the Images of Christ and the Saints ? It is Prophetied, that an Altar and a Pillar shall be in the Land of Egypt, and shall be for "a Witness and for a Sign to the Lord, Ifa. 19. They say, Basil, in an Epistle to Julian the Apostate, makes the Adoration of Images an Article of his Creed, and inferts it next to that of the Re-

" mission of Sins, in these words; for the obtaining of which, I Honour and Adore the Images of the Apofles, Prophets and Martyrs, because by their Intercession I obtain Mercy of the Lord. He cites also Cyril, Athanasius, Epiphanius, &c. for Images.

He also finds fault with Tarafius his Consecration, who from a Laick was made a Patriarch, and concludes, but for his Zeal in setting up Images, he had not confented to his Confecration.

6. II. These are all the Arguments in Pope Adrian's Epistle for Image-worship. The first is tabulous, and makes Constantine a Leper, and a Persecutor, which no Historian that lived in the same Age with him, makes mention of. Eulebius, who professedly wrote his Life, gives a very different account of his Conversion, and affures us, that he was Biprized, not by Pope Silvester, but by Eusebi-() De Vit. us of Nicodemia, a little before his Conftant.

The Council of Ariminum also, which confisted of Western Bishops, do affirm in their Letter to Confantius the Emperor, that his Father (7) Theod. Sccl. Hift. II. Constantine, being Baptized, enter'd into his Reft. (2)

This implies, that he was Baptiz'd not long be fore his Death.

IV. 61.

These Testimonies are sufficient to detect the Falshood of Pope Adrian's Story, which is rejected by the more judicious Romanifts. The Pope's first Argument for Images proves no more but this, that Images which are a Lye, † need the (†) Hab.2.18. support of lying Stories.

2. Adrian's Second Argument, that Abel, Noah, and Jacob served God according to their own Wills, is false. Abel offer'd in Faith, which he cou'd not do without God appear'd to Noah and Jacob, therefore what they did is no Rule for us, who have not the fame Visions of God, which they had. Befides, God declared himfelf well pleased with the Sacrifices, Altars, and Pillars, wherewith they Honour'd God; but what is this to Images, which God has forbidden, and declared to be displeasing to him? Let us put this Argument into Form, the Patriarchs offer'd Sacrifices, which God commanded and accepted; therefore we may Worship Images, which God forbids and abbors. The Pope's Divinity and Logick are equally Infallible. He gravely infers, All things what soever that are apprinted by humane Discretion for the Honour of God. are pleasing to him. Rare Divinity! his Staff to support his weak Body; while he Bleffed his Children, and Worshipped. The Pope leaves out the word upon, which is in the Seventy, and in the Apostle, and wou'd have us imagine he Worshipp'd the top of his Staff.

Austin understands the place, as we do, that facebe Worshipp'd God, resting his Body on a Staff, as old Men use to do: And it appears from him, that the

7. As to Basil's inserting the Doctrine of Images in the Creed, which he fent to Julian, we will allow it to be an Article fit for the Creed of an Apostate Em. peror. But if this be Basil's Creed, it is a very lame one, for he leaves out the Resurrection of the Body, and the Life Everlasting; instead of which he accommodates the Emperor with the Doctrine and Belief of Images, which exclude from the Hope of the Refurrection to Everlafting Life. For Idolaters are that out of the Kingdom of God.

This Omission is very justifiable in an Idolatrous Creed. We are not to be determin'd by the Testimony of Fathers, admitting they were genuine and pertinently applied, as it's certain some are not. they prove, is, that those Fathers who speak favoutably of Images, were Men subject to Error, and did not foresee the gross Idolatry that was occasion'd have by setting up Images in Christian Temples.

One thing more is remarkable in this Epistle, and in the second to Tarasius, that the Pope admits the Uncanonical Consecration of Tarasius, on the account of his Zeal for Images, which otherwise he wou'd have protested against. Let a Man be but Zealous for Images, and the good Pope can overlook the Transgressions of the Canons, which are the Pontificial Law. On the other hand, Baronius reproaches Constantine the Monk, and Bishop of Syleum, for being Uncanonically advanced by Copronymus the Emperor into the See of Constantinople, without the Election of the other Bishops; and he calls him an impure wicked Man, 754. § 6.

But Tarasius is a Person of Eminent Piety with the Cardinal, because of his Zeal for Images. (f) A Pious Man, in the Language of this Age, is an Image-worsshipper, and an Impious Man is one that opposes Images. This is a sure Rule by which we may judge of the Characters of Men, as described by the Historians of the Seventh, and Eighth, and following Centuries, especially the Byzantin Monks, that treat of the Controversie about Images.

Pope Adrian's Epiftle to Tarafius.

6. III. This Epistle has nothing of Argument, but this is confiderable in it, that the Nicene Council was called on purpose to set up Images, and to condemn the Council of Constantinople, which the Pope exhorts Tarafius to bring to the desired Issue, threatning, that if Images be not restored, he dare not receive his Consecration. This Letter being read, Tarasius asks the Fathers, if they received the Pope's Letters, and joyn'd with him in the Adoration of Images. Thus the Council determin'd the Worshipping of Images, on the Credit of the Pope's Letters, without ever putting these Questions, whether it was lawful to make Images of Fefus Christ, who is God-Man? And if it was lawful, whether it was expedient? Since it is possible they might be abused by Idolatry. as they had been in the Diocess of Marseilles. Whether the Second Commandment does not forbid all Image-worship? Whence the Fews were not Idolaters in Worshipping the True God by Graven Images? Whether the Pagan Idolaters, did not many of em Worship an invisible Deity by their Images, which they Worshipp'd only as Representations and Symbols of a Divinity? If fo, whether Christians in imitating their way of Worthip, be not guilty of grofs Idolatry? Whether the Old and New Testament do not forbid all Worship of Images? Whether Christ and his Apostles did ever recommend the Adoration of Images? Whether the Apostles did well in condemning Pagan Images, declaring against the lawfulness of things offer'd to Idols, and exhorting the Christians to flee from Idols? Might they not as well have allow'd their old Images, as the Jesuits doin China, and advise 'em to change the use of 'em, that is, call the Image of Jupiter by the Name of Jehovah, to which Jove is near of Kin, and doubtless is deriv'd from it; call the Image of Mercury, the Messenger of the Gods, by the Name of Christ, the Father's Messenger, and the Image of Venus, by the Name of the Virgin Mary. This wou'd have been a short cut of introducing Christianity into the Pagan World. The Apostles might have told the Pagan Idolaters, ' Gentlemen, we come not to deprive you of your beloved Images, the Symbols of your ancient Religion, but to perswade you by these, or a new Set of Images which we shall give you, to Worship the true God, and Jesus Chrift, and his Mother, and the Saints.

But the Holy Apostles were unacquainted with this Imaginous Method of Converting the Heathen. They condemn'd not only the false Deities of the Gentiles, but all Representations of the True God. St. Paul in his Sermon before the States at Athens, declares that God is not Worshipped with Mens Hands, that Man is the Off spring of God, that therefore we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto Gold.

mages must include him also.

The Nicene Fathers might have been ask'd further, if there be no Evidence in the New Testament, that Christ and his Apostles appointed Images, how came they to be introduced into the Church? Who had Authority to change the whole Frame and Method of Christian Worship? It is certain the Jews had no Images in Christ and his Apostles Time. This is evident from Philo and Tosephus. Did Christianity teach the Fews to Worship Images which they abhorred before? Was their Conversion to Christianity a Conversion from the Hatred of Images to the love of 'em? It appears from the History of the Acts of the Apostles, that the Believing Jews were zealous

Can it be thought that those who were so zealous for the leffer things of the Law, wou'd all of a fudden be reconcil'd to a Practice that was against the expless Letter of the Second Commandment. They charge Sr. Paul with Prophaning the Temple, but not a word of his Worshipping Images. Had he, or any of the Christians introduced any such thing among them, we shou'd soon meet with it among the chief Articles of their Accusation. It is remarkable, that the first Christian Churches were Fewish Converts, who from their very Infancy were taught to abbor Idols. The Gentile Churches grew on the Root of the Tewish, and were planted by the Ministry of Fews, for fuch were all the Apostles. If Images were not introduced by the Fewish Christians, they must owe their Original to the Gentile Christians, who were Converted from Idolatry, and might be tempted to relapse into it again, or at least to retain a Respect for Images, as the Gen. (b) Euseb. tile Converts at Cafarea, who ere-Red a Statue in Honour of Christ. (b) VII. 18.

Besides, the Nicene Fathers might have been defir'd to resolve this Question, if the Christians of the Second and Third Century had Images, how came their Advocates to Father Images on the Gnostick Hereticks, and to justifie the Christians not having Images, when their Pagan Adversaries reproach'd em with the want of them?

Many more Questions of the like nature might, and probably wou'd have been proposed to the Image-worshippers, if Freedom of Speech had been admitted; and the Bishops who had Decreed the Abolition of Images in the Council of Constantinople, had been permitted to sit in the Nicene Council. It appears.

pears, that Tarasius, the Prolocutor of the Synod, was in danger of being disown'd and Excommunicated by Pope Adrian, if he did not set up Images; and that none that were suspected to oppose Images, had any Vote in the Council, until they recanted their wicked Heresie, as it was called.

This made it impossible that Matters shou'd be fairly Debated in the Council, which was Assembled to set up Images, not to Debate the Lawfulness of em. The Fathers met to Decree the Adoration of Images, not to dispute, whether it was according to the Holy Scriptures, or no.

It appears by the Professions of the Fathers, that they were wholly determined by Pope Adrian's Letters, which they swallow'd in the Gross, without examining the fallacious Reasonings of 'em.

After this Epistle was read, the Answer of the Eastern Patriarchs to Tarasius, in which they profess the same Faith with him, and reject the Seventh Council which had condemn'd the Apostolical Tradition, by destroying Images. It is remarkable, that the Patriarchs of Antioch, Jerusalem, and Alexandria resolve the Worship of Images into Tradition. This is a fair Confession that it has no Foundation in the Holy Scriptures. Apostolical Tradition was the specious Name by which Unscriptural Practices were obtruded on the Christian World.

Another thing remarkable in this Epistle, is, that the Bishops of the three Eastern Patriarchates were not permitted by their Governors to go to the Council, nor were there any Bishops from the West The Pope of Rome was represented in the Council by Peter, and Peter his Presbyters, and the three Patriarchs of the East, by John and Thomas, two Presbyters. This pretended Universal Council had only the Bishops of the Patriarchate of Constantinople in it, the other four Patriarchates not sending one Bishop into it. The four Patriarchs were reprefented in it, as is here pretended, but not the Bishops, who appear'd not in it. We have no account of their Sentiments; they might differ from their Patriarchs, as it is certain the Bishops of the West did from the Pope of Rome, which will be proved hereafter.

after. We shall prove anon, that there were no Legates from the Eastern Patriarchs in this Nicene Council.

Then was read the Synodicon of Theodorus, Patriarch of Jerusalem, which was drawn up in the Name of some Bishops, but how many we are not told. This has nothing material in it, but that he also calls Image-worship, the Churches Apostolical Tradition.

These Letters being read, were approved by the Synod.

ACTION IV.

S. V. This Adion contains the Testimonies of the Scripture, and of divers Fathers for Images.

Tarasius the Patriarch demands the Writings of the Holy Fathers to be read in the Council. A very proper Motion, the Bishop had no occasion for the Scriptures in this Case, for he cou'd not but know that Image-worship was contrary to the Holy Scriptures.

Constantine, Bishop of Constantia in Cyprus, corrects the Patriarch, and desires that the Bible, and the Testimonies of the Fathers may be read. It is observable, that the Synod had expresly declared for Image worship before the Bible was produced. They first determine, and then consult the Bible, in imitation of Balaam, who resolves to go with the Messengers of Balack, and then asks leave of God. So these Gentlemen declare for Images, before the Holy Bible was brought to the Assembly, and after the Pope's Letters, and those of the Eastern Patriarchs were read and approv'd, at length the Bible brings up the Rear.

But let us hear what they can fay out of the Bi le for Image-worship. There was read in the Council, Exod. 27. 17, 18. God commanded Moses

These Scriptures being read in the hearing of the Synod, Tarasius thus argued for them: If the Old Testament had Cherubims shadowing the Mercy-seat, we may have the Images of Christ, and his Mother, and of the Saints.

We deny the Consequence of this Proposition for very good Reasons. No Argument can be drawn from the Ceremonial Law to the Gospel, because we are not under the Obligation of that Law. There was a Command for making the Cherubims, but there is no Command for making Images of Christ and the Saints. The Cherubims were Emblems of Angels, but not Images of them; for it were absurd, to fancy that the Angels had the Face of a Man, and of a Lion, and of an Ox, and of an Eagle, as terech. 1. 10. the Cherubims had. †

The Jews did not take the Cherubims to be Images of the Angels, which are no Monsters compounded of a Man, and a Lion, an Ox, and an Eagle; but they understood by those Figures, the various Dispo-fitions and Qualities of those noble Beings.

Thus Maimon. observes concerning the Angels, That they are Incorporeal, and that not only a humane Form, but that of unreasonable Creatures is attributed to em, to signifie, that the Divine Nature is as much above the Angelick Nature, as that of Man is above the Bruits. For the same reason Wings are ascribed to them, and not to God, which also signify'd woch. Par. I. the Celerity of their Motion in doing cap. 49. the Will of God. (i) Thus he,

Jerom saith, that the Teraphim which the Jews Idolatrously Worshipp'd, were Images In Hosh. IV. of the Cherubims. If it was unlawful Tom. V.p.43. for the Jewish Church to make Images in imitation of the Cherubims, it cannot be warrantable for the Christian Church to do so.

to be Images, or Figures of Jesus Christ.
† Imagines † But he was far from inferring from those legal Figures, the lawfulness of making Images of Christ and the Saints under the New Testament.

If the Cherubims were no Images of Angels, they are no Warrant for the making of Images of Christ, and the Saints. He has the Perfections of Angels in a more transcendent degree.

If therefore there be any such Force in this Argument, they shou'd Paint Christ with the Face of a Man, of Bruits, and Birds: Of a Man, to signific his Prudence; of a Lion, because he is the Lion of the Tribe of Fudab; of an Ox, because he was led as an Ox to the Slaughter; of an Eagle, because he ascended on high. So that the Instance of Cherubims proves nothing, or too much.

Besides, the Cherubims were not Worshipp'd, not cou'd be by the People, for they were in the Temple, and in the Holiest, out of the Peoples sight, and where it was not lawful for any but the Priests to come.

Let us now see the Strength of the Patriarch's Argument. If the Cherubims, which were no Images of Angels, were lawful under the Old Testament, the Images of Christ and his Saints are lawful under the New: If Cherubims, which were appointed of God were lawful Images, which are so far from being appointed, that they are forbidden of God, are lawful:

This is the Sum of the famous Patriarchal Ar-the Synod.

Tarasius observes, 'That Moses did all according to the Pattern shew'd in the Mount. Very well, he follow'd the Divine Pattern, so must we. He did as he was Commanded, so must we. The Patriarch shou'd have produced some Command for Imageworship, but that he cou'd not do; therefore he is condemn'd out of his own Mouth.

John, the Vicar of the Oriental Sees, said, 'That' Jacob set up a Pillar, and Wrestled with the Angel

' in the Form of a Man.

What is this to Image worship? Did Jacob Worship the Pillar? When Pillars were abused to Idolatry, God forbad the erecting of 'em.

(k) For the same Reason Images ought (k) Lev. 26. 1.

to have been destroy'd. Did Facob wrestle with an Image? Why then is a living Angel converted with a Lifeless Statue? The Oriental Vicar's Arguments are as remote from the Mark, as the East is from the West.

b. VI. These are all the Scripture Arguments which the Council cou'd produce for Image-worship. Therefore the Holy Bible was soon laid aside, as not for their turn, and the Fathers betook themselves to bumane Testimonies. They are as produgal of these, as they were sparing of Divine Testimonies. There was produced in the Synod a Cart-load of Voluminous Writers, out of which several Passages were read in the Council.

It's not worth while to examine each of 'em, I shall only observe,

t. That

That there is not one Father, or Christian Writer of the three first Centuries cited for Image. Worship. If the Nicene Bishops had found any thing in the more early Writers of the Christian Church in favour of Images, we shou'd have met with it here. The Testimonies which were read in the Council. were produc'd by different Hands; which proves, that feveral Perfons were employ'd to make Collecti. ons out of the Fathers. And fince these industrious Collectors cou'd produce nothing earlier than the Fourth Century, it's a Demonstration that Image. Worship is a new thing in the Christian Church. The Epistle of the Eastern Patriarchs to Tarasius, calls it an Apostolical Tradition; but the Council can run it no higher than the latter end of the Fourth Century. Most of the Testimonies produced by the Council, are of the Fifth and Sixth Ages, and some of the Seventh. Cyril of Alexandria, flourished about the Year 412. Antipater of Bostra, A. D. 460. Anastasius the Monk, A. D. 655. Nilus the Monk, A. D. 440. Leontius the Monk, A. D. 590. Sophronius, Bishop of Ferusalem, A. D. 629. Johannes Fejuna tor, Bishop of Constantinople, who first assum'd the Title of Universal Bishop, A. D. 585.

2. The first Testimony which was read in the Council, was that of John Chrysostom, who flourished, A. D. 398. In his Encomium of Meletius, he says, the Christians had his Picture in their Rings, Cups, and on the Walls of their Chambers.

We deny not the civil Use of Pictures, but Chrysoftom does not say, they Worshipp'd the Pictures of Meletius, or that they had them in their Temples.

Their first Testimony is therefore impertinently alledged.

The next Testimony is that of Gregory Nyssen, who says, 'He wept as he beheld the Picture of Christ's Passion.

This also is not to the purpose, because he does not say, he Worshipp'd this Picture. Christ has appointed his Word and Sacraments to raise (1) Gal. 3. 1. Pious Affections. In the Word, and the Lord's Supper, Christ is described, or significantly defore our Eyes, being Crucified Syr.

Had the good Father Religiously attended unto these, he shou'd have found his Affections more effedually moved and purished, than they can be by the forbidden Motives of Images, which by exciting the Affections, defile the Conscience.

The third Witness for Images, is Cyril of Alexandria, who saith, 'That the Law was a Figure, and 'Shadow, and, as it were a certain Picture, to be 'view'd by those that behold the things of it.

The Question is not whether the Law may be called improperly a Picture, which none denies, and is in effect affirm'd by a Greater Man than the Patriarch of Alexandria, namely, St. Paul, who says, that the Law had the Shadow of good things to come, and not the very Image of the things. (m) It had the Shadow, but not the Sub. (m) Heb. 10.1.

But this does not prove the Lawfulness of 'Artistical Pictures made to be Worshipp'd, which the Law sorbids, nor are they recommended in that Sense by Cyril.

He mentions indeed, as is observed further by the Synod, 'That the Pitture of Abraham Offering up 'his Son Isaac, was done in a very different manner by several Hands, according to the several parts of the History they defign'd to represent.

Here is nothing faid that these Pictures were set up in Churches, or Worshipp'd.

The fourth Witness, is Gregory Nazianzen, who flourished, A. D. 380. Let's hear what this Father can depose in Favour of Image-worship. His Evidence is like the rest, nothing to the main Point. All he has to say, is this, 'That a certain Strumpet, as fhe follow'd her Paramour, saw the Venerable Piture of Polemon, who had been a leud Man, but was reclaimed. The fight of this Picture, which was near the Gate, they fay, made her retreat, and fhe was put to the Blush at the fight of it, as if he ' had been alive.

We have no Evidence of the Truth of this Story, for Gregory had it only by hear-say. All the assurance he gives of it, is this, They say

Admit Matter of Fa& to be true, the leud Woman, to whom the Twilight †was most agree-

† Prov. 7. 9. able, might take the Statue for a living Man, and the fear of being discover'd might make her retire. The Story does not fay she was Converted by this Sight, but | Brangurseion. that the was confounded, | and went a way.

But suppose she knew this to be Polemon's Image, and was put to Shame at the fight of it, it proves no more than that God can use what Providential Occasions he thinks sit, to restrain or reclaim Sinners. A Picture in it self is an indifferent thing, God may make use of that, as of other indifferent things, to awaken Convictions. Nay, he can bring Good out of Evil. Must every thing from which God takes occasion to do us Good, become Sacred and Adorable! The fight of a Bruit, of a Plant, of a Serpent, may occasion some good Resections to our Minds.

It wou'd fwell this Volume too much, if I shou'd consider all their impertinent Allegations. These are sufficient, by which the Reader may make a Judgment of the rest.

The Story of the Image of Berytus, of which above, is represented by the Synod in the Name of Athanasius, as if it had happen'd in the Days of Athanasius, Bishop of Alexandria, who flourished in the Year 326. But it is otherwise, for this Athanasius lived after the Year 765, in which, according to Sigebert, this presented Miracle happen'd, or several Years after under Irene and Conflantine, as many think. (o) Who (o) Annal. ad An. 765. Num.

annot be Athanasius the Monothelite, who flourish'd, A.D. 629. The Nicene Bishops wou'd not have alled him their Father, whom Baronius (p) Ad. An.

He mentions another Athanasius, Bishop of Naks, who died, A.D. 872. This Athanasius was carce born when the Second Nicene Council was Ceebrated, which was in the Year 787. Baronius pentions another Athanasius, Nephew to the Nea-olitan Bishop, who flourished, A. D. 881. Nor ou'd this Man be the Author of this Story, by rea-m of the diffance of Years.

Therefore fince Baronius can produce no such Man sthis Bishop Athanasius, mention'd in this Countil, I must charge the Council with an Imposture, in athering this Story on Athanasius the famous Amandrian Bishop, whose Name was deservedly Centrated in the Church of Christ. If they meant another Athanasius, they ought to have given him some

Character of Distinction. They stile the Author of this Story St. Athanasius; so Peter Bishop of Nico. media calls him. They stile him also Father Athans.

that they work great Cures. Tarafius faid, Bu some one may ask, why do not the Images which a

The Bishop and Patriarch infinuate, as if the A thor of this Story were the Great Athanasius of h mortal Fame, and report it as a thing done lor ago.

But we are obliged to the Patriarch for his & flion, which is a plain Confession, that Images in Days of this Council wrought no Miracles. This spot (9) The the Credit of all the Miracles which are reported Miracle he done by Images before the Time of this Council. If Images were so prolifick of Miracles, how come they to produce no Miracles at a time, when they wou'd have been of so much use to confirm the New Religion of Image-worship. The Reason is plain, it was easter for the Council to report old Miracles, than to make new ones. If Images had fuch Miraculous Virtues, the Council ought to have given some Proof of it, when a Worshipful Image was brought into the Council to be Adored by the Fathers, of which in the next Action. But the Patriarch ingenuously confesles, that no Miracles were to be expelled any more from Images, for two Reasons: 1. Because Miracles were for Signs to the Unbelieving Jews. But Con were there not Unbelieving Christians also? Such as had not Faith strong enough to Worship Images. Conthe flantinople abounded with these Unbelievers the Year before, when they made the Place too hot for the but Council, and oblig'd 'em to remove to Nice. Was there no Miracle to be wrought for these? Was there no Miracle to be wrought for there? Was not their Salvation as much to be defir'd as that of the Jews? The Patriarch is extream Charitable, he will allow a Miracle for the Conversion of the Jews, who but none for the Unbelieving Hereticks.

Under the Image miracles were proper to Convert the Jews, why not so proper to Convert so vast a Number of the Patriarch's own Flock, who were Unbelievers in point of Images?

If we may believe the Patriarch on the Credit of If we may believe the Patriarch on the Credit of the Al know not what Athanasius, an Image wrought Minos In racles to Convert the Jews of Berytus: There were abundance of Jews in the Patriarch's own Diotels of Constantinople, who were so considerable, according to Baronius, as (4) Ad Anis in to influence the Councils of Leo Isaurus. 726.

Signo (4) These were Insidels, and if Image-with Miracles were to be Signs to the Jewish Insidels, at Miracles were to be Signs to the Jewish Insidels, at was as necessary that the Nicene Images shou'd work

Miracles as that of Berytus.

Sigebert published this Story above 300 Years after the Fact; for he Wrote about the Year 1112, and saith, that the Image at Berytus pour'd out Sanative Blood and Water in the Year 765, but Baronius is inclined to think it was in the

765. Reign of Irene and Constantine. (r)
The Second Council of Nice was held,

A. D. 787, in the Eighth Year of Constantine and Irene. So that this pretended Miracle being so late a thing, ought to have been proved by Eye-witnesse, and not recommended on the Credit of Athanasius, who had been dead above 400 Years before. But the Council wisely suppress a the Time of this Fishtious Miracle, and tack unto it the Name of Immortal Athanasius, that it might pass as a venerable piece of Antiquity, not to be disputed.

This is such another Artifice as that of the Prophecy, found in a Monument near the long Walls of Thrace, which foretold the Birth of Christ, and his second appearing under Constantine and Irene.

It seems unaccountable, that Images shou'd exhaust all their Miraculous Virtue in the Conversion of the Jews of Berytus, and remain ever since important Things, whose only Virtue is to serve for Stunbling-blocks to prejudice the Jews against Christianity.

2. The Patriarch gives another Reason, why the Images of his Time produced no Miracles; Be cause, saith he, An Evil and Adulterous General on seeketh after a Sign, and no Sign shall be given it.

Our Blessed Saviour adds, but the Sign of the Prophet Jonas. Had Tarasius thrown his Images in the bottom of the Sea, and lest 'em there until som officious Fish had disgorg'd 'em upon dry Land;

if he had buried 'em with Jacob under Ground, we might have waited to this Day for the Resurrection of the Imaginary and Senseless Figures. But Tara-, sim will allow no Sign to his Adulterous Generation, but that of Corrupting Images, to teach 'em the chaste and pure Worship of God. If Imageworship be Whoredome in God's Actour, the Character of an Adulterous Generation belongs to Image worshippers, and not to those that oppose 'em.

If Image miracles be Signs only to the Unbelieving Jews, how comes the Council to trump up so many Miracles done upon Believers? They tell us of several Cures wrought upon Persons that Pray'd unto Images. These therefore the Patriarch himself being judge were no Miracles; for Miracles, as he observes, were not given to Believers.

In thort, fince Tarastus, President of the Council, confesses, that the Images of that Age wrought no Miracles, we have just reason to suspect the Miracles which are reported to be done by 'em in former Ages.

We have now examin'd the three main Reasons for Image-worship, the Cherubims of the old Law, the Opinions of some Fathers, and uncertain Reports of Miracles done by Images; all which I have prov'd to be infirm, and insufficent, to acquit the Council from the Guilt of Idolatry, in appointing the Adoration of Saints and Angels, and of their Images. They are guilty of Israel's Sin, in making the Golden Calf, which I have prov'd to have been made in Honour of the True God; and of Jeroboam's Sin, in setting up the Calves of Dan and Bethel.

They have unhappily involv'd themselves in the Guilt of all the Idolatry of suture Ages, and are justly obnoxious to his Character. These are the Men that made Ifrael Sin.

The Council having Subscribed all the Testimonies above-mentioned, finished the Fourth Action.

6. I. THE Fifth Action contains feveral Testimonies, whereby the Council compares the Oppofers of Images to Fews, Samaritans, Saracens, and the worst of Hereticks.

There was read an Epistle of Simeon Columnalis, or Stylites to Justin the younger, Emperor, 'wherein he excites him to Punish the Samaritans, who had deftroy'd fome Images of Christ, of the Virgin Mary, the Mother of God, and of some Saints. He fuggells also, that if the Imperial Laws condemn those to dye that abuse the Emperor's Image, what Damnation do they deferve that abuse the Image of Christ and his Mother?

The Images of the Emperor were agreeable to the Imperial Laws, but the Laws of Heaven forbid Ima- mity, Obedience to the Laws of God, which command the Monuments of Idolatry to be destroy'd, and is conform to the Practice of the Reforming Kings of Fudah, who Abolished, not only the Pagan Images, but the Monuments of Fewish Idolatry; such were the Calves, the Images, Teraphim, and the Brazen Serpent, by which the Fews Worshipp'd the True God, as we have proved above.

When the Imperial Laws requir'd Religious Adoration to be given to the Emperor's Images, as was done in the Pagan Times, the Primitive Christians cou'd not be induced by Flatteries or Threatnings to Worthip their Images.

Constantine, Bishop of Cyprus, said, 'He took the 'Image breakers to be worse than Samaritans, because these did it ignorantly, being Strangers to Chritianity; but the Image-breakers knew the Will of their Lord; and therefore shall be beaten with ma-

The Idol-Bishop shou'd have prov'd it to be the Will of the Lord, that we shou'd make and Worship Images of Christ, before he had condemn'd the Opposers of 'em to be beaten with many Stripes. But neither he nor the Council ever attempted the Proof of this. They shou'd have produced some Command from Jesus Christ for Worshipping Images. But they knew it to be impossible, and therefore never offer'd at it. Since there is no Law in the New Testament for Images, and fince there is a Law in the Old and New-Testament against Images, as we have proved, the Image-breakers were fo far from opposing, that they fulfilled the Will of the Lord in destroying Images.

The Samaritans indeed were Strangers to Christia. nity, but they were no Strangers to the Law of Moles, which they profess'd; and therefore their Zeal f of for the Divine Law, which forbids Graven Images,

6. II. Then there was read a Sermon of John, Bishop of Thessalonica, which contains a Narrative of a Conference between a Gentile and an Image worshipper, or a Saint, as the Homilist stiles him. The Heathen is introduced, thus speaking, Do not you in your Churches Paint the Images of your Saints, and Worship them? And not only the Images of your Saints, but of your very God? So you may make judgment of us, as Embracing, and not Worshipping our Images, but Incorporeal Powers, which are Adored in and by them.

The Saint answers, We make Images of Holy Men that had real Bodies, that we may remember and Honour them. We Paint 'em as once they were; nor do we according to your Works, nor shew we the Corporeal Images of Incorporeal Beings: Nor do we Worship the Images, as you say, but we Gloriste those that are represented by the Picture, not as Gods, but as the Servants and Friends of God, who have the Liberty of Interceding for us. But we make Images of God, that is, of Jesus Christ in our Nature, as he appear'd among Men. The Heathen said, 'Well, you Paint God, the Word, as he was Incarnate. But what say you of the Angels, whom you Paint as Men, and Worship, who are no Men, but Intellectual and Incorporeal Being the Men, but Intellectual and Incorporeal Being the Men, but Intellectual and Incorporeal Being the Men, and Worship, who are no Men, but Intellectual and Incorporeal Being the Men, and Morship, who are no Men, but Intellectual and Incorporeal Being the Men, and Morship, who are no Men, but Intellectual and Incorporeal Being the Men and Morship.

ings? In like manner you must think of us, that we Worship our Gods by Images.
The Saint replies, 'The Catholick Church teach es, that Angels, Arch-Angels, and our Rational gans contess, but have subtil Bodies of Air and Fire; according to that, be makes his Ministers a Flame of Fire. For which Reason they are in a Place, and Circumscribed. They have appear'd in sensible Shapes, and are comparatively call'd Incorporeal, because they have not such gross Bodies as we have.

Tarafius and the Council approv'd of this Father's Reasonings, which will admit of a Review.

1. It appears from this Conference, that the Pagans Worshipp'd Incorporeal Powers by their Images, and not the very Images.

So do the Romanist's Worship Christ and the Saints by their Images. Thus far the Pagan Worship is reviv'd in Popery, so that either the Pagans must be acquitted from Idolatry, or the Papists are guilty of it.

But the Saint hopes to bring 'em off, by faying, that theirs are Images of dead Saints, who had Bodies when they were alive.

But this gives 'em no Relief; for the Incorporeal Powers the Heathen speaks of, were most of 'em the Ghosts of dead Men; such were, not only their Heroes, but their very Chief Gods. Saturn, Jupiter, Hercules, &c. once had real Bodies, and lived among Men, as hath been proved by the Fathers against the Pagans. This may be seen in Clemens Alexandrinus, Minucius Felix, Origen, Cyril, and others. It follows, that the Romish Saints, and the Pagan Gods, are both of 'em Deisied Men.

The Bishop objects further, that they do not Worship the Saints as Gods, but as the Servants and Friends of God, who Intercede for us.

They call 'em Divi, as the Heathen did their Gods, and give 'em Religious Worship, which is to make Gods of 'em. To attribute Divine Honours to them, is to Worship 'em as Gods. Protestatio non valet contra fatum.

The Heathen Worshipp'd their Demons and Heroes as Mediators between them and the Supream God, as we observed above. They own'd one Chief

God, whose Goodness far exceeded that of the Inferior Gods, both Demons and Men, as B'AI STE Trismegistus speaks. (s) Plato makes (3) Pimand. the Heroes to be inferior to the Aereal Demons, and Superior to Men, and he calls 'em Demi Gods. + 'Tis certain, (t) In Epinomide, & Crathey address'd these inferior Deities, as tylo. middle Powers between 'em and the For the Gods, as they thought, did Celettial Gods. not communicate their Favours to 'em immediately, but by the Demons and Souls of Men. an Martyrs may more truly (u) be called Heroes, not because they have any Society with Aereal Demons, but because they have overcome the Powers of the Air. (w)

Theodoret goes further, and confesses that the Christians attribute like Honours unto their Martyrs, as were given by the Pagans to their Demons. We, in like manner, saith he, call those who were eminent for Piety, and died in the Cause of it, our Helpers and Physicians, but we do not call em Demons, far be this Madness from us, but we account em the Friends and Servants of God.—When Men have an ill State of Health, they ask Health of the Martyrs. It is certain that God the Father never appear'd in a bumane Form, for no Man hath seen God at any time, as Christ himself assures us. (c) 70. 1. 18.

(c) Therefore all the Appearances of God unto the Fathers were in the Person of the Son. But none of the Patriarchs made any Images of him, tho' he appear'd to 'em in a humane Form. Who then Authorized the Nicene Bishops to make Images of the Son of God? The end of his Incarnation was to take away Sin, to destroy the Works of the Devil, of which Idolatry is the chief, and not to introduce them, Pfalm XCVII. 7. Confounded be all they that serve Graven Images, - Worship him all ye Gods, or Angels, Heb. 1. 6. When Angels and Men are commanded to Worship God manifested in the flesh, Image-worship is forbidden.

3. It is further observable in this Conference, that the Bishops had no other way to defend their making Images of Angels, but by affirming that they are not Incorporeat

Incorporeal, but endued with fome fort of Bodies, in which they fancied they appear'd unto the Prophets. If the Prophets, to whom they frequently appear'd, made no Images of 'em, what Power had the Bishops, to whom they never appear'd, to fet up Images of Angels? Their only Scripture-Argument for Images is taken from the Cherubims which represented the Angels. Why do not they Paint Angels in the Form of Cherubims with four Faces? If they make Ima. ges in imitation of the Cherubims, why do they vary from 'em? When they make Images of Saints which were Men, they take their Pattern from the Cheru. bims, which were no Forms of Men: When they make Images of Angels, they defert the Cherubins, and Paint 'em like Men. This is a Demonstration they do not believe their own Argument, and that they cannot Belter themselves under the Wings of the Temple Cherubims.

The Nicene Fathers are deferted by the School Men, and the Romish Doctors in their Notion of Corporeal Angels. The Master of the Sentences im putes this Opinion to Austin, who calls the Angels a fort of Aereal Animals, endued with Aereal Bodies. But others excuse him, Dift. 8. and think he only reports the Opinion of others. (d)

Ferom charges Origen with this Opinion, who teacheth, 'That those Spiritual Minds, as often au they transgress are thrust into Bodies, but not immediately into those of the lowest Form, but first into Sydereal Bodies, then into Ethereal, and Aereal, afterwards into Aqueous Bodies, and last of all, into Humane and Earthly Bodies: And if they behave not themselves well in these (e) Hier. ad Pammach. Bodies, at last they become Devils. Epift. 61. But if then they repent, they may Cap. 5. be restored by the same Degrees. (e)

This Opinion is most absurd, and directly oppofite to the Holy Scriptures, which affert the Eternal Damnation of Devils without Poffibility of Salvation, fince Fefus Christ took not hold of Angels. (f) It has been the Lot of (f) Heb. 2. 16. that Great Christian Philosopher, Origen, to be traduced, and charged with things that he knew not of, of which the Doctrine of the Damnation of Devils is an Instance. 'Tis certain, that his Enemies imputed to him Blasphemous Doctrines which never proceeded from him, as he himself complains; and that he does in feveral of his Writings now extant, deny all Hopes of Salvation unto Devils, especially in his Books, megl agxwe, to which Ferom refers us. In one of 'em he faith, ' That fince the Devils ' fell into fo great Indignity and Malice, they were 'judged unworthy of the Instruction by which the Humane Race are restored by the Incarnation (of 'the Son of God)' and Affiftance of (6) Lib. 1. the Celestial Powers. (g) He speaks to Cap. 6. the same Purpose in other places, ante Tert. (b) Art. 2. which may be feen in Merlin's Apolo- Tom. Oper. gy for Origen. (b) . Orig.

But whether Origen held these absurd Opinions or no, it is sufficient to my Purpose, that the Nicene Fathers in desending the Images of Angels by their Corporeal Nature, do by consequence condemn the Romanists, who consess Angels to be Incorporeal, and yet represent 'em by Corporeal Figures: And the Council stands Self-condemn'd, by afferting the main Foundation of Images to be the Jewish Cherubims, and yet they overlook the Cherubims by making Images of Angels like unto Men.

In a word, this Conference between the Bishop of Thessalonica and a Pagan, does fully prove the Idolatry of the Pagans and Christians to be the same.

§. III. Then was read in the Council a Disputa.

The Jew saith, 'I believe in a Crucified Jesus 'that he is the Son of God, but I am scandalized at

'you, Christians, because you Worship Images, contrary to the Scriptures, which every where forbids us to make any Graven Images, or any Similitude whatfoever.

The Christian answers, 'The Images you see are made for Remembrance of Christ's Benefits, and those of the Saints fignisse their victorious Agonies. We do not Worship em as Gods, but we pray God to fave us by their Intercessions. We do not Adore, or Worship a Wooden Image, or Picture, but we Glorifie our Lord Jesus Christ. O Few, even Moses

' made two Seraphims and a Brazen Serpent.

Fohn, Vicar of the Eastern Pontiffs, faid, behold, they that deny the Incarnation of Christ reject Images, namely, Hebrews and Samaritans. Therefore they that reject em are like unto these. The Country cil faid, they are like.

1. This is a fallacious way of Arguing, the Council ought to have prov'd, that the Fews and Samari tans, who profess'd the Law of the Ten Command. ments, did ill in rejecting Images. The Fews and Samaritans observ'd the Commands of God, and the Council broke 'em in fetting up Images. It is no Reproach to be like the Jews and Samaritans, wherein they do well. The Jews and Samaritans believe one God, fo did the Council alfo; therefore the Council were like the Fews and Samaritans. Here is a Comparison not unlike theirs. The Council, I prefume, wou'd not have renounced the Belief of One God, that they might not be like the Jews and Samaritans, who believe the fame Truth. 2. The Disputation represents the Jew as believing in Jesus Christ the Son of God, but rejecting Images. He that believes Jesus Christ to be the Son of God is a Christian, and not a Jew, as to his Religion. But according to this Council, Faith in Jesus Christ does not make a Christian, except he Worship Graven Images. According to the Gospel, he that believes in Jesus Christ shall be saved; but according to the Doctrine of these Men, it's not Faith in Christ, but in Graven Images that makes a Christian. This is a new Notion of Christianity, not to be found in the Writings of the New Testament. By this New Gospel to be a Christian, is to be a Worshipper of Images, and to believe in a Crucified Jesus is to be a Jew.

3. The Disputer pretends, that the Christians do not Worship or Adore Wooden Images

or Pictures. (i) Why then does the (i) & mposture. Council Command the Worship of em? Mer is or Copus.

It's observable, in their Disputations

The Deacon shou'd have prov'd Matter of Fact, that Image worship was objected by the Pagans to the Martyrs of the three first Ages. The contrary is most true, that the Pagans reproach'd 'em for not having Images, as we have prov'd out of Minucius Felix, and others. Cum nullas aras babeat, templa nulla, nulla nota simulachra? Why have the Christians no Altars, no Temples, no known Images, faith Cecilius the Pagan.

The ignorant Descon, who is better at making Objections, than at answering 'em, fancied the Ancient Martyrs to be Image worshippers, like the Monks of his Age. We have already shew'd the Pagan Images to be Figures of real Men, who once had been in true Bodies.

So that the difference between the Pagan and Christian Images lay in this, that those of the Pagans were made in Memory of some Great Men who deferved well of their Countrey, and those of the Christians, in remembrance of Christian Heroes, as Austin wou'd have 'em call'd, who deserved well of the Church. And by the same Rules that the Christian makes use of the Intercession of his Heroes, the Pagan makes use of his also. Praying unto the Saints as Intercessors for us, is without Foundation in the Scriptures, and highly injurious to the Intercest

Safice, The Pagans might justly reproach the Image worhipping Christians, for being more Superstitious than they. These were unacquainted with the true Mehator, and therefore it is not so much to be wonder'd that they shou'd multiply Mediators; but for Chrilians, to whom Jesus Christ is reveal'd, to set up and groffest Impiety.

S. V. Theophilus, (Gr. Demetrius) the Deacon, complain'd that he miss'd two Books that were guilt with Images, which did belong to the Church of Constantinople, and were enter'd into her Register. This Dreaming Story depends on the Credit of a Superstitious Woman, and tends to advance the San-lity of a Monk, and is reported by another of the Order, who speaks favourably of the Perjur'd Fornicating Monk, last mention'd. It was easie for the Leacherous Monks, and their Female Admirers to make such Miracles as these. Limonarius his drinking of the Woman's Well, proves only that she was Communicative of those Waters in which Theodosius the Abbot had some fort of Property.

But the Superstitious Author tells us another Story, which was also tead with Approbation in the Council. This Story which was told Limonarius by Dionysuus a Priest of the Church of Ascalon, is as followeth :

Abbot Fohn the Anchorite, who was a great Man of this Age, lived in a Cave at Sochas, about 20 Miles from Ferusalem, where he had an Image of the Virgin Mary, with Christ in her Arms. As often as he went to ferusalem to Worship the Cross and the Holy Places, or to mount Sinai, or to the Martyrs, whom he greatly loved, at Ephesus, Seleucia, and other Places, he lighted his Candle, as he used to do, and looking on the Image, he Pray'd to the Lady in this manner, Holy Lady, Mother of God, I am going several Days Journey, take care of your Candle, and keep it from going out at my desire. For I go expeding your belp to accompany me in my Way. Having thus thus Address'd the Image, he went his way, and when he return'd, after a Month or two, or three, or five, or fix, (for some times he was five or fix Months abroad) he found his Candle burning as he left it; and he never saw it go out of it felf, either when he awaked in the Morning, or return'd into his Cave from the Wilderness.

This is abominable Idolatry, to overlook Jesus Christ, whom we are commanded to Worship, and to transfer that Honour on a meer Creature, which is due to the only begotten Son of God. He makes her the Object of his Hope, and relies on her Protection. The Help of God's People is in the Name of the Lord who made Heaven and † Psal. 121. Earth. † This Man's Help is in a Woman, who made neither Heaven nor

Earth, or rather in a Lifeless Image, whom he calls

3. He commits an honourable Office to the Mother of God, namely, the Custody of his Candle. To what end is this Waste? Or who is the better for this pretended Miraculous Light, which served only to enlighten the Walls of an empty Cave? Ireneus fays, that one Mark of Distinction between true and false Miraculous Light.

The fulfome Stories above-mentioned, wou'd have furfeired any Stomachs but those of the Council, which were prepar'd to digest the absurdest Falsities that had a Tendency to promote the Cause of Images. We may guess at the Contents of the Fifteen Volumes that were not read, by those that were produced. Doubtless, they contain'd more fabulous Miracles, which for Reasons that may be guess'd at, the Council thought fit not to mention.

Tarafius orders John, Vicar of the East, to read his Narrative about Images, which is this, 'That a certain Jew of Tiberias a Sorcerer, perswaded Ezid an Arabian Prince to destroy all the Images in the Christian Churches within his Dominion, that the Bishop of Nacolia, and those about him did the like; that the Jew was put to Death by Hulid the Son of Ezid, because the Event did not answer his Prediction, that the Prince shou'd live forty Years.

The Design of this Story, is to compare the Imagebreakers to Saracens, as they have done before to the Jews and Samaritans. This invidious Comparison has been considered before, and all that can truly be insered from it, is this, that Idolatrous Christians are worse than Saracens and Mahometans, whose Zeal against Images will rise up in Judgment against a Ge-

It appears by this Narrative, that there were some Christian Bishops in this Time of general Apostacy, who opposed the Growth of Idolatry, and destroy'd the Occasions of it.

As to Constantine, Bishop of Nacolia, he demolish'd Images, not in Imitation of the Saracens, as is here suggested, but in Obedience to the Scriptures, which forbid the giving of Divine Honour to any Creature; fo the Pious Bishop speaks in his own

Tarafius himself bears him witness, that he began the Subversion of Ima-

We have now gone through all the Arguments that were read in the Council for Image worthip; and I have given an Abstract of the pretended Miracles that were done by Images.

Before we proceed to the next Allion, I will make · fome General Reflections upon the Miracles which are reported to be done by Images.

1. Matter of Fact is uncertain; and depends on the Credit of the Monks, who were generally Ignorant, Superstitious, and blindly Devoted to Imageworship. The Egyptian Monks were so ignorant in the Fourth Age, that they affirm'd God to have Eyes, Hands, Feet, and other Corporeal Members, from which Heretical Opinion they were called Anthropomorphites. They that thought God like unto 2 Man, must have very mean Thoughts of the Divine Being,

And fince they made it their Bufiness to Seduce People from the Truth of the Gospel, and the true Worship of God, they were destirute of the Truth, and their Veracity is not to be depended upon. When Persons once forfake the Holy Scriptures, the Fourtains of Truth, they are justly given up to lying Vanities. 2. Admit Matter of Fact had been true, this is no Argument for Image-worship. Because Signs and Wonders are Pronounced by God to be of no Validity when they were made use of to entice Persons to Idolatry. Thus God speaks, Deut. 15. 1, 2, 3. arise among you a Prophet, and giveth thee a Sign or a Wonder, and the Sign or the Wonder come to pass, whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other Gods, and let us serve them. Thou shalt not bearken unto the words of that Prophet, for the Lord your God proveth you, to know whether you love the Lord your God with all your Heart, and with all your Soul.

This shews, that God may suffer some Wonders to happen to prove our Fidelity to him and his true Worship: That if they happen, we are not to be moved by them to any Ads of Idolatry, which confift in the Worthipping of other Gods.

To Worship Saints, Angels, and Images, is to Worship other Gods. Whatever that is to which we give Divine Worship, we make that our God. The Council pretends, as we shall find in the next Adion, that they give unto Images, and Saints an inferior fort of Worship, which they call meconiumoir, but not Supream Worship, or natesiar But this is a poor Shift, for all the Degrees of Religious Worship belong to God, and to him only. The Law saith, Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and ferve him. (a) The Seventy render it, and him only shalt thou serve, or Worthing Constants.

ship. Our Saviour follows them, but instead of φοβωθώσω thou shalt fear (the Lord,) our Saviour saith προσκύνωσεις, thou shalt Worship. To fear the Lord and ferve him, according to our Lord Jesus, the best Interpreter of the Father's Will, is to Worship the Lord, and him only to serve. By this infallible Interpretation of our Lord Jesus we are taught, that when God Commands us to Fear, Worship, and Serve him, we are to understand these Expressions of God only in Exclusion of all others. All the Degrees of Religious Fear, Worship, and Service appertaining to God, and to him only. The Worship which Savan Tempted Christ to give him was προσκύνησις. All these things will I give thee, saith the Tempter, if thou wilt fall down and Worship me. (b)

Our Blessed Saviour repels him by citing the Command of God, which obliges us to Worship God only, not only with the Worship of λατρεία, but of προσκυνήσιε. Thou shalt Worship (προσκυνήσιε) the Lord thy God, and bim only shalt thou serve. (λατρέυσειε) There had been no Force in our Saviour's Argument, if either of these were Communicable unto Creatures. The Second Commandment forbids us to bow down to Graven Images, or Worship them. ἀτροσκυνήσειε, κου μη λατρέυσειε. Seventy. Το Worship Images and Saints therefore with any Degree of Religious Worship, is to attribute to the Creature what is proper to God, which is to go after other Gods. Now God himself, who forbids this Abomination, hath declared, that Signs

That the Worship of Saints and Images is an Apostacy from the Gospel, is evident, because it hath no Foundation in the Scriptures, is contrary to them, and highly injurious to the Glory of Christ, the only Mediator between God and Man.

This Apostacy is foretold by the same Apostle, who informs us that the Spirit speaketh expressy, that in the latter Times some shall depart from the Faith, giving heed to Seducing Spi-

Mr. Foseph Mede, hath with great Learning and Judgment, shew'd the Romish Worship of Saints, Angels, and Images, to be an Apish Imitation of the Pagan Worship.

Therefore the Minacles which were reported in the Second Council of Nice, are so far from recommending Image-worship, that they are to be look'd upon as the Diabolical Seals of the Apostacy of the last Days, foretold in the Scriptures of Truth.

3. The Pagan Religion, which is the Pattern of Romish Idolatry, pretended to the glorious Confirmation of Miracles. Livy and Valerius Maximus, naufeate their Reader with fulsome Stories of this kind. It were easie to produce a Volume of them, as large as that of the Fabulous Miracles of this Council. I will mention one or two only, which concern the Subject of Images. Lactantius observes, that the Image of the Goddels Fortune was reported to have Spoken several times. When Veil was taken by the Romans, a Soldier was fent to remove the Image of Funo

Tuno Moneta, he ask'd in a jesting manner, whether the had a mind to remove to Rome, the Image anfwerd, that she had. When the Image of the Mother of the Gods, which was a Sacred Stone, as Livy calls it, was brought to Rome, in Obedience to the Sibyl. line Oracles, the Ship which carried the Image stuck in the Shallows of the Tiber, nor cou'd it be remov'd by any Force: They fay, that Claudia Quintia, who had no good Reputation, Pray'd on her Knees to the Goddels, that it fhe judg'd her Chaste, the wou'd be

4. The ancient Hereticks made their Boatts alfo of Miracles.

The Gnosticks, who first introduced Images into the Christian Church, were great Pretenders to Miracles. On which Ireneus passes this Censure, That they were not wrought by the Power of God, nor in Truth, nor for the Benefit of Mankind; but were more done for Destruction and Error, by Magical Elusions, and meer Fraud, and therefore were more (1) Adv. Ha- hurtful than profitable to fuch as believed'em, because the End of 'em was to

Seduce. (g)

In like manner the Donatifts made large Pretenfione to Visions and Miracles, concerning which, Aufin observes, that they were either the Figments of lying Men, or Wonders of fallacious Spirits. And a little after, the Pagans report Miraculous Ads and Vefions in favour of their Temples and Gods,

5. We have just reason to suspect the Truth of these Miracles. Many of 'em carry their own Confutation with 'em, as that of the Image at Edella, at Berytus, of the Hermite's Candle, &c. of which above. It's observed in the Apostle, that the Dollrines of Demons wou'd be introduced by Lies spoken in Hypocrifie, or by the Hypocrifie of Liars. The Miracles reported in this Council for confirming the Worthip of Demons and their Images, are Lies spoken in Hypocrifie. So that there is an exact Correspondence between the Prophecy and the Event. We have noted already, that Tarafius the Prefident of the Council, confels'd, that the Images of their Age wrought no Miracles. The like Confession is made by Germanus. Archbishop of Constantinople, in his Epistle to the Bishop of Claudiopolis, in these words; 'The Sum of the Miracles which they fay God hath wrought by divers Images, confifts in this, namely, the Healing of Diseases, which we have experienc'd; the Refolving of Curiofities, and frequent Visions of Pictures in fleep: But the most manifest of all others, and that which admits of no Contradiction or Ambiguity, is, that an Image of the Immaculate Mother of God at Sozopolis of Pisidia, poured forth an Emanation of Oyntment out of her Painted Hand, of which Miracle there are many Witnesfes. And altho' no fuch Miracle is now wrought by the Image, former things are not therefore incredible, left the Miracles which are recorded in the Ads of the Apostles be thought incredible, which are long fince ceas'd. God hereby condescen(bad IV. Nic. ded to frengthen the Faith of the Weak. (k) Sec. Synod.

The Patriarch here reduces Image-miracles to Three Heads:

1. The First are Cures of Distempers. If one of Twenty that Pray'd to 'em happen'd to grow better after, this was Recorded for a Famous Miracle. But they do not tell us how many receiv'd no Benefit by Images. A strong Imagination may contribute much to the removing of some Distempers.

2. The Second fort of Miracles, is the † Hegespacion Resolution of Curious Arts, † or Cirαναλύσεις. cumventions, as Anastasius renders it.

Germanus pretends to some Night Visions of Images, but does not tell us what they were, or how they operated against Witchcraft, which I suppose he means by his merepy ea. If Images obstructed the Operations of Witchcraft, it must be by a Diabolical Power, the same Power that buits may suspend its own Alls. The Natural Influence of Images, is to Bewitch and Seduce Men to Idolatry, and the Master of Magicians does more effectually Bewitch the Mind by 'em, by converting 'em into Charms against Corporeal Witchcraft.

3. The Defluxion of Oymment out of the Picture's Hand is an odd fort of Miracle: What became of this Oyntment? What Effects-did it produce? We hear nothing of this. It is much that this precious Oyntment was not preserved in perpetuam rei memoriam, and produced in the Council as a famous Eye-Salve to give Sight to the blind Image breakers: But Tarafius accounts for this Omission, and says, that no Sign shou'd be given to that Adulterous Generall. on. It was an easie thing for the Superffitions Monks to convey some Liquid Stuff from behind the Image into the Hand of it. nunciation at Lisbon. Maria, a Nun of that Order, pretended to Miraculous Visions, and to be daily visited by Christ in Person. When the received the Sacrament, the was honoured with the Vision of Angels, and when the Embraced the Image of Christ Crucified, which the called her Husband, it constantly darted out Beams of Light, much brighter and stronger than those of the Sun.

Here is a Miracle that out-shines all those that were mention'd in the Second Nicene Council.

One Day as she was at her Devotion, Christ appear'd to her, and made her a Promise to visit her again upon St. Thomas Aquinas's Day, and thereon to do her the greatest Honour that any Creature was capable of.

'The appointed Day being come, and all the Nuns and Friars being Affembled to Matins, while Maria was in a most profound Fit of Devotion, Christ Crucified appear'd to her; and in the fight of the whole Congregation, printed all the Wounds of his Head, Side, Hands and Feet upon the same parts of her Body. She had 32 Wounds (fuch as Thorns use to make) on her Head, and in her Side a Gash, as if made with a Spear, and on her Hands and Feet the Wounds were of a Triangular Figure, as if made by a Nail. The Rags she laid to the Wounds on Thursdays, had always the five Wounds of Christ printed on them in the Form of a Cross. These Rags were very precious, and difiributed among the Catholicks of chiefest Note, as special Marks of Grace. The Pope had one, the King of Spain another, and the Empress had one fent her against she Lay-in. Neither was there a Roman Catholick Prince, of Princess in Europe, but what had obtain'd one of 'em by some Interest or other. And Philip the Second, to fatisfie the World that he firmly believed the Mirucles of the Lisbon

Lisbon Nun, had the Raval Standard of the Armada, which came against England in the Year 1588.

The Inquisition, whose Business it is to enquire feverely into the Truth of Things reported to be Miracles, having Summoned the Confessor, and all the rest of the Fryers who belong'd to the Convent, to appear before 'em, was fully fixisfied by their Depositions and Oaths, as Exe-witnesses of the 'Truth of the whole Matter as it was reported.

The poor Protestants were insulted over for their Heretical Infidelity, and Petrus Mattheus, after a long Encomium of the Lisbon Nun, adds, that nothing can be offer'd in Contradiction to this Story. for the Bleffed Virgin is still living, and the whole is confirm'd by most Eminent Divines, who were Eye witnelles to it.

After all this, this Woman was Convicted for an Impostor by Philip the Second, whose Title to the Crown of Portugal the brought into Question, by pretending that it was Revealed to her, that the Right of that Crown was in the Durchels of Braganza. Philip order'd the Inquisition to fearch into the Matter, who found her Wounds nor to ' lie so deep as her Skin, and upon Examination, to be nothing else but Marks made thereon very Attificially with Red-lead. Whereupon the was Condemn'd by the Archbishop of Braga and Lisbon, the Bishop of Guarda, and the Apostolical Inquisitors, as an Hypocrite and Impostor, December 8. 1588. See the History more at large in Mr. Geda's Church Sabbas

4. Germanus therefore cannot be excused from gross Blasphemies, in comparing the Fabulous Miracles of Idolatrous and Superflitious Monks, with those of the Holy Apostles. As it there were no difference between the Real Miracles of the Apostles, who Seil'd the Truth with their Blood, and the Fiditious Wonders of Lying Monks. Those of the Apostles were done in Publick, and Attested by all forts of Persons; nor is Matter of Fact denied by Celfus, Porphyry, and Julian, the most Virulent Enemies of Christianity: The Miracles of the Monks were done in a Corner, without Evidence but what was given by themselves: The Miracles of the Apostles were done for the Confirmation of the Truth of the Christian Religion, those of the Monks were wrought to confirm the Apostacy of the latter Days from the Truth and Purity of it: The Apostolical Miracles were forefold in the Old Testament as Signs of the Kingdom of Christ, those of the Degenerate Monks are foretold in the New Testament, as the Signs of the Kingdom of Anti-christ.

Nothing can have a greater Tendency to shake the foundations of the Christian Religion, than to trump up a Multitude of Spurious Miracles to Confront the Genuine Ones, which were wrought by the Holy Apostles. AND DESCRIPTION OF THE PARTY OF

There was rend a Preface to the Refutation, in which they declaim against 'the Council for 'assuming the Title of the Seventh Council, and 'comparing the Image-worshippers to the Pagan Ido-laters, and they promise to refute 'em by the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God, and they triumph over 'em as cast out in the Streets of Je-rusalem, to be trampled upon by the Pious Members of the Carbolick Church.

We have proved that there is an exact Agreement between the Pagan Worship, and that of the Christi- X an Image worshippers; and therefore the Council of Confluntinople had just Reason for their Comparison. The Word of God is as contrary to Images, as Light is to Darkness; and therefore we accept the Councils Promise to determine this Point by the Holy Scriptures. Their trampling on the Image breakers, shews their Confidence in the Imperial Power, which was for em, but not in the Word of God, which was against 'em, as we have fully proved. The Council of Conftantinople had more reason to stile themselves the Seventh, than the Second Synod of Nice. They were conven'd by the Imperial Power, as the former General Councils had been, confifted of more Fathers than the First Council of Nice, or that of Ethe sus, or the first of Constantinople, and may with greater Propriety of Speech he term'd a General Council, than the Second of Nice, which was far from being truly General or Free, as we shall prove anon.

Gregory,

Gregory, Bishop of Neo Cesarea, read a Paper to disprove their being an Universal Council, the Sum of which was, 'That it had no Vicars of the Roman Pope, or the other Eastern Patriarehs, but was Rejected and Anathematiz'd by them: Nor cou'd that be called a Seventh, which agreed not with the Six former Synods.

It is sufficient that the Council represented the found part of the Universal Church. The Pope of Rome, and the Eastern Eishops were Summon'd to the Council, but refused to appear. This is acknowledged by Baronius, who fays, that none were wil-

(1) Ad An. 754. 5.7. quorum nemo interesse voluling to be present, either in their own Persons, or by their Legates. (1) Their not appearing in the Council was a Violation of the Obedience they ow'd their Supream Governors, as a fign of a bad Cause, which they had not the Courage to defend. It was their own fault that they had no Deputies in the Council, and in all Justice they ought to have been concluded by the Ads of it, fince they might and ought to have been prefent. Acts of any Publick Assembly are valid, tho' feve ral of the Members are absent, who according to the Duty of their Place ought to be present.

This Difference is very remarkable between these two Councils, that the Bishops that were for Images were Summon'd to fit in the Council of Conftantinople, but the Bishops that had declared against Images were not admitted into the Second Council of Nice, until they had profess'd their Repentance. In the former the contrary Party were not only allow'd, but commanded to appear, that there might be all Freedom of Debates; but being Self condemn'd they In the latter none were fuffer'd durst not appear: to take their Seat but those of the Faction : So that the broge worshippers wou'd neither be present in the Council

Gregory, Bishop of Neo Cefaria read.

The Holy and Universal Synod, which by the Grace of God, and most Pious Sanction of our Divinely Crowned and Orthodox Emperors, Constantine and Leo, was held in the Royal City (of Constantinople) in the Temple of St. Mary, called Blacherne, determined what is subjoyn'd.

John the Deacon read in Answer to this, That it was not gather'd by the Grace of God, because they for sook the Truth, for Grace and Truth came by Fesus Christ. That Annas, and Caiaphas, and the Fewish Council condemn'd Christ in the Temple.

It is certain, that Grace and Truth are inseparable. The Council of Constantinople defended the Truth of the Gospel, and the Nicene Council opposed it by their Tradition, which has no Foundation in the Gospel; therefore the former were gather'd by the Grace of God, and the latter were gather'd, both in Opposition to the Law which was given by Moses, and to the Grace and Truth which came by Fesus Christ; for both the Law and the Gospel condemn Image-worship.

The Nicene Bishops imitate the Jewish Council in Crucifying Christ afresh, by giving the Prerogatives of his Worship to a Graven Image: And in this this they are worse than the Fewish Council, for they condemned not Christ unheard, as the Nicene Fathers did the Orthodox Bishops.

Gregory reads.

God is the Cause and Author of all Things, who by his Goodness made all things of nothing.

Epiphanius reads.

If they believ'd this, they wou'd have kept his Command, but they have presum'd to Anathematize the Tradition given by Fesus Christ in his Church to Commemorate the Dispensation of Grace.

The Orthodox Fathers keep his Command, which forbids Graven Images, and you have made it void by your Traditions. The Tradition which Christ left in Commemoration of himself, is that of his last Supper: This the Orthodox Fathers Reverence as an Institution of Christ, and the Nicene Bishops disparage it by setting up a new Commemoration of him, contrary to his Word.

Gregory reads.

But he who for his former Brightness was call'd Lucifer, having fallen from God, and envying Man's Happiness, pour'd all his Malice upon him, cing him to Worship the Creature besides the Creator.

These Orthodox Fathers have the Consent of the Prophets and Apostles, in Condemning the Worshipping of Creatures, which is recommended by the Nicene Bishops. The Worship of Images, Saints, and Angels is the Worship of Creatures, and therefore is Idolatry by their own Confession. They falsely assume to themselves the Name of the Immaculate Church, who Desile themselves with vile Idolatry. They Worship the Creature besides the Creator, † as the Pagans did, and are the Rom. The Writings of the Apostles do foretel the Apofacy of the latter Days, that some shall depart from the Faith of Jesus Christ, the only Mediafor between God and Men, giving (n) 1 Tim. 4 hed to Seducing Spirits and Doctrines 1, 2. of Demons. (s) It's evident from these Testimonies, that the Apofacy foretold in the New Testament, is a Defection from the Purity of Gospel-worship, to Pagan and Jewish Idolatry. It was necessary that the Old Idolatry shou'd be revived under a new Name. It had been too groß to Worship Jupiter, Saturn, Mars, &c. The exploded Rabble of Pagan Gods. The old Idolary cou'd not well be introduced without a new form. As the Pagans Worshipp'd one Supream God, and many inferior Gods, as Mediators between em and the Supream Deity: Even so doth this Council, they used the Mediation of Saints and Angels, as the Pagans

Gregory reads, (the Words of the Council of Constantinople.)

Iglus Christ having ascended into Heaven, lest his Holy Disciples and Apostles to be the Teachers of this Saving Faith; who Beautisted our Church as his Spouse, with various and bright Dostrines of Godliness. Whose Comeliness was preserved with out Diminution by our famous Fathers and Teachers, and by the Six Sacred General Councils.

Epiphanius the Deacon, reads (the Answer of the Second Nicene Council.)

They falsely profess to observe the Six General Councils, but reject the Tradition which was ob-' ferv'd in all Times past by so many Saints. They reproach and cast off the Representation of the Gospel which is made by Pidures. Images were before the Sixth Council: And indeed, they were ' fince the very Preaching of the Apostles, as we learn ' in every place by beholding the Temples, and from the Testimony of the Fathers, and Historical Writers. As Christ went to Heaven, he bid his Apofiles teach all things that he had taught em. The Christians before Constantine's Time for 300 Years, " fuffer'd Martyrdom by opposing Idols. But the "Multitude of Christians being moved with a Divine Zeal, built Temples, some in the Name of Christ, fome in Honour of the Saints, fome Painted the Altr of the Humanity of Christ, others the Paffion of the Martyrs. gether, not long after died. When his Son Justinian obtain'd the Empire, the same Fathers met again about four or sive Years after, and made 102 Canons, of which the Eighty Second Canon requires the Painting of Christ in a Humane Form, and not in that of a Lamb, as he is in some Pictures, in which he is pointed at by his Forerunner. We see then that the Descriptions of Images were deliver'd in the Church, as well as that of the Gospel, before and after the Sacred Synods. We receive the same Knowledge of things past by Reading and Pictures, the some comes by the Ear, the latter by the Eye. Hence these two Senses are joyn'd in the Canticles, Let me see thy Countenance, let me hear thy Voice.

To this long Harangue I Answer.

1. The Council of Constantinople might well subscribe the Asts of the Sixth Council, against those who afferted one Will in Jesus Christ, without affenting to all the Canons of another Council, which were Composed four or five Years after, as is confess'd: This Canon making Council, was not really the Sixth Council, for the Sixth Council was Summon'd by Confantine, and after it had continu'd above two Years, was Diffolv'd, and the Ads of it fent to (1) Epift. Lethe Roman Council under Pope Agathon on II. adCon-His Successor, Leo the Second, approves Rapt in Actiand confirms the Ads of this Council, on XVIII. and Excommunicates all that differe Sext. Synod. Constantinop. from it. (t)

About ten Years after, as Binius thinks, fome of the Fathers of the Sixth Council met to make Canons to supply the Defects of the Fifth and Sixth Councils, who had made no Canons. It appears by the Subscriptions of this Council, that there were but 43 Bishops in it that had been of the former Council: Nor do their Numbers agree, for the Sixth Council confisted of about 170 Bishops, but as Bal. famon and others fay, this Tacking Council which met at Trullum in Constantinople, had no less than 227 Fathers in it. What Power had these Bishops to make Canons for two General Councils, whose Ads had been perfected, and generally receiv'd? Had they thought there was need of new Canons, they wou'd have made 'em themselves, and not have lest this Regulation to the Wisdom of a new Council, who, because it made Canons for the Fifth and Sixth Councils, was call'd men Sixly, Quinifexta Synodus.

Century

2. As to the Antiquity of Images, which they pretend were from the Beginning, themselves cou'd bring them no higher than the Fourth Age, as we have feen above. If Images were in all the Temples at this Time, it does not follow they were from the We have proved already, that the Chri-Beginning. stians of the three first Ages had no Images, and the Council does in effect confess it, by attributing the Original ' of Images to the Zeal of those, who in 'Constantine's Time, and afterwards built Temples in Honour of Christ and the Martyrs.

But they can't prove em to be as old as the Temples built by Constantine. The contrary is evident from what has been noted above. They grofly contradict themselves, in affirming that Images were in all Times past, and bringing for the Proof of it the Practice of the Fourth Age.

3. The 82d. Canon of the Council at Trullum proves that Images were used Historically in that Age, but it speaks nothing of setting em up in Churches, much less of their being Worshipped. The Civil and Historical Use of some Images is allow'd by all Protestants, but this makes nothing for the Religious Adoration of Images. We may infer from this

This Text (hews how grateful the Countenance of the Church is to Christ, not her Pidure, but her Inward and Spiritual Beauties; but here is not one word of Christ's Countenance, much less of his Image, which Solomon was a stranger to. No wonder, Image worship obtain'd among Perlons so grosly ignorant of the Scriptures of Truth, or

The Answer of the Nicene Council, read by Epiphanius.

As Rabshakeh used the Fews Language against Israel: So these Hereticks turn the Doctrine of the Fathers, and the Words of the Church against True God, as Rabshakeh did? No, they feek his Glory, and wou'd not have it given to Graven Images. Did they defie the Armies of Israel? No, but they endeavour to cure Ifrael of their Idolatry. What Evil then have these Rabshakeh's, the Hereticks, the Whited Sepulchers done? Have they overthrown any Fundamental Article of the Faith, after sufficient Conviction of the Truth? The Article they oppose is that of Image worship, in Obedience to the Second Commandment; nor did the Patrons for Images fo much as endeavour their Convidion, tho' they were Summon'd by the Emperor to appear in the Council. Hereticks are those that wilfully err in Fundamental Articles after due Conviction. The Image-breakers affert the most Fundamental Article of Religion. the Worship of the True God against Image-worship. They are the Hereticks who oppose this Article, by Worshipping Saints and Angels, and Graven Images, and that after sufficient Conviction. Therefore the Second Council of Nice are the Hereticks, who erred in a Fundamental Point of Religion, after the Judicious Determination of the Council of Constantinople, which leaves the Nicene Fathers without Excuse.

But the Fathers at Constantinople apply'd the Words of Gregory Nyssen to Image-worship; where is the hurt of that? Are they therefore Rabshakeh's, and Whited Sepulchres? The Nicene Bishops wretted the words of Solomon to Support Image worship, contraly to the plain Sense and Meaning of 'em. If those be Rabshakeh's, these are viler than Rabshakeh, in turning God's Word against God.

The Words of Gregory, tho' defign'd by him against the Arians, are opposite to Image-worship. The imen Arians Worshipp'd the Person of Jesus Christ in Oe the tures to Worship him. The Nicene Bishops Worship M 2

Saints and their Images in Defiance to the Holy Scriptures.

The Herefie of the Arians confifted in making a Creature of the Eternal and Only Begotten Son of God, who is of the same Essence with the Father: The Herefie of this Nicene Council confifts in making new Gods, by Worshipping the Creature besides the Creator, who is God Bleffed for ever.

The one Worshipp'd Christ, to whom all Honour is due; the other Worthipp'd Images, to whom no Religious Honour is due. Therefore in Point of Wor. Thip, the Image-worshippers are worse than the A.

Wherefore as Jesus the Author and Finisher of our Salvation endued his Disciples and Apostles with the Power of the Holy Ghost, and sent em forth to all places for the Destruction of these (Idols:) So has he now rais'd up his Servants of the like Apostolical Spirit, our faithful Emperors, who are endued with the Spirit of Wisdom, and Power for our Restoration and Instruction, and for the distinction of Satan's strong Holds which exalt themselves against the Knowledge of God, and for the Redargution of the Devilish Wiles and Errors.

The Answer was read by Epiphanius the Deacon.

'Who hath ever spoken such Wickedness on high? What can be worse than this Impiety? nant Blasphemy, that any shou'd presume to call the Vision and Sight by which we are brought to remember the Passion of Christ by the Name of Satan's firong Holds. If their Weapons have fail'd for ever, and their Cities are destroy'd, how dare this False Convention prate that they are re-built and renew'd, that they may attribute the Destruction of 'em to themselves.

Remarks on this Answer.

Exclamations and hard words fill up this Paragraph. Images were not from the Beginning of Christianity, as we have prov'd; there was therefore a Change made in the Church, even that Change from the Faith and Worship of the Gospel, which was foretold in the New Testament.

The Text which they cite against the Possibility of this Change is nothing to the Purpose, for it speaks not of Images, and the Artifices by which Image worship was supported, which are the strong holds of Satan, in which he detains his Captives. Our Saviour assures us that Satan may recover his old Dominion, and return to his deserted Habitation, attended with seven other Spirits, more wicked than himself. It was foretold, that after he was bound up he must be loosed again to deceive the Nations. When a Church becomes Idolatrous, she is no more a Habitation of God, but the Hold of every foul Spirit, a Habitation (c) Rev. 18. 2. of Devils, and a Cage of every unclean and bateful Bird. (c)

Who being moved with a Divine Zeal, cou'd not endure to fee the Church of the Faithful carried away with the Delusion of Devils, called together the Sacred Colledge of Bishops, to determine as feems good unto them, in a Synodical manner, concerning the Seducing Operation of Pillures, which draw the Mind of Men from the Supream and Godbecoming Worship to the Base and Material Worship of the Creature. For the Priests Lips shou'd preserve Knowledge.

comes she to be carried away by the Power of Devils. They have not distinguish'd between that which is Sacred, and that which is Prophane, for they make no difference between the Images of the Lord and his Saints, and the Images of Devils.

Remarks on this Answer.

This is but a Repetition of what we had before, and has been answer'd already. The Fewish Church, whose Walls were before God, when she fell under the Guilt of Idolatry was forfaken of God, and fent to Captivity in Babylon. The Promises made unto the Catholick Church are made good to the true Worshippers, but Idolaters are not of that Church. Jews cried, the Temple of the Lord are these, when they had defiled the Temple with their abominable Idols.

The Fathers at Constantinople did distinguish between Sacred and Prophane, because they account the Worship of God to be Sacred, and all Image-worship to be Prophane, because forbidden of God not only forbids the Images (d) Deut. 4. of Devils, but of himfelf, as we have 1/a. 40. proved. (d)

Tho' God and Christ be most Holy, to make Images of 'em is a Prophane thing, because they debase the Infinite Perfections of the Divine Nature, which is one and the same in the Father, and the Son. The Worshipping of the Creature, whether it be done by dis 2 100 doinw round olds rous of Pogans

The Council of Constantinople proceeds.

We the Sacred Synod Affembled together, in Number, three hundred thirty eight, following the · Synodical Determinations, do embrace and receive the Doctrines and Traditions, which they establish ed and obliged us to observe: In the first place, the Sacred Council of Nice under Constantine the Great, against Arius: The Council of Constantino. ple, confifting of 150 Fathers, who condemn'd Macedonius: The Council of Ephesus, which con-' demn'd Nestorius, who holding the same Opinion with the Fews, Worshipp'd'a Man: The Council of Chalcedon, which condemn'd Dioscorus and Eu. tyches, who confounded the two Natures of Christ: The other Council of Constantinople of 165 Fathers, under Justinian, which condemn'd Origen, Didymus, with their Pagan Writings, Theodorus of Mopfuesta, &c. And also the other Synod of Con-fantinople, under Constantine, confisting of 170 Fathers, who condemn'd Theodorus of Phara, Cyrus of Alexandria, Honorius of Rome, &c. affirm'd, that there is but one Will and Operation in the two Natures of Christ.

The Answer of the Second Synod of Nice.

Hereticks receiv'd some of the Councils, so the Nestorians receiv'd the First and Second, Eutyches receiv'd that of Ephesus, Sergius, Cyrus, and Hono-rius receiv'd the five first General Councils, but they stand condemn'd for Hereticks by the Sixth Council. Remarks on this Answer.

The Nicene Bishops cannot charge the Council of Constantinople with any Error concerning the Faith of the Six General Councils; nor do they except against the Imperial Power by which they were called: They were therefore an Orthodox lawful Council, fuperior in Number to most of the General Councils.

The Council of Constantinople adds.

Which when we had examin'd and revised with great Care and Accuracy, and with the Affistance of the Holy Ghost, we found the Unlawful Art of ' Painters Blaspheming the very Doctrine of our Salvation, that is, the Dispensation of Christ, and The ' fubverting the Six Sacred General Synods. They Mass. commend Nestorius, who makes two Sons of the one Son and Word of God, who for our fakes was made Man: As also Arius and Eutyches, who confound and mix the two Natures of one Christ.

The Answer of the Second Nicene Council.

" If the Art of Painting be abused to represent any Filthiness, it is to be rejected as hurtful; but if we Paint the Lives of Virtuous Men, or the Conflids and Sufferings of the Martyrs, or the Mystery of the Dispensation of the Great God, and our Saviour Jesus Christ, we rightly use the Art of Painting, for the Painter makes a Crofs, which no wise Man rejects.

How does he that Paints the Image of Christ commend Nestorius? He introduced two Sons, X 2 Intent whereof one is the Word of the Father, the other the Son of the Virgin: But the true Christians confess but one Son, both Christ and Lord, and they Paint his Image as the Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us. Thus we Paint a Man, but none feeks ' his Soul in the Image, especially fince there is an incomparable difference between the Soul of a Man and the Divine Nature. None that fees the Image of a Man, will fay that the Painter Separates be-' tween the Man and his Soul.

'O inconfiderable and anile Fables, and hidden Fraud! the Herefies of Arius and Eutyches are contrary and inconfistent. What Agreement or Com-" munication hath the Catholick Church with Arius and Eutyches on the account of Images?

Remarks on this Answer.

I. The Protestants do not condemn the Civil and Historical Use of Images, but when they are Wor. Shipp'd, they become the filthy Instruments of Idolatry, which is the groffest Abuse of the Art of Painting. In this Sense the Council justly pronounces this Art Unlawful. It proved the unhappy Occasion of Ido-

II. It is unlawful to make Images of the Great God and Saviour Jesus Christ. The End of Christ's Incarnation was not to teach Men to make Images of him. The Gospel, which explains the Ends of his Manifestation in the Flesh, has not one word of representing his Humanity by Pidures or Images. The unlawfulness of making Images of Christ will appear, if we confider.

1. That the Son of God often appear'd to the Patriarchs and Fathers in a Humane Form; fo he did to Abraham, Jacob, Moses, Joshua, &c. But the Jew ish Courch did not think these Appearances a sufficient Ground for Painting him in the Figure of a Man.

2. Images of God are expressly forbidden, Deut. 4. 16, 17, 18. The Father, Son, and Holy Ghost are one and the same God. Therefore Images of the Son, and Holy Ghost, are equally unlawful with Images of the Father. The Lord Jesus Christ is the Son of God, and to make Images of him, is to make Images of God.

3. The Humane Nature of Jesus Christ never subfifted but in the Union of his Godhead. As to his Perfon he is God, and therefore an Image of his Humanity is no Image of the Person of Christ, and by consequence no Image of Christ. A Man's Image gives us an Idea of his Person. The Image of Christ cannot represent his Person, and therefore it gives a false Idea of him, by representing him in the Person of a Man, which is to recommend Nestorianism, as the Council of Constantinople well observes. It is true, None feeks the Soul of a Man in his Image, because the Lineaments and Air of his Face done from the Life, do in a manner represent the Soul, the Principle of that Life. But the Picture of Christ gives no Representation of his Divine Person; it shews only his Humanity, abstracted from the Eternal Word. which dwelt in Flesh. Tho' a Man's Image does not express his Soul, it expresses a Living, and not a Dead Man. It is a Representation of a Living Person, and not of a meer Carcafe, or Skeleton: But the Pidures of Christ cannot express him as God-Man, or God manifested in the Flesh. They pretend to shew only his Humane Nature, which as it is Painted, it is as much a Humane Person as can be express'd in a Pidure. It is therefore of dangerous Confequence, to Paint the Humanity of Christ, and has a Tendency to beget in us false Ideas of him, as if he were a Humane Person, as the Nestorians conceiv'd of him, or a Divine Person confisting of one Nature, which refults from the Union of both Natures, as the Eutychians chians taught. An Image can't possibly represent his Person in both Natures; and therefore it naturalli introduces militaken Notions of the Person and Na tures of our Lord Jefus Christ. When illiterate Per fons (for whose fake they pretend Images were invented) behold an Image of Christ, they conceive of him as a meer Man; for an Image can represent him no otherwise unto 'em. So that what the Propher speaks of Images in general, is properly applicable to the Images of Christ, they are Teachers

(e) Hab. 2.18. of Lies. (e)

4. The Humane Nature of Christ abstracted from his Divine Person, is not the Object of Religious Worship. We Adore the Son of God manifested in the Flesh, but not his Humanity separated from his Godhead. To Worship his Humanity as such, is to Worship the Creature, which was the Idolatry of the Arians. Therefore Image worthippers have Communion with the Arians by introducing the Worthin of the Creature. If the Worshipping of the Humanity of Christ be Idolatry, how much more is the Worshipping of his Image, which represents him as a Humane Person.

c. If Christ be Painted, it must be either as he now is in his Exaltation, or as he was in his Humiliation. To Paint him in his Exalted and Glorified State is impossible; to Paint him in his low Estate, is to Debase his Glorious Person, and to divest him of the Glory of Exalted Humanity. He is the present Object of our Adoration, not as he was on Earth, in the despised Form of a Servant, but as he now is at the Right-hand of God in the Illustrious Form of Sovereign Majesty, whose Glory is as far above out Comprehension, as the Heavens are above the Earth.

Nothing can be a greater Diminution to this Excellent Perfon, than to Paint him in the Likeness of sinful Flesh. It is, as if Foseph had been Painted in Such a Representation of him wou'd have been Dishonourable and Reproachful, and wou'd better have fuited the Malicious Disposition of some envious Rival, than of a Loyal Subject, who delighted to Honour a Person to whom all were commanded to bow the Knee. Or. as if King David's Picture in the Form of a Countrey Shepherd with his Staff and Tar-box, instead of the Enfigns of Majesty, had been recommended unto his Subjects to beget in 'em honourable Thoughts of their Prince. The like Honour is done to the Great King of Heaven and Earth by Image-makers. All the Pictures they make of him have a manifest Tendency to diminish his Glory, to beget in Men's Minds unjust and disparaging Ideas of him.

6. Besides, it is impossible to make a true Image of his Humanity, the Form of which is altogether unknown at so great a distance of Time. But this has

TOM. III.

The Council of Constantinople proceed.

We account it just by our present Determination, to shew the Error of those who make and Worship Pidures. How stupid is the Intellect of the social Painter, who for filthy Lucre studies what ought not to be studied, that is, to Figure with their impure Hands what ought to be believ'd with the Heart, and confess'd with the Mouth. For such a one made an Image, calling it Christ. But the Name Christ signifies God and Man, therefore it is the Image both of God and Man, and either Circumscribes the Immensity of the Deity by the Limits of Created Flesh, or confounds the inconsussible Unition, by which they attribute two Blasphemies to the Deity, that of Circumscription and Consustant on. Wo to the Makers and Worshippers of 'em, who err with Arius, and Dioscorus, and Eutyches.

The Answer of the Second Council of Nice.

God inspired Bezaleel with Wisdom, and gave Eliab for his Companion to work in the Tabernacle, according to what he commanded. Our Fathers seeing Images in the Temples willingly received em, and took care to get these Painted as they dedicated Temples. They were taught to Paint his Image in the Nature in which he was seen, which is invisible, and cannot be circumscribed. He that Cursed old Israel was Accursed, how much more Accursed are they that dare Curse the Church of God. The Arians say, that Christ's Divinity was instead of a Rational Soul, and affirming the Deity to have suffer'd admit no Image. Nor did Severus the Consounder suffer Images in the Church.

Remarks on this Answer.

The Instance of Bezaleel is impertinently alledged, for he made no Images to be Worshipp'd by the Congregation of Israel, nor any Figures but as he was commanded of God. No Command can be produced for Image-worship, but it is expressly forbidden in the Word of God.

The Arians denied the true Divinity of Jesus Christ, which they affirm'd to be no other than a Creature; if any of 'em were against Images, it was not from any Principles of Arianism that they oppofed them; for the Arians, and Nicene Worshippers, did both of 'em Worship the Creature.

The Council of Constantinople goes on.

When they are Condemn'd for endeavouring to Paint the Incomprehensible, and Uncircumscribed Divine Nature of Christ, they sly to another illcontriv'd Apology, that they Paint only the Image of his Flesh, which was seen and felt; but this is Impious, and an Invention of Nestorian Wickedness. Where the Flesh of Christ is, there the Flesh of the Word is; where his Body and Soul is, there his Deity is, which ought not to be separated, as is Wickedly attempted by the Image-makers. If the Divinity be inseparable, how dare these foolish and unreasonable People divide his Flesh, which is inseparably united to his Divinity, and as it were Deified by it? Herein also they fall into another Gulf of Wickedness, for by separating his Flesh from bis Deity, they attribute a Person to his Flesh, which makes an Addition of a Fourth Person in the Trinity. this one world als willing erroduce enconflient and contrary the

The Answer of the Second Council of Nice.

We Paint Christ as the Word was made Flesh, whom we believe to be perfect in his Deity, and to be perfect in his Humanity.

There is no Reason for Separation, or Division, or Consustant, as they often talsely affirm; for an Image is one thing, the Original another, and no Man seeks the Properties of the Original in the Image. For true Reason knows nothing else in an Image but the Communication of the Name, and not the Essence unto him whose Image it is.

The Herefie of Eutyches is contrary to Nestorius, and it is not possible that contrary Herefies shou'd be in the fame Opinion and Confession.

We reject Arius, Nestorius, Eutyches, &c. and receive the Venerable Images, and know em to be nothing else.

Remarks on this Answer.

The Obelieve, but what the Image worthipper profess to believe, but what Representations Image make of Christ. It is undeniable, they can only to present the Humane Nature of Christ, which is a falle Representation of his Person, and tends to beget in the Illiverate, whose Books they are, wrong theas of him. It is true, the Image is not the Original but if it does not represent the Original can be no Image of it, not can it so much as communicate the Name to it for Similicade, or the Agreement between the Image and the Person is the Reason of the Denomination.

Images of Christ, as they are inconsistent with the Truth, may introduce inconsistent and contrary Horestes, as they have contrary Significations put upo

t. It is evident that the Fathers at Constantinople did not believe Transubstantiation, they make the Elements in the Lord's Supper to be Images or Figures of the Flesh and Blood of Jesus Christ, and not his very Flesh and Blood. Nor did they perform any Acts of rage, for Adoration to the Confectated Bread, which in their Opinion was not Impress'd with the Figure of a Man, that it might not be Idolatroully Worshipp'd.

2. The Constantinopolitan Fathers, by an Image of Christ, mean only a Representation of his Death, which is remember'd in the Lord's Supper. They diflinguish between this Divine Image, or Resemblance of his Sufferings, which Christ recommends in Commemoration of himself, and an Artificial Image of Humane Form, which Christ no where appointed, let it shou'd introduce Idolarry.

'Being destitute of the Fear of God, they aggravate Evil with big Words, and boildly pronounce the Images of Christ, False and lying Names: Had they presum'd to speak so of the Images of the Emperors, they had justly forfeited their Lives. And they shall be Punish'd with Destruction in the Day of Retribution.

Besides, among several other things that were deliver'd unto us without Writing, the making of Images in the Church hath been spread abroad from the Preaching of the Apostles. The History of the Woman with the Bloody Isue proves this. She set up an Image of Christ, and of her self touching the Border of the Image. And a certain Plant grew between her and the Image, approaching near the Foot

Basil the Great, also makes mention of Images, fo does Gregory Nyssen, and Gregory the Divine, and John Chrysostom, Cyril, Sophronius, Maximus. But why do we mention these, since all our Holy Fathers approved the making of lemages.

There is not that Danger of Idelatry in Reading, as is in Images. fides, the Question is not, whether Sacred Emblems, or Histories, or Parables may be described in Pictures, which the Protestants condemn not, but whether we shou'd make Images of Christ and the Saints to Wor. To ascribe unto the Cross a Power of driving a-way Devils, and to the Sacred Vassels a Power of Santifying us, is Superstitious, and to Worship these is Idolatrous. The Constantine greatly Adorn'd the Christian Temples built by him, we do not find that he set up any Crosses in them. We meet with a Golden Cross erected by him in his Palace, but not for Adoration.

The Pious Emperor order'd also the Image of a good Shepherd, and of Daniel among the Lions to be set up in Brass, cover'd with Plates of Gold, in the Fountains which were in the Forum. These were Instructive and Historical Emblems, but (1) Euseb. de were not Worshipped, nor erected in Vit. Const. III. any Place of Publick Worship. (1):

The Council of Constantinople continues.

The Christian Catholick Church being in the middle between Judaism and Paganism, partakes of the Ceremonies of neither, but walks in a new Path of Piety, and Mysterious Ordinances deliver'd by God himself. She rejects the Bloody Sacrifices of Judaism, and abhors, not only the Sacrifices of Paganism, but the Making and Worshipping of Ima The Author and Inventer of this abominable Art among Christians, not believing the Resurrection, doth in a ridiculous manner represent as prelent things that are not present. If therefore there be nothing Foreign in the Church, this also must be accounted Foreign, and excluded the Church of Christ, as the Invention of Devilish Men.

The Answer of the Nicene Bishops.

'Their frivolous Sayings are full of Madness, and worthy of Laughter. One while they bring themfelves into the Depth of Hell, by pronouncing the Christian Church to be in the middle between Judaism and Paganism; another while they are inconsistent with themselves, and say, that she Partakes not of the Solemn Ceremonies of either of em. Judaism opposes Paganism, and both oppose Christianity. But these Men make the Faith of the Christians to be in the middle between these two Adversaries. We introduce not the Defect of Divinity with the Jews, nor the Multitude of Gods with the Pagans.

Remarks on this Answer.

The Council of Constantinople truly said, that the Christian was in the middle between Judaism and Paganism, as Virtue is in the middle between the two extream Vices, and partakes of neither. A liftle Skill in Ethicks wou'd have taught the Nicene Doctors to distinguish between Medium Negationis, which partakes of neither Extream, and Medium Participationis, which partakes of both. The Church is in the middle in the former Sense, and therefore ought not to partake of Judaism or Paganism, as the Constantinopolitans well argue. The Nicene Bishops fay, they do not introduce a Multitude of Gods with the Pagans: But they establish Image-worship, and the Worship of Saints and Angels, which is Paganism revived under a new Name, as we have proved.

The departed Saints do live with God. They who endeavour to fet 'em up by the Dead and Odious Art of Pagan Invention, are Blashhemers. How dare they in imitation of the vile Art of the Pagans, Paint the Celebrated Mether of God, who is higher than the Heavens, and more Sacred than the Cherubims? Are they not asham'd to make Pictures of the Glorified Saints by the Art of Pagans.

'Our Holy Fathers, who of old pleased God, deliver'd a Narrative of their Actions in Pictures, both for Commemoration and Imitation. St. Bafil tells his Hearers, We will fet before you, as in a Pidure, the Couragious Ads of Men. Images bring to our Minds the Conflicts and Virtues of the Mother of God, and the Saints, who according to the Holy Apostle are with Christ, and Intercede for us. We give Supream Honour to these, but we give the Worship, which is in Spirit and Truth to God alone. and not to any Creature under Heaven. We do not praise the Supream God and his Saints by Hiforical Books, as the Pagans did their Gods and Demons. O Subversion, O Madness! We are sensible Men, and use sensible Things for the Knowledge and Remembrance of every Divine and Pious Tradition.

Reflections on this Answer.

and think in that it above

The Nicene Bishops have not been able to produce any Fathers of the three first Centuries for the Religious Use of Images, nor any of the Fourth Age for Image-worship. Basis Testimony is impertinent, for he speaks not of Material Images, but of the Representation which is made to the Ear by a lively Distourse.

The lekeness of

The Degrees of Religious Worthip have been confider'd above. The Worship of Supream Honour and Adoration belong only to God, and admit of no Ditrinction, nor can the vulgar diftinguith, who being taught to give the same outward Adoration to Images that is given to God, inevitably incur the Guilt of Idolarry. For Bodily Adoration foon introduces that which is Spiritual and Supream, as is apparent in the Romish Church

The Christian Religion, which is Founded on the Holy Scriptures, does not teach Image-worship, but the Pagan Religion recommends it: Therefore the Ni cene Fathers do Worship as the Pagans did, among whom the wifer fort Worth pp'd the True God by Visible Representations, as we have proved out of Maximus Tyrius, and others.

Tistrue, we are Sensible Creatures, but God his furnish'd us with fensible Things enow in the Book of Creation and Providence to put us in mind of him. He hath given us also the Sacraments of the Gospel which are fensible Signs of Spiritual Bleffings. Bu no sensible Things will ferve these Gentlemen's turn but fuch as are of a Pagan Invention, and forbidden in the Word of God, namely, Religious Images.

The Council of Constantinople goes on.

Let us hear the Inspired Writings, and the Telli ' monies of the Fathers. Our chief Argument is from the Ward of God. God is a Spirit, and the that Worship him must Worship him in Spirit and in

The Answer of the Nicene Council.

We Paint not God as he is a Spirit, but the Son of God as he was made Man.

'The Command against Graven Images respected the Idols, and Devils, which the Heathen Worshipp'd, as also the Sun, Moon, and Stars, Beafts, and Birds, but not the Living and True God.

St. Paul condemns the Pagans, who before they believ'd in Christ, had chang'd the Glory of God into the Likeness of the Image of a Man; but he fleaks not of Christians, whom Christ hath Re-

ing by the Word of God. (2)

' Chrysostome explains our not knowing Christ after the Flesh, of his being above Sufferings and Infirmities.

' We walk by Faith, and not by Sense, as we believe in the unfeen God, and by beholding the vifi-He things that are made we come to the Knowledge of God. But this makes nothing against Images.

Remarks on this Anfwer.

We have already proved, that no Image of Jefus Idol Christ ought to be made, and that the Second Com-Mills will to wmandment the the mandment forbids all Images of the Living and True

God, as well as those of False Gods.

St. Paul condemns Pagan Idolatry, in his Epiffle to the Romans, whose Apoltacy to Idolatry he foresaw by the Spirit of Prophecy; and therefore does more fully fet forth the Evil of it. If the Christians imitate Pagan Idolatry, they are involv'd in the fame Guilt, which is fo much the more aggravated, because they are Christians, whon Jesus Christ came to Redeem from the Error of Idols. Whoever Worships and Serves the Creature besides the Creator, are guily of Idolatry, whether they be Pagans or Christians.

Chrysostome's Sense of not knowing Christ after the Flesh, is confishent enough with not knowing him by an Image, which reprefents him as a weak Man, subject to Sufferings and Infirmities.

It is fairly confessed by the Nicene Bishops, that we come to the Knowledge of God by the visible Works of Creation. They are therefore Self-condemn'd, who not resting satisfied with the Means which God hath appointed to bring us to a Life of Faith, namely, his Works, Word, and Ordinances, have prefum'd to fer up the forbidden Medium of Images, which area Doctrine of Lies and Vanity, and bring us not to the Knowledge and Faith of God.

TOM. V.

The Council of Constantinople adds.

That our Fathers taught us the same things. Epiphanius faith, Remember this, my Sons, that you bring no Images into the Churches, or Church-yards. Gregory the Divine faith, That it is a Reproach to bave our Faith in Pictures, and not in our Hearts. John Chrysostome teacheth us, We enjoy the Pre-

Jence of the Saints, not having the Image of their Mith whom agrees Theodorus of Ancyra, twe have not received the Gr. Theodorus of the Saints in Colour'd Images, but we imitate their Virtues as certain living I-

'Eusebius Pamphilus also in a Letter to Constantia the Empress, who desir'd him to send her the Image of Christ, remonstrates against it as Unlaw-

The Nivene Bishops being not able to deny the Truth of these Allegations, they shuffle em off as well as they can. They pretend the first is out of some spurious piece of Epiphanius, which has been considered already. They endeavour to put off those of Gregory, Chrysostome, Amphilochius, and Theodorus, by pretending they are to be understood in a comparative Sense; whereas these Fathers speak positively, that they neither bad, nor needed the Images of the Saints.

They say Athanasius speaks of Pagans. True, but his Words are very applicable to all Image-worshippers, who Worship the Creature besides the Creature.

They exclaim against Eusebius in a long Harangue, as a Gursed Arian, whose Testimony ought not to be admitted.

Iam

† Vic. Patr. Man from the Imputation of Arianism.
Tom. II. in This has been done effectually by other Easeb. Vit. Hands, especially by Dr. Cave. †

The Council of Constantinople proceeds.

We have laid down these sew Testimonies out of the Holy Scriptures and Futhers, among an instance Mulcitude that might have been produced, but to avoid tediousness we forbear. Being simply built on the Divinely Inspir'd and Blessed Scriptures and Fathers, and fixing our Feet on the Rock of Divine Worship which is in the Spirit, we do not the Name of the Holy Trinity, with one Heart and Mind, determine and decree, that all Images made by the Evil Art of Painters be cast out of the Christian Church, and accounted for Strange and Abominable.

The Nicene Bishops do now talk like Men besides themselves, and that they may seem to be sober, they heap up several Scriptures, which are Ignorantly of Maliciously misapplied: So they do the Words of David, Psalm 12. 'Every one speaketh Vanity to bis Neighbour, with deceitful Lips they have spokes Evil with a double Heart. They add out of Isaid 44. The Council of wicked Men adviseth evil things. They establish naked Impiety, and have not the Judgment of God in their Minds. Like Swine they tread upon Pearls, that is, the Traditions of the Church.

They break in on the Flock of Christ as fierd Wolves, they are not only full of Blasphemy, but their Words abound with Madness, and want of Discipline. They are Accursed, for they remove the Ancient Land-marks.

Canon 1. 'If any one presume henceforth to make an Image, or Worship it, or set it up in the Church, or in a private House, or to hide it, if he be a Bishop, or a Priest, or a Deacon, let him be Deposed; if a Monk, or a Layman, let him be Excommunicated, and he Obnoxious to the Imperial Laws, as an Adversary to the Commands of God, and the Dotterine of the Fathers.

The Answer of the Nicene Bishops.

Images were in the Church from the beginning of the Gospel. Ancient things ought to be Reverenc'd. The Apostle bids the Corinthians hold fast the Traditions which they had receiv'd. And he hids Timothy and Titus shun prophane new Coyn'd Words. Therefore all Christians that are born in the Catholick Church do retain the Traditions we have receiv'd.

they exposed us to all Miseries. What Tongue can express the Tragedies occasion'd on this Account? Where shall I begin to reckon up the Troubles, Fears, Persecutions, Confinement, and Whipping of Monks in several Cities, the Burning of Sacred Books, the Prophanation of Holy Temples, the Translating of Monasteries into Secular

, lar Dwellings, the Monks choosing to remove into Barbarous Countries, rather than live among their " Countrey men, with whom, in Obedience to the Apostle's Command, they wou'd not so much as eat.

Remarks on this Answer.

It's false that Images were in the Church from the beginning of the Gospel. The Tradition, of which the Apostle speaks to the Corinthians, is not that of Graven Images, as they ridiculously infinuate, but the Destrine which the Apostle deliver'd by Word of Mouth in Preaching to them. So he explains himfelf in 1 Cor. 11. 1. Te hold fast the Traditions which I deliver'd unto you. What Traditions? Those a. bout the decent Administration of Gospel Ordinances, Prayer, Praise, and the Lord's Supper: Concerning the last of these, he saith, v. 23. I have received of the Lord that which I have deliver'd unto you; that the Lord Jesus in the Night in which he was betrayd took Bread, blessed and broke it, &c. The Tradition here is the Doctrine of Christ concerning the Institution of the Lord's Supper, which the Nicene Bishops absurdly apply to Image worship. Ireneus calls the Doctrine of One God, the Creator of Heaven and Earth, the Tradition which the Co. (a) Adv. Harinthians had receiv'd of the Aporef. III. 3. files. (a)

As to the Severities used against the Image-wor-Thippers, it is certain they are much aggravated by the Byzantine Monks, and out of them by Baronius, Maimbourg, and others.

The furious Zeal of the Monks in opposing the Imperial Edicts, and stirring up Tumults against Monks Constantine Copronymus, occasion'd greater Rigour to each M. wards 'em, than otherwise had been used.

Andrew the Calybite, a Cretian Monk, went to Constantinople, that he might raise Sedition against the Imperial Edicts. ' He lodged in a Cottage near Blacherna at Constantinople, and crept about the Royal City, to stir up the Orthodox (Image-worshippers) openly to oppose the Impiety of the Hereticks. And a little after, in the Day in which the Emperor tormented the Mittyrs (for Sedition) Andrew pass'd thro' the Guards to the Emperor's Throne, and Reproach'd him to his Face for his 'Cruel Impiety, calling him another Valens, Julian, Persecutor of Jesus Christ in his Members and Ima-

I have related these Stories in the (b) In Spanh. Words of Maimburg, out of Cedrenus, Hift. Imag. Theophanes, &c. (b) Sect. IV. Num.

It must be confess'd, that the Empefor observing the Vicious and Idle Lives of the Monks, together with their gross Ignorance, I. dolatries, Uncleanness, and their Turbulent Oppositions to his Edicts, did oblige 'em to Marry the Nuns, because he judg'd it better to Marry than to Burn.

Thus he perswaded Constantine the Pad by tiarch of Constantinople, formerly a (c) Theophan. Monk, to relinquish his former way of Ibid. Num. 9.

Hence it was that he fometimes commanded the ainst Monks to be brought forth into the Hippodromus, it to each Man handing a Nun, that they (d) Niceph. might enure themselves to an honest Patr, in Spanh. Ibid. Conversation with the Sex. (d) The

The Council of Constantinople added another Canon: 'That no Person, under Pretence of diminishing the Error of Images, prefume to lay his Hands

The Sacred Synod cried out, We all so believe, we all think the same thing. Thus far the Council of Constantinople, together with the pretended Refutation of the Nicene Countil, without omitting any thing material, by which the Reader may judge of the Arguments on both s ha fides. I will now proceed to the next Adion of the Nicene Synod.

ACTION VII.

In the Seventh Action we have the Definition of the Council, wherein, after a Confession of their 1x Faith, Faith, they determine the setting up of Sacred Images in Churches, Sacred Vessels, Vestments, Walls, Cloaths, Houses, and High ways; namely, the Images of Christ, and the Spotless Mother of God, of the Angels and all the Saints. These are useful to beget in us a Remembrance and Desire of the Originals, and we ought to Salute'em (by Kissing, Embracing, Bowing the Knee, &c.) And to give an Honourable Wor. Ship, not the true Service, which is according to Faith, and becomes only the Divine Nature.

They that think and teach otherwise, or any way despise Images, Relicks, &c. If they be Bishops, or Clarks, let 'em be Deposed; if Monks, or Laymen, let 'em be Excommunicated.

Then follow the Subscriptions of the Bishops, and their Exclamations, wherein they profess to believe in God, to Kiss the Honourable Images, and to Curse those that think or act otherwise. Anathema to the Council that rages against Images. Anathema to such as receive the Impious and Silly Reasons of their Heresie. Anathema to Theodosius Bishop of Ephesus, to Sisinnius, and Basil. Anathema to Anastasius, Constantine, and Nicetus, who successively presided in the Throne of Constantinople. Anathema to John of Nicomedia, to Constantine of Nacolia, Arch-Hereticks. To Germanus, John (Mansur) and Gregory Eternal Memory. This Action ends with an Epittle of the Synod to the Emperors, recommending Image-worship, and another to the Clergy of Constantinople.

ACTION VIII.

This Action begins with a Recital of the Determinations of the Synod, and of the Anathema's above mention'd. Then they promulgated feveral Canons, in Number XXI.

In the next place we have Tarasius his Epistle to Adrian Pope of Old Rome, wherein he acquaints him with the Ads of the Council, that he had receiv'd his Letter with the two Homonymous (squivocal) Peters, Legates of St. Peter, I that he call'd the two Priests that came from the East, John and Thomas: That all the Bishops of his Diocess (of Constantinople) were call'd together by the Command and Pious Zeal of the

Emperare who being met made the Session of the Synod: He adds, that they were regaled by the Spiritual Food of his Letter, as at a Royal Supper of Christ's providing: That there was also tead the Letter which was sent from the Eastern Dioces: That the Emperors had set up the Venerable Images in every Place, both in the Sacred Temples, and in their Imperial Court.

Three things are remarkable in this Epiftle.

3. Tarafius flatters the Pope, how they were regaled by the Spiritual Food of his Letter, as at a Supper of Christ's providing. He takes no notice of the fower Sauce which the Pope fent to him, for he Remonstrated against his Uncanonical Election, whereby he was made a Patriarch of a Layman, and threaten'd not to admit his Confectation, unless Images were restor'd. The chief Dish with which the Pope's Letter furnish'd Tarasius, was that of Images, which tho' a. greeable to both their Palates, was so far from being a Royal Supper of Christ's providing, that it is not fo much as mention'd in the Gospel. He hath appointed Bread and Wine for his Myflical Supper, and not the Polluted Food of Images, which are more proper to regale Pagans than Christians. We are fatisfied with the Sacramental Supper of Bread and Wine, wherein we enjoy Jesus Christ, and leave the Image-worshippers to feed on Pictures and Shadows.

Thus ends the Voluminous Council of Nice, in which Image-worship was Established in the Church, and made an Essential Part of the Christian Religion. But I will make some further Resections on the Council of Constantinople and its Opposite, the second Nicene Synod, in the following Chapter.

TE may observe concerning this Council.

I. That it was as truly General as most of those that are so called.

It was called by the Imperial Power, by which the former General Councils had been Summon'd.

It was held in the Year 754, and in the Thirteenth of Constantine's Reign, in which Year Pope Stephen the Third had other Pish to fry, he was builly employ'd in enlarging St. Peter's Patrimony; to which End he went to Paris to Anoint Pipin King of the Franks, who receiv'd him very Graciously, and Magnificently Rewarded the Crafty Ann. D. 754. Pontiff. This Expedition is Recorded by Baronius. (a)

There were more Bishops in this Council, than in most of the Six former General Councils, as we observed above, namely, no less than 338 Bishops from all Parts of the Eastern Empire, as is confessed by Theophanes himself, and by the Synod of Nice.

The Prefidents of the Council were two eminent Bishops, the Bishop of Ephesus, Exarch of all Asia, and the Bishop of Perga, Metropolitan of Pamphilia. Anastasius, Patriarch of Constantinople; being dead a few Days before the Meeting of the Council. And tho' the Emperor might have fill'd the Patriarchal Seat, as Irene did afterwards in the Exaltation of Tarasius, he chose rather to forbear, that the Debates of the Council might be wholly free, and not Govern'd by a Powerful Patriarch, as were those of the Second Nicene Council.

After the Debates were over, and all things fetled, Constantine was chosen Patriarch in the Pre-

Constantine was no Laick, as was Tarasius, but Bishop of Sylleum, a City of Pamphylia. Baronius calls him an Impure and a Wicked Man, and Maimburg, on the Credit of the Forged Ads of Stephen, saith, he was Deposed for Scandal, but neither Thephanes, nor Nicephorus the Patriarch, nor Cedrenus, or other Byzantine Historians do mention any such thing, the they were his professed Adversaries.

H. The Greek and Roman Image worshippers industriously Suppress'd, Corrupted, or Destroy'd the Monuments and Records of the Oppositions made unto Images, and the Adoration of 'em. Thus the Acts of the Council of Constantinopie under Leo Isanrus, which was held in the Year 730, are not to be found, nor are the Names of the Bilhops Recorded that fate in that Council. Neither Baronius, nor Binins takes the least notice of it. Baronius indeed makes mention of the Deposing of Germanus this Year, and aggravates the Circumstances of it out of Theophanes and Damascenus, but not a word of his being baffed, that he had nothing more to fay in Vindication of his Practice in Worshipping Images, which was condemn'd by the whole Council: And that being ask'd to Subscribe the Decrees of the Council, he refused until the Matter were determin'd in a General Synod; and that thereupon of his own Accord he Abdicated the Episcopal Throne, as Sigebert and Paulus Diaconus report the Matter.

For the same Reason the Acts of the Council of Gentiliacum, of which hereaster, are destroy'd, and Baronius questions whether-ever there was such a

In like manner the Opus Carolinum, when it was first Publish'd by a Lutheran in the Year 1549, was rejected as a Spurious Piece, but since it was fet out by J. Tillie, Bishop of Meaux, and by Melchior Goldastus, it has had a more favourable Reception. But neither Binnius, nor Labbe, have thought sit to insert them into their Collections of the Councils, no, nor Sirmondus, who gives this Reason for the Omission, because our Fore sa-francosure. thers, saith he, did really condemn Synod.

It's probable we shou'd have known no more of the latter Synod of Constantinople, under Constantine Copronymus, than we do of the former, under Leo Jaurus, but that the Nicene Bishops were so kind as to reserve it for their Triumph. And we have just Reason to suspect they produced no more of this Synod than what they judg'd proper for their Consutation. How well they perform'd this Part, we have seen above.

Bellarmine, Pighius, Binnius, and other Romanists charge the Greeks with Corrupting the Councils, especially the Acts of the Seventh Council.

Baronius observes that the Greeks were very expert at Corrupting Fathers and Councils. Macarius, Pactiarch of Antioch, (1) Ad. An. publickly own'd his having Corrupted 681. Num. 11. the Fathers. (1)

The Annalist also affirms, that the Asts of the Seventh Council were Corrupted by Ibeodorus, Patriarch of Constantino- 683 Num. II. ple. (m)

Tarafius, and his second Nicene Council were profelled Enemies to the Council of Constantinople, and we have no Reason to think that they wou'd make a Scruple

Scruple of Mutilating and Corrupting the Acts of this Council, when we confider what Artifices and Impostures were used in the Nicene Synod, for the Establishing of Image-worship. They made Lies their Refuge, by trumping up a vast number of Fabulous

Miracles, a Fardel of Trifles, as the Opus Carolinum calls em: (n) They produced a Spurious Athanasius for the Holy Father of that Name, and made him the Author of the Story of the Image of Berytus, which happen'd above Three Hundred Years after his Death. (o)

Charles the Great, stiles the Spurious Narratives, with which the Ads of that Council abound, 'A pocryphal, Ridiculous Stuff, to which they betook themselves, when they perceived the Testimonies of Scripture would not relieve 'em.

(P) Lib. Ca- He adds, 'That their Reports rol. HI. 30.

All that remains of the Council of Constantinople under Constantine Copron. is what is accidentally preserved in the Seventh Assion of the Second Nicene Council, and represented by em as might most effectually serve their Purpose, which was to Expose and Consute it. And yet there is as much of it lest as is sufficient to convince the World of the vast difference between the two Councils. That of Constantinople argues from the Holy Scriptures, which sorbid Image-worship, the Bishops of Nice support their Cause by unproved Traditions, gross Forgeries, and ridiculous Fables.

I Answer, r. It was the Pope's own fault that he fent no Legates, for we have feen above that he opposes the Calling of a General Council, as an unprostable thing to the Cause of Images, which he Pamonized.

2. The Roman Pontiff, and a great part of Italy had Revolted from the Emperor, whom the Pope had Excommunicated, and from whom he had transfer'd his Obedience to Pipin. For Pope Stephen had fled to France to make a League with the French against his Lawful Sovereign, the Emperor and the Lombards, before the fitting of the Council of Constansinople. The Congress between the Pope and Pipin, the French King was in the beginning of January, Anno 754. The Council of Constantinople met in Rebruary following, as the Annalist con-

(r) Ad. An. festes. (r) The Roman Pontiff had de-754. Num. 1. dared himself an implacable Enemy to & 6. the Emperor and his Council, and had Decreed the Worthipping of Images in a Roman

3. The Objector begs the thing in Question, that General Council cannot be held without the Pope's Consent. Both the first Council of Constantinople;

under Theodosius the Great, and the second under Ju. Stinian are received for General Synods, the Damafus and Vigilius fent no Legates to them. This is acknow. ledged by Baronius, and appears from the Subscriptions of the Councils. By which we may make a Judgment of the Alla Stephani, fallely fo call'd, out of which Baronius and Binius pretend to prove, that Ecclefiastical Affairs can't be regulated without the Authority of the Roman Pontiff. Maimburg professedly opposes this Opinion, and produces several Examples to the contrary. It is most false, saith ' he, that a General Council can't determine Matters of Faith without the Pope. And he produceth for Example, the first Council of Constantinople against Macedonius, the Fifth Council against the Tria Co pitula; the Council of Constance, from which John

XXIII. withdrew, and which De (s) Tractat. creed against the Pope; the Council of de Eccl. Rom. Basil also, which assum'd to it felf an in Spinh. Absolute Synodical Power, not only Hift. Imag. without, but against Pope Eugeniu

For which Reason they were not called to the Council, nor cou'd they be prelen at it. 3. The necessary Absence of these Patriarch can be no more a Prejudice to this Council, than i was to the Council of Constantinople, call'd Quin fexta, in which were no Legates from the Eastern Patriarchs, as is confess'd by the Nicene Fathers who receiv'd it as a General Council. Answ. This Objection does not affect Num. II. the Council. A General Council may be called by a bad Prince. Tho' we have good Reafon to suspect that this Emperor's Character is basely misrepresented by the Byzantine Monks, and by Baronius, and others out of them, who Paint all the Emperors and Bishops that Opposed Images in the blackest Colours, and make eminent Saints of the Image-worshippers. Nicephorus, Patriarch of Confantinople, in his History Published by Petavius, tho' no Friend to Copronymus, confesses he was a Prince of great Virtues, which yet he endeavours to fully what he can. He couragiously fought against the Saracens in Armenia, Syria, and the Eastern Parts, and in Asia beyond Euphrates: In Europe also he fought successfully against the Bulgarians, Sclavonians, and Huns, who made Incursions into Thrace, until worn out with hard Labours he was at length disabled. But if his Enemies abroad happen'd to have any Victory, and his Forces were at any time beaten, or if he was disgusted at home with Civil Discords, occasion'd by the Image worshippers. This is aggravated by the Monks, and imputed to his Impiety, as the Vengeance of God upon him; whereas David, the Man after God's own Heart was exercised with the like Trials.

Nicephorus also observes, that this Emperor Ranfom'd some Thousands of Caprives from the Sclavonians, to whom he paid a vast Sum of Money for em, and having munificently given Portions to each of em, dismiss'd em.

He

He fent an Embassay to Pipin, the French King, for the Composing of Differences, Civil and Ecclesiastical, and call'd a General Council, in unitation of Constantine the Great, and other Pious Emperors, in which all the former General Councils were consirm'd, Idolatry condemn'd, and the Occasions of it removed.

All this shews him a Great Prince, of excellent Virtues, Piously concerned for the Glory of God, and the Welfare of Church and State. The Impiety with which the Superstitious Monks brand this truly Christian Prince, was nothing else but his Hereick Zeal, in destroying the Monuments of execrable Idolatry.

which is indeed the Seventh General Synod, I will proceed to make some Reflections on the Second Nicene Synod, which in the Roman Church bears the the Name of the Seventh General Council.

§. II. Of the Second Nicene Council.

1. Irene the Superstitious Relieft of Leo the Fourth, being advanced to the Imperial Throne with her Son Constantine, a Child of ten Years old, exercised her Power to restore Images, and the Worship of 'em. They that go about to disparage the Council of Constantinople, by vilifying Copronymus, ought to consider that Irene, who call'd and managed the Second Council of Nice, makes but a very odd Figure in History. Maimburg is forced to confess that she was a Woman of horrid Crimes, of furious Ambition, of Brutal Cruelty, of Bloody Tyranny, of Impious Dissimulation, of Unparallel'd Pride, &c.

The Opus Carolinum compares her to Athaliah, the not only remov'd Nicephorus, the Uncle and Tutor of the young Prince, from the Administration of the Government, but to fecure the Government to her felf, used several Artifices to expose her Son to the Envy of the People, and after several Fruitless Attempts, at length she deprived him of his Eyes and Life, whereby the Government became wholly devolv'd upon her self.

This horrid unnatural Act of the Empress, as Theophanes observes, 'Was accompanied with the Dar'kening of the Sun for Seventeen Days, so that the 'Ships cou'd not Steer in a right Course at Sea,
'which made all say, That the darken'd Sun with'drew his Beams, because the Emperor's Eyes were Baronius has the Forehead to extenuate this unparallel'd Villany. 'It had been, faith he, execrable 'Wickedness, for a Mother thus to treat a Son, had 'not a just Zeal excited her to it, as many excuse it. On which account, adds be, She deserv'd the 'Praises of most of the Holy Men of the 'East. (u) These Holy Men are the I

' dolatrous Monks.

The Crime of this unhappy Prince, which exposed him to the Fury of the Monks, was his Opposing I-mage worship; and the Virtue which recommended the Impious Mother, was her concurring with them to restore Images. So that her Zeal for Images legitimated her most execrable Actions, and made her Pious Son fall an unpitied Victim to the Ambition of an unnatural Mother.

After the had destroy'd her Son, she ordered Leo the Fourth's four Brothers, who had been Banish'd, to be cruelly Murther'd. And so all the Off spring of Leo Isaurus, was Sacrificed to the insatiable Cruand Irene's Reign.

It feems this Prophecy, of which we have spoken above, produced no great Conversions among the Image-breakers: Therefore it was thought convenient in the third Year of the Emperor's Reign, to prepare the People by the Miraculous Conversion of one 70bannicius, a Soldier of the Guard, who had Signalia zed himself in the Expedition against the Sclavi. This Man, who had been an Image breaker, was Divinely Admonished by an Anchorite, who fallied out of a Wood at Mount Olympus, and thus Address'd him, If it feem a great thing unto thee to be a Christian, why do'ft thou despise the Image of Christ? Johannicius was struck down with these words, as if they had been fpoken from Heaven, and being come to himself, he promised, that for the fu-() Ad An. ture he wou'd Devoutly Worship the ! 782. This Story is told by Baronius, out of the Ads of Johannicius, which cry him up for an eminent Saint, and Miracle-monger. The Nicene Bishops had made a stout Collection of Miracles, which were all received by the Council, without exposing such useful Argu-

2. The second Step towards restoring of Images, was the removing of Paul the Patriarch of Constantinople, who was against Images, and the fetting up of Tarasius, a Zealous Promoter of 'em.

It is pretended, that he Abdicated of his own Accord, and retired to a Monastery, where he made a publick Profession of his Repentance for favouring the Heretical Image breakers. This Figment is inferted into the secon! Nicene Council, A&. I.

That he Abdicated his Bishoprick, is certain, but that he did it of his own Accord, and that he Repented of his Oppofing Images, is a meer Fiction, because Ledrenus owns that whilst Paulus lived, Images were neglected, and that after his Death, they were mention'd with freedom by all. (z)

This is a very inconfiftent Story. If Paul was a Penitent, as is pretended, and the Wifest of Men, why had he not Published his Repentance in his Lifetime, and as became a Penirent, affifted the Empress in the Restoration of Images, during the Five Years in which he continued Patriarch under Irene, for he Abdicated and Died in the (b) Baron ib. Fifth Year of her Reign.

He had sufficient Time to be reconciled to Irene, who wou'd have been glad of the help of a so Wife a Man to carry on her Projects.

But he was not for her Purpose, and therefore none durst Plead the Cause of Images while he lived, not for sear of the Magistrates, as Baronius suggests; but for sear of being Bastled and Silenced by the Patriarch, who, as his Adversaries contess, was the Wisest Man of his Age. His Adversaries being thus sid of him, Publish'd his pretended Recantation after his Death, when they were sure not to be contradicted.

The Episcopal Throne being vacant, the Empress took care to fill it with a Man well affected to Imageworship. This was Tarasius a Layman, of the Patrician Order, and of the Empress's Council. His

(c) Ad An. us excuses it, and saith, It was not of 784. Num. 2. Men, but of God; for the Signs of an Apostle were wrought by him. (c)

If you ask, what Signs? Not those of an Aposse of Jesus Christ, for Christ's Aposses were fent forth to destroy Idolatry, but this new Aposse is chosen to set up Idolatry. Pursuant to the secret Commission which the Empress had given him, for he was of her Council, he makes the Restoration of Images the Condition of his Acceptance of this new Dignity.

In his Speech to the People on the Occasion of his Election, 'He Apologizeth for his Unfitness, being a Layman, especially at a time when the Church, 'which is founded on the Rock, Christ our God, is

2. It appears by this Speech of Tarafius, that the Restoring of Images was the End of his Advancement.

3. Another Step towards Establishing Image worship, was a Confederacy with Pope Hadrian, which immediately follow'd the Election of Tarasius. For not only Tarasius wrote his Synodical Epittle to him and the Eastern Patriarchs, as was usual; but Irene and Constantine sent an Embassadour to him with a Letter, in which, 'they signifie, that Tarasius was made Patriarch, and that they defired him as the true first Priest, who sate in the Place and Seat of St. Peter, to come to Constantine ple, or to fend his Legares to the General (f) Ad. An. Council which was to be held. (f)

They well knew how Pope Hadrian Good affected to Images, and how great his Power was in the West,

West, especially with Charles the Great, the rising

Emperour of the West.

They begin their Letter to the Pope with an Investive against the Destroyers of Images, who had seduced all the Eastern Nations: But not one word of Complaint against the Pope, who had withdrawn his Allegiance from the Emperours of Constantinople, and Usurp'd the Possession of several Cities and Provinces belonging to the Empire of the Greeks. The Empress is willing to let fall her just Clain to these, on Condition the Pope joyn with her in restoring Images.

Hadrian sends a Rescript in Answer to the Emperour's Letter, of which we made an Extrast, as far as it Pleads the Cause of Images. Ast. II. of the Second Council of Nice. I will add here a few more Observables, r. That the Pope humbly entreats

The infatiable Pope was posses'd of the Exarchate of Ravenna, and Pentapolis, which did of Right belong to the Emperor, and yet he has the Considence to demand more; but he knew to whom he wrote, it was to a Princess who was more Zealous to restore Shadows and Artificial Colours of Pictures, than the indisputable Rights, and Usurp'd Provinces of the Empire.

The Pope in imitation of Judas pretends a Concern for the Poor, but at the same time robs his Imperial Master of some of his best Provinces. Saint

3. Hadrian is very angry that 'the Imperial Mandate directed to him, stiles Tarasius Universal Bishop, but knows not whether it be of Ignorance, 'Schism, or Heresie of wicked Men; but advises 'their Imperial Majesties to give him no more the 'Title of Universal, which wou'd be to give him

' the Supremacy from St. Peter's Succeffours.

These Nicene Bishops were so fully satisfied in the Title of Universal Bishop, which the Emperous gave unto the Patriarch of Constantinople, that they would not suffer this part of Hadrian's Letter to be so much as read in the Council. And therefore it is not inserted in the Greek (2) Synod. Nic. Sec. Act. Ads of the Synod, Translated into II.

This

This makes it suspicious, that the Title of first Priest, which the Emperour's Letter gives unto Hadrian is soisted in, because its a Contradiction to the Title of Universal Bishop, which the Imperial Mandate gives to the Patriarch of Constantinopie. The Imperial City of Constantinople was now superiour to Rome, and therefore the Emperours and the Council conceiv'd that the Title of Universal Bishop did more properly belong to the Patriarch of Constantinople, than to the Roman Bishop.

The Pope pretends the Title belongs to him as St. Peter's Successour, but the Sixth Canon of the first Council of Nice resolves the Primacy of Metropolitans into an old Custan neglitime.

from, and not into any Divine

If this Primacy were derived from St. Peter, Antioch, where he fate as Bishop before he settled at Rome, if we may believe Baronius, ought to have the Primacy of the Bishop of Rome, and the Bishop of Jerusalem ought to be prefer'd to the Bishop of Antioch, because the Church of Jerusalem was the first Christian Church, was for a considerable time Govern'd by the whole Colledge of Apostles, and may be truly call'd the common Mother of all Christian Churches. For from Jerusalem the Gospel was propagated to all Nations.

The Truth is, the Metropolitical Dignity was Originally no more than a Primacy of Order, which Custom had given to the Bishops of some Principal Cities, as it is well Stated by the first Nicene Fathers: But at length it degenerated into Empire and Sovereignty, which for some time was contested between the Bishops of Old Rome, and those of Constantinople, or New Rome, and at last Usurp'd by the Roman Pontiss, who stands possess'd of it, claims it as of Divine Right, in spite both of the old Canons, and of

4. The fourth Step towards Establishing Images, vas the calling of a new Council to Anathematize hat Council of Constantinople. This was first Assemled at Constantineple, but not being able to effect what they defign'd, as was noted above, they met Nice in Bithynia, and stiling themselves the Seventh General Council, Decreed the Adoration of Images. nd condemn'd the Orthodox Council under Conlantine Copronymus for a Heretical Convention. I have vindicated the Ads of that Council, and shall low prove that the Second Nicene Council was fo far from being a General Council, that it was not fo much as a Lawful Council. This will appear by the following Confiderations.

III. Arguments proving the Second Council of Nice to be neither General nor Lawful.

I. It was not receiv'd by all Christian Churches, the British and Saxon Churches rejected the Determinations of it.

In the Year 793, as Matthew Westminster tells us. Charles, King of the Franks fent the Synodical Book to Britain, in which are many things contraty to the true Faith, in which it is determin'd by the unanimous Consent of the Eastern Doctors, that Images ought to be Worshipp'd, which the Catholick Church altogether abbors.

Against which Albinus (Alcuinus) (†) Quod omnino ecclefia wrote an Epistle, wonderfully compo-Catholica exled and confirm'd by Authorities of the Divine Scriptures, and the same ' Albinus presented the French King with the Epistle, the British Bishops and Princes. (k) Simeon of Durham, and Roger Hovedon agree with Matthew Westminster.

Florilegus, who brought down his History to the Year 1307. He speaks of Image-worship, as a thing Execrated by the Catholick Church. The Second Nicene Council stile themselves the Catholick Church but the British Churches condemn em as Apostates from the Faith, and Schismatical Deprayers of the Catholick Dollrine.

I have by me an ancient Saxon Manuscript Brevia 7y, which was written in King Richard the Secondary, whose Coronation is noted in the Kalender July 16. A. D. 1377. This Kalender reckons the Days of the Months by Kalends, Nones, and Idea and not as we now do. There is prefix'd to it a Perpetual Table for finding out of Easter-day, which exactly answers the Calculation of this Year, which is March 24. 1705.

This Manuscript, which has feveral Addresses to the Virgin Mary, and other Saints, hath this Note on the Second Commandment, which is there made

This is the first Hest of God, commanding all Affection, all Love, all Worship, and all Joy of

The Nicene Council was also condemn'd by the Council of Frankford, which was held, A. D. 794. in the Presence of Charles the Great. This is ingenibuffy confess'd by Bellarmin, and by Baronius, who owns, that about 300 Bishops met there from all Italy, Gallia, Germany, and Britain; and that it was for that Reason call'd, a full Council, the crafty Annalist wou'd not say a General Council, tho' Binius confesses that it is so called by Writers, and (m) Tom. VI.

that Charles the Emperor would have it forcall'd. (m)

The Annalist faith, The Nicene Council was condemn'd in the Council of Frankford, but not by the Council, that is, neither by Pope Adrian, nor his Legates who were in the Council; and therefore we must not wonder, if any Ads concerning this Matter were Recorded in that Council, that they no where appear, 794. Num. 4. because they are destroy'd. (n)

This is a fair Confession, that the Records against Image wor ship have been industriously destroy'd, as I observed above. We have proved already, that the Pope's Confent is not Effential to a General Council, and therefore the Cardinal's Distinction of what was atted in the Council, and by the Council, is frivolous and groundless.

See $. 183

'Tis

'Tis fufficient to our Purpole, that Bellarmin and Baronius do both confess that the latter Nicene Council was condemn'd by the Emperor and the Council of Frankford, the Acts of the Council, as far as they concern Images, have been suppress'd by the Romanists.

Hincmar, Archbishop of Rhemes, who lived near those Times, affirms, that ' in the Time of Charles the Great, there was a General Council held in France, by Order of the Apostolical Seat, and of the Emperor, and the false Synod of the Greeks was overthrown, and utterly Abdicated by the Testimonies of Scripture, and the Tradition of the pet-worship; so that Lewis, the Son of Charles, opposed Image-

The same is affirm'd by Ado Viennensis, and Regino Prumienfis, and Walafridus Strabus, who wrote the Life of Charles the Great.

These expresly declare, that 'the false Synod of the Greeks, which was held for the Adoration of

This is sufficient to shew the Sentiments of the Pathers at Frankford, that they condemn'd all Image-worship whatsoever, and in that Sense Pope Adrian understood 'em, as appears by his Answers to the Capitulare against the Nicene Synod, which he calls Reprehensions. This Capitulare, or the Opus Carolinum, was not the Work of Charles (b) Ad. An. the Great, as Baronius wou'd have us 794. Num. 4. believe. (b)

It is true, the Opus Carolinum, and the Frankford

This has given occasion to some to sancy that the Council of Frankford approved of the latter Nicene Council, and condemn'd that of Constantinople, which I have proved to be a great Mistake.

II. The Second Council of Nice was not reputed a General Council in the Eighth and Ninth Age, no

Theodorus Studita, tho' a Bigotted Image worshipper, in his Epistle 38 to Arsenius, calls

Several Years after the Second Council of Nice, all the Patriarchal Churches of the East, except that of Constantinople, in their Synodical and Publick Confessions, used to reckon but Six General Councils, and acknowledge no Seventh, as Photius assures us in his Encyclic to those Seats, (b) Occum. and Baronius out of him. The present Acts of the Nicene Council tell us of two Legates from the East, John and Thomas, with Letters to Tarasius, President of the Council. They are stilled in the Acts of the Council, the most Reverend Presbyters, Monks, and Vicars of the Apostolical Seats of the Eastern Diocess.

But it is certain, that neither Tarasius's Letters, nor Irene's Messenger reach'd the three Oriental Patriarchs. Let's hear the Matter of Fact, as reported by Baronius. 'In the Reign of Aaron, Ptince of Saracens, a bloody Tyrant, and a most bitter Enemy to the Christians, the Messengers of Canstantine came to Palestine, and hearing that Theodorus, Patriarch of Jerusalem had died in Banishment, they retired to some Devout Monks, by whom they understood the miserable Servitude which the Eastern 'Christians endur'd, and how dangerous it was to go to the Antiochian, or Alexandrian Patriarchs. For if they were discover'd, they shou'd not only bring themselves, but all the Eastern Christians

Here is a just Confession, that the Patriarch of Ferusalem was dead, and the two other inaccessible. fo that the Imperial Legates return'd re infella, without delivering or receiving any Letters from the Oriental Patriarchs. But something must be done for the Support of the Cause of Images, to which end the Messengers brought back with 'em the two Monks above-mention'd, who were honour'd with the falle Title of Vicars of the Oriental Diocess, and fent by the Fraternity with an Epistle unto Tarasius, in which they tell him, ' That they hinder'd the two Imperial Messengers from attempting to go for-

1. That the Monks, John and Thomas, were no Vicars of Legates of the Eastern Patriarchs, they were neither fent by 'em, nor had any Lerrers of Inftruction from 'em.

It may be doubted whether they were their Coadjutors, or Concellanei. What had the Syncelli of the Patriarchs of Alexandria and Antioch to do in an obscure Cell in Palestine? It does not appear that they had any Knowledge of the coming of Irene's Mellengers, nor was it possible they shou'd without a Revelation; for the Messengers had no Intention of vifiting this Nest of Monks, but turn'd hither, being inform'd that the Patriarch of Ferufalem, to whom they were fent, was dead. And it was with very great Difficulty and Hazard that they reach'd this Place. It feem'd a

2. These Monks by their own Confession, were Witerate, Ignorant, Weak, and Unexperienc'd; very fit Tools to Vote for Image-worship. Their Business in the Council, was to make known the Apostolical Tradition observed in the Churches of Egypt and Sytia, i. e. that they Worshipp'd Images. The reporting of this Matter of Fact in the Council requir'd no great Abilities, much less the extraordinary Gift of Unterance which the Apostles had in Propagating the Gospel, as the Palestine Monks Blasphemoully infimate. All that the Monks needed was the Gift of Truth, which I suspect they wanted. For Imageworthip was neither an Apostolical Tradition, nor univerfally observ'd in the Churches of Egypt and Syria, as the two lying Monks are Commission'd to testifie. Q4

Conft. & I-

(i)-Toutal

I will confront their Testimony with (b) Epiff. ad that of Pope Hadrian, who faith, that all the Eastern People erred (about Images) until the Reign of Constantine and Irene. (b)

In all Reason the Pope's Testimony ought to be admitted before that of two ignorant Monks.

If the Eastern Churches erred about Images, that is, did nor Worthip Images before Irene's Time, it is not probable that her Accession to the Throne alter'd their Sentiments, for they were none of her Subjects, but under the Government of the Suracens, who wou'd not suffer any Correspondence between the Empress and their Subjects. Besides, the Saracens were averse to Image-worship, as the Synod of Nice often complains," and wou'd not permit the Oriental

Patriarchs to declare themselves on that Subject, which feems to be the meaning of these Words in the Monks Letter, they durst not mutter any thing about such Matters. (i)

We will the less wonder at this Imposture of the Vicars of the Oriental Diocess, when we find the like Fraud used in the Roman Synod, under Pope Stephen the Fourth, to perswade the Western Churches, that those of the East Worshipp'd Images. There was trump'd up a Synodal Letter of the three Eastern Patriarchs, written to Pope Paul for the Worship ping of Sacred Images. The first that produced this Oriental Embally, (k) Baron. ad was Pope Hadrian, in an Epistle to An. 769. Charles the Great, for the Nicene Synod. (k)

The Synodal Epifile of Theodorus, is the same with Hadrian's Synodical Epistle of the three Eastern Patriarchs, which was produced in the Nicene Council by the Palestine Monks, (n) Nic. Syand was written, as they fay, to Theoned. II. Act. dorus of Antioch, and to Cosmas of A. lexandria. (n)

The Patriarch of Jerufalem, professes in his Epifile, to Worship the Saints, to Adore and Embrace the faving Relicks deliver'd by Christ, the Bones of Martyrs, to which he ascribes all manner of Miracles and Virtues, and that out of Athanasius, by Christ dwelling in them; as also to Adore Images, e.

Baronius fays, that Cosmas of Alexandria, and Theodorus of Antioch, wrote back again to Theodorus of Ferusalem on the same Argument, and that the Palestine Monks had these Epistles by them.

This

This Epistle of Theodorus to the two other Patriarchs may be justly suspected of Forgery. Because,

1. It is not mention'd by Theophanes, who omits nothing that makes for the Authority of the Nicene Synod.

2. The Times of these three Patriarchs will not admit of this Epistolary Correspondence between them. Cosmas was Patriarch of Alex-

From all these Considerations, it follows, that the latter Nicene Council was no General Council, nor a just Provincial one. It was condemn'd by the British, and other Western Churches, especially by the Council of Frankford, which more truly deserves the Title of General than that of Nice, and some others that bear that Name. It had no Legates from the Oriental Patriarchs, consisted of professed Imagemorshippers, and was managed by the subtil Artisices of Fraud and Imposture, and therefore was rather an Assembly of Treacherous Conspirators against the Gospel, than a Synod of Christian Bishops.

Theodorus Studita, the a furious Image worshipper, wrote an Epistle to him in the Fifth Year of his Reign, when he had publickly declar'd his Aversion to Images, that he was raised to the Empire by the special Providence of God, for the Preservation of the Church: On the contrary, Michael the Monk, in the Life of this Theodorus, to the

6. IV. A. D. 814. Leo Armenius the Emperor, refolv'd to Abolish Images, which had been abused to fo much Idolatry. But was first willing to hear what the Patrons of 'em had to fay for 'em. To which End he fent for all the Bishops that were then at Confirmatinople, together with Nicephorus the Patriarch, to attend him in the Palace And that all things might be equitably carried on, he commanded em to defend the Caufe of Images in his Presence; against those that opposed 'em. The Bishops that were for Images, obstinately declin'd a Conference with those of the other fide, because, as they pretended, things determin'd in a General Council were notto be disputed, and such as denied 'em were Accursed, and Matters of Faith were to be Debated by the Priefts, and not by the Emperor, in the Church, not in the Pala ce. Befides, they look'd upon the Emperor as to har-

The Emperor had just Reason to be offended at the Bishops obstinate Refusal. The A-(m) 1 Pet. 3. postle commands all Christians to be ready to give a Reason of their Faith to every one that asketh a Reason of 'em. (m) quir'd to do it by their Lawful Sovereign.

This shews they had a bad Caufe, that cou'd not bear a fair Tryal, and a bad Conscience, that reflited the Divine, and the Imperial Command.

Several funmitted to the Emperor's Silencing E. did, because it was easier to keep Silence, than to Plead the Caule of Images; among others, the Patriarch promised Silence by a Writing under his Hand. Theodorus the Seditious Monk, above mention'd, exclaim'd against this Promise of Silence, as a Betraying of the Truth, and by his Admonitions, Letters, and Clamours, ceas'd not to excite Nicephorus, and others to break their Promise to the Emperor. This Breach of Promise occasion'd the Banish. ing of the Patriarch to Proconnesus. As he pass'd by at Sea. Let us reflect a little on these things: When the Emperor commanded the Patriarch and Bishops to Plead for Images in his Presence, they are obstinately Silent: When he forbids'em to Preach, or Difcourse in favour of Images, they fill the Empire with Tumultuous Clamours. When he bids'em speak, they are filent; when he enjoyns'em Silence, they speak in spite of him. Can any thing be more perverse than these Men? Their Silence and Clamours are Indications of Minds, more devoted to Stocks and Stones, than to the living Image of the Imperial Sovereign of the Universe.

If there be any Truth in this mutual Salutation that past between the Patriarch and Theophanes. when neither of 'em faw the other, it is a Demonstration that they were both moved by the Devil to pay Divine Honours to one another; the one to offer Incense, the other to Salute his unseen Friend with bended Knees, and Hands lift up to Heaven. These are the Men, by whose blind Zeal the Pious Endeavours of Reforming Emperors were obstructed.

It feems the Monks can Worship one another, tho? unseen, without the help of Images, but they cannot Worship an unseen Saviour, without a visible Repre-

6. V. Theodotus Cassitera being made Patriarch in the room of Nicephorus, Leo call'd a Council of Bishops, like unto that of Constantinus Copronymus, in which was condemn'd the Idolatrous Council of Nice. The Image-worship-(p) Ibid. Num. pers were invited to the Council, but generally refused. (p)

Binius has an Epistle written by Theodorus Studita to the Council, 'wherein he excuses those President that refused to appear in the Council, and concludes, that if Peter and Paul; or any should come from Heaven and Preach are ther Gospel (besides that which teaches the Worshipping of Images) they cannot receive him into

'Communion. (q)

The Superstitious Monk shou'd have prov'd this Doctrine to be part of the Gospel, and fince this cannot be done, it follows that he and his Factious Brethren went about to establish another Gospel, and so made themselves liable to the Anathema which they denounced against the Emperor and his Council.

This Council was Celebrated in the Year of Christ 814, but the Alls of it are destroy'd by the Image worshippers, nor have we any account of the Number of Bishops which were in it.

It is probable that they were numerous, and not inferiour to the Second Nicene Council, because Theodorus and his Schismatical Bishops, do not ex cept against their Numbers, but against the End of their Assembling, which was to condemn the Second Nicene Council that is, to take away the Adoration of the Images of Christ, of the Mother of God, and of the Saints. (r)

6. VI. The Byzantine Monks, and Baronius, and others out of 'em, throw all the Odium that Malic cou'd invent or improve, on the Memory of this Great Prince.

They call him Impostor, Hypocrite, Impious, Per sidious, Traytor, Accursed, a Manichee, an Inchanter, &c.

But now behold a new fort of Martyrs, not known in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, or Primitive Mutyrologies, whom you may call Idol-Martyrs. Christ no where promised the Rerior ward of Martyrdom to fuch as fuffer for Graven Images, which are forbidden in the Divine Law that became to confirm. The Fealous God, instead of rewarding, will punish this Iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children, to the third and fourth Generation of them that hate him. Image-worshippers shall have the Recompence of Reward due unto those that bate God.

The Relation between Fefus Christ and his Images, Is imaginary, for they do not represent his Person; but there is a real Relation between Image worship and the Law of God, which is violated by it, and binds the Idolatrous Transgressor unto Punishment. No Relations will entitle us to the Reward, but fuch as are founded in the Divine Law. The Jewish Images of God had Relation to the Prototype, as they tancied, but God rejected their false Worship, and severely punish'd it.

But to return to Leo Armenius, 'tis certain he was a Prince of great Virtues, his very Enemies being ludges.

Michael Curopalates refign'd the Empire to Leo, as and a least to a Pious and most valiant Prince, confessing himself was Bat to be unworthy of so bigh a Dignity, as Cedrenus obtain the serves. Penalty of the Law. (u)

As to Severities charg'd upon him, it can't be denied but he tried the milder Methods of Conferences, and Synodical Debates. He desir'd Nicephorus the Patriarch, and the other Image-worshippers, to prove the Worship of Images from the Writings of the Apostles, and those of the first Christian Fathers, if it was an ancient Tradition, as they pretended. They answer'd, it was an unwritten Tradition, and that what was determin'd by a General Council, ought not to be retracted, as the Worship of Images was by the Nicene Bishops. As if there were not the same Reason for the General Council under Coprony. Mary, and for the General Council of the Western Mery, Bishops unished

e-The greatest Sufferer in this Reign was Theodorus Studita, who is Dignify'd with the Title of a Saint as and a Martyr. Baronius saith, that he as Banish'd, Imprison'd, Whip'd, and (y) Ad. An.

If Matter of Fact be true, it must be the fault of some cruel Officers, who often exceed their Commission. The Emperor delighted not in Acts of Cruelty.

This turbulent Monk did all he cou'd to stir up sedition in the Empire, he made the Patriarch, and ther Bishops break their Promise to the Emperor, and disobey his Edit, commanding Silence in the Cause of Images. He wrote Letters to the Emperor, all of Investives against him and his Council. In short, this Theodorus was a constant Incendiary, and a Creator of Disturbances in the Empire, yet the Emperor was so merciful to him as to spare his Life.

It appears by the Continuator of Theophanes; that the Emperor's Indulgence in permitting fuch as were meither Seditions nor Schismatical, to do what they

When most of these were come to Constantinople, he commanded all the Bishops that were for and against Images to allemble together, and debate the Article of Images. They well knew that Pope Paschalis was of the fame Mind with 'em, and wou'd determine on their fide. This was a much furer way to carry their Point, than by strength of Argument, and therefore they carefully decline Disputation now, as they did before under Leo.

They were Conscious to the Weakness of their Cause, and for that Reason defire a Council made up only of Image-worshippers, and appeal to the Judg-

When the Emperor cou'd not prevail with 'em to meet the Orthodox Bishops in a General Council, he enjoyn'd Silence to both Parties concerning this Controversie, and rejected both Constan-(g) Spanh. line's Synod, and that of Tarafius, Hiff. Imag. e S. e. the Second Nicene Synod, VIII. 11.

A. D. 824. He fent an Honourable Embassy to Ludovicus the Emperour, with a Letter, in which he defired him to endeavour to take away the Superstitious Worship of Images in the West, that Peace and Union may be restored to the Church.

He complains in his Epistle to the French King, of the horrid Superstitions of the Image-worshippers, that they Pray'd to them for Help, made them God-sa-

they mix'd the Colours that were scrap'd

But more of this Embassy in the Acts of the Pari-

Michael's Methods of Union were highly displeafing to the factious Image-worshippers, especially Theodorus, who in one of his Epittles, has the Confidence to tell the Emperor, that the only Method of Peace, is to exclude the Secular Power from Judging in Matters of Faith; for Emperors, and other Temporal Rulers, have nothing else to do but to execute the Decrees of Bishops; and that both the contending Parties ought to fend to the Prelate of Rome, and thence to receive the Certitude of Faith. (k)

Some of these turbulent Persons were gone to Rome to Counter-work the Emperor's generous Endeavours for Peace and Union, as appears by the Emperor's Letter to Ludovicus, wherein he desires him to use the Rights of his Supremacy in Rome, and in the Provinces given the Roman Pontiss for the expelling of the Greek Incendiaries, who by their Calumnies, studied to obstruct the (m) Bar. ad Concord between the East and West in An. 824. the Unity of the Faith. A. D. 826. Theodorus the Monk died opportunely in his Banishment a natural Death, after he had lived to a great Age, most of which he spent in the Exercise of an Intemperate and Factious Zeal for Image worship. In his last Will, saith Baronius, he shew'd his Hatred to the Hereticks, that is, such as did not Worship Images, and subjoyn'd a Profession of those things which they opposed; and amongst other things, he thus speaks of the Monastick Institution, I believe the Monastick State to be Sublime, Exalted.

(6) Ad An. Exalted, and Angelick, and that it throughly purgeth away all Sins by the Perfection of a Consummate Life, &c. (0)

This Man, who in his Life rob'd Jesus Christ of the Glory of Religious Worship, by giving it to Images, doth at his Death rob him of the Merits of his Righteousness, by attributing to the Monastick State, the Virtue of Purging away Sin, which is proper to the Blood of Christ.

This is the Person whom the Romish and Byzantine Historians cry up for a Saint, and whose sichitious Miracles are without Number, which are magnified by Surius, Baronius, and others on the fingle Testimony of Michael the Monk, in the History of his Life. (p)

He rejected the Second Nicene Council, destroy'd the Images which his Father had Tolerated, and feverely punish'd the obstinate Worshippers of 'em, whereof some were Imprison'd, others Banish'd, others were put to Death. He also Prohibited the Painting of any Images, but those of wild Beafts and Birds, under severe Penalties. He order'd the Adored Images to be thrown into the Forum, where they were exposed to publick Contempt. This enraged the Monks, who were as expert in making their Puppet Gods, as they were Superstitious in Worshipping 'em. These Reproached the Emperor to his face, and provoked him to chastise their Insolency. Of this Number was Lazarus the Monk, who being Celebrated for the Art of Painting, was lovingly admonish'd by the Emperor to defist from making Images, but to no purpose. When softer Methods prov'd ineffectual, he was cast into Prison. also he exercis'd his Art, which occasion'd the applying of burning Plates of Iron to his Fingers; but being released by the Entreaties of the Empress, he was hid in the Temple of John the Baptist, where with his burnt Fingers he drew Fobn's Picture, which was preferv'd there, and was famous for healing of Sick Persons. Baronius and his followers falfely accuse him of Cruelty in the last Extremities of his Life. I shall be no more Theophilus, nor thou Theophobus.

The Falfity of this Accufation appears from 70. bannes Curopalates himself, to whom (w) Muderos ne-Baronius refers us; for he adds, that Asiouria. Theophobus was put to Death, as others

The Annalists report also out of Gennadius, Patriarch of Constantinople, a fabulous Author of the Fifteenth Age, that before his Death he repented of his Error, and Worshipp'd Images: And that after §. IX. Anno. Dom. 842, Theophilus being dead, the Government was devolv'd on his Son Michael Porphyrogenitus, so called from the Place of his Nativity, but the Administration fell to Theodora his Mother, because Michael was a Minor, and had for Tutors, Manuel, General of the Army, and Theodiffus, Grand Chancellor.

The Empress, by the Advice and Assistance of the young Prince's Guardians, as Baronius faith, in a few Days had a Disputation for the Restoring of Images, wherein the Worshippers of 'em prevail'd, and an Edict was Publish'd for the Restoration of 'em, whereby all that were Banish'd or Imprison'd by Theophilus were fet at Liberty; and all that would not Abjure the Heresie of the Image-breakers, as it was call'd, were Banish'd, and among the rest, John, Patriarch of Constantinople, in whose Place Methodius, a zealous Image-worshipper was immediately substituted. Baronius adds out of Theophanes, that the Disputation about Images was in a Canonical Council of a great many Bishops of both sides, in which feveral of the Hereticks changing their Opinion, the latter Synod of Nice was confirm'd, and the Herefie of the Image breakers, after a Struggle of one hundred and twenty (y) Ad. Au. Tears, was at length utterly extin-842. Num. 3. guith'd. (v)

I will make a few Remarks on this Account of the Re-establishment of Image-worship.

r. Image-worship was Establish'd in the Eastern Church by Superstitious Women. Irene made the first Establishment in the Second Nicene Council, and after they had been destroy'd by the Pious Zeal of feveral Emperors, and Synods, they were restor'd by Theodora, the Widow of Theophilus.

Both these Women abused their Vicarious Power during the Minority of their Sons. As Sin first enter'd into the World by a Woman, so the old Serpent made use of the Simplicity of the weaker Sex to set up Idolatry.

2. Theodora added the Guilt of Perjury to that of Idolatry; for the confirm'd her Promise to Theophilus, of not restoring Images with a solemn Oath. This is affirm'd by Cedrenus and Curopalates, who add, that for some little time she resisted the Importunities of Manuel, the young Emperor's Guardian, and alledged the Obligation of her Oath, and the Dying Words of her Husband, which she cou'd not violate. When Manuel cou'd not prevail by Arguments, he threaten'd the Empress with a sudden Revolution, which wou'd deprive her both of the Empire, and of her Life. Being thus terrified, she cast of Faith, and a good Conscience, and consented to restore Images.

3. There was trump'd up a Monkish Prediction of the Miraculous Recovery of Manuel, on Condition he wou'd cause Images to be restor'd. (z)

But this Miracle was not effectual to pervert the Faith of the Empress, until they had overcome her Fear.

4. The Disputation for restoring Images, is a meer Fiction. The Acts of this pretended Council, as reported by Binius out of Theophanes, tell us, that the Empress having advised with her Nobles, and chief Monks, and finding 'em defirous of the restoration of Images, and much griev'd at the Change which had been made in that Matter, the required

It appears by these Ads of the Council, their Business was not to dispute, but to determine the restoration of Images, and that none were admitted into it, but fuch as had all along espous'd the Cause of Images, or were now resolv'd to turn This latter fort immediately lmage worthippers. chang'd their Sentiments, and declared for Images to fave their Places. The Image-worshippers had declared themfelves all along against Disputing, and declined it when they were call'd to it by their Superiors, as was observ'd above.

M. Maimburg ingenuously acknowledges that the Bishops, Abbots, and Monks were scarce enter'd with an innumerable Multitude of People, but those who were advanced by the Image-breakers, immediately Curfed their Benefactors with vehement and loud Exclamations, before any thing was proposed in the Council. (b)

5. God raised a Succession of Reforming Emperours to oppose Image-worship for one bundred and twenty Years. This was the Time of Repentance which God granted unto the Idolatrous Ante-diluvian World. Since the Oriental Churches hated to be Reform'd, the Spirit of Christ would no longer strive with them. They were Doom'd to Israel's Punishment, concerning whom, God said, Psalm 81. 11, 12. Baronius takes notice of a Yearly Festival on the first Lord's-Day in Lent, appointed to be observed for ever in Commemoration of this New Establishment of Images, and that it is Celebrated in the Greek Church to this Day. Among other Solemnities of this Festival, there are Sung in the Churches

The Occasion of this Assembly was an Embassy to Ludovicus Pius, Emperor of the Franks and Lombards, from Michael Balbus, Emperor of Constantinople, with an Epistle, fignifying that the Church was divided into two parts, while some Worshipp'd Images, others were against Worshipping of 'em, and defiring that Ludovicus would restore Peace and Union to the Church, by taking away the Superstitious Wor-Ship of Images.

The Bishops being Conven'd, wrote an Episse to Ludovicus and Lotharius, 'whetein they tell'em, that there was read before 'em Hadrian's Epistle to. Conftantine and Irene (al. Because this Book is uncommon, and gives a full account of the Doctrine of the Wimelles against Romish Superstitions, I will give a short Abstract of it.

I. It describes Antichrist to be the Falshood of Eternal Damnation, covered with an Appearance of Truth or na Fraudulent Contradiction against Christiand his Spouse. 'This is that Compleat Man of Sin, who exalts himself above all that is call'd God, opposeth all Truth, and fits in the Temple of God, that is, in the Church, shewing himself as if he were God, who is come with all falshood and Lying to those that perish.

And forafmuch as he is truly come, we need no longer expect him, for he is already Old by the Permission of God, yea, he is already in his Declenfion, and his Power much diminish'd.

The First, is to take away the Truth, and to change it into Error and Herene. The Second, to cover Falshood with Truth, and to confirm it by an Appearance of Faith and Virtue. This two-fold manner of Proceeding contains the most perfect and accomplished Wickedness, which cou'd not be in any Tyrant, or the most Powerful Porentate from the beginning of the World until the

IV. We are now to show, out of the Old and New Testament, that a Christian is bound by the Commandment of God to separate himself from Antichrist, Isaiab 52. 11. Depart ye, touch no unclean

from among this Congregation.—See Ver. 26. Lev. 20. 24. I have separated you from other People.—

Exod. 34. Take heed to thy jelf, lest thou make a Covenant.

This is also manisest in the New Testament, John 12. The Lord suffer'd Death that he might joyn all the Children of God in one. For the Truth of the Unity, and Separation of others, it is said, Matth. 10. 34. Think not I am come to send Peace on Earth. I came not to send Peace, but a Sword. And this Division he hath commanded, saying, He that for saketh not Father and Mother for my fake, &c. Again, Beware of false Prophets. Beware of the Leven of the Pharisees. Again, Beware lest any Seduce you, for many shall come in my Name, and Seduce many.

Rev. 18. 4. He admonisheth with his own Voice, and commandeth all that are his to go out of Babylon, saying, Come out of her my People, &c. The Apostle affirmeth the same, 2 Cor. 6. 14. Be not unequally yoked with Unbelievers, for what fellowship hath, &c. Again, Ephes. 5. 7. Be not ye partakers with them, &c. Again, 1 Cor. 10. 20. Iwould not that ye should have fellowship with Devils. And again, 2 Thes. 3. 6. We command you, that ye withdraw your selves from every Brother that walketh disorderly.—See v. 14. And Eph. 5. 11. Have no fellowship with the unfruitful Works of Darkness, 2 Tim. 3. 1.—5. From such turn as

We are therefore commanded by the Lord to separate our selves from Antichrist, and to joyn our selves

The

The Cause of our Separation is for the Essential Verity of Faith, and the Ministerial. The Essential al Verity of Faith, is the inward Knowledge of One God in Three Persons. As also for the becoming, and convenient Service due to One only God for Sanctification, for a lively Hope by Christ in God,

'for Communion with all the Elect, &c.
'The Ministerial Verities are these: The outward Congregation of Ministers with the People fubject in Place, Time, and Truth, Directing. Establishing, and Preserving the Church by the Evangelical Word, Sacraments annexed to it, imitating our Saviour in Conversation and Oversight of the Flock.

Apostles. The Errors and Impurities of Antichrist, are these:

Diverse and innumerable Idolatries against the Commandments of God and Christ, by giving Service to the Creature, Visible and Invisible, Natural or Artificial, under the Name of Christ, Saints, Male or Female, Relichs, &c. This Iniquity of Antichrist is directly against the First Article of our Faith, and the First Commandment of the Law.

2. The Second Iniquity of Antichrift, confifts in the Hope which he gave of Pardon, Grace, and Eternal Life, not as being in God through Christ, but in Men living and dead, in Authoriaies, Ecclefiastical Ceremonies, in Benedictions, Sacrifices, &c. Antichrift would have us hope in his Sacraments, and wicked Simony, by which the People are abused in such fort, that they make Sale of all Things, and invent many Ordinances, old and new, to bring Silver into their Chests, for which they promite T 2

Grace and Life. This Iniquity, which is Adultery and Fornication, is against the Second Article of our Creed, and against the Second and Third Commandment.

3. 'The Third Iniquity of Antichrist confisteth in this, that he hath invented several salse Religions and Orders, giving Hope to obtain Grace by building Monasteries, and Oratories for Saints; as also by the Mass, by Confession, Satisfaction, Fassings, professing themselves Members of the Church of Rome, by Vows, &c. This Iniquity is directly against the Eighth Article of our Creed, I believe in the Holy Ghost.

4. 'The Fourth Iniquity of Antichrift, is this, that the he be the Fourth Beast describ'd by Daniel, and the Apocalyptick Whore, he nevertheless adoms himself with Authority, Power, Dignity, Offices, and Scriptures, and maketh himself equal to the True and Holy Mother, the Church, in which there is Salvation Ministerially, and not elsewhere, and in which there is the Truth of Life and Dodrine, and of the Sacraments. For if he should not thus coof the Sacraments. For if he should not thus cover himself and his wicked Ministers, being known for manifest Sinners, he would soon be abandon'd of every one. This Iniquity is against the Ninth

5. 'The Fifth Iniquity confifts in this, that he promiseth Remission of Sins to such Offenders as have no true Sorrow and Contrition for their Sins, and cease not to persevere in their Wickedness.

This Promife is made because of their Auricular

Confession, Pilgrimager, and all for Money.
This Iniquity is against the Eleventh Article of our Faith, I believe the Remission of our Sins.

6. 'The Sixth Iniquity is, that they believe even to their Life's End, in the above-mentioned Iniquities, especially in extream Undion, and devised Purgatory, and by Persevering in their Error and Sins, they are Absolv'd, and Buoy'd up with a false Hope of Life Everlasting. And this Iniquity is directly against the Eleventh and Twelsth Articles of our Faith.

6. VIII. This Abstract of the Book of Antichrist contains the Dollrine of the Waldenses, and the Reasons of their Separation from the Church of Rome. They look'd on the Head and Members of that Church as the Grand Antichrist, and the Romish Church as the Grand Antichrist, and the Romish Church to be so Corrupt in its Dollrine, Priesthood, and Wanship, that it was Unlawful to Communicate with it. On these Principles they form'd separate Societies, under the Conduct of Pastors, that had no Dependance on the Pope and his Diocesan Ordanners.

These were the first Witnelles against Antichrist, and the Fathers of the Refermation.

Indeed Gratian pretends to produce a Decree of Pope Pius the Second, which mentions Confecrated Crosses, but this is certainly spurious, for it agrees not with the History of the Second Age, nor is it to be found among the Decretal Epifeles that bear his Name.

2. They pretend in this Form to Worship only before the Image, but we shall prove anon that they Worship the very Image.

3. They Blasphemoully attribute Merits to the Saints in common with Jesus Christ, and ascribe Grace and Glory to their Meritorious Mediation.

4. The Apostle tells us, that every Creature is Santisfied by the Word and Prayer; he also assures us, that an Idolis nothing, the Workman made it, therefore it is not God. Images are nothing in the Sacred and Religious Sense, because not appointed by any Word of God. Prayer without the Word cannot Sanctifie. To Confectate an Image is to Bless an Idol, than which nothing can be more abominable in the sight of the Jealous God.

In the Time of a Plague the Image of Esculapius was Translated from Epidaurus to Rome, and Honour'd with a Magnificent Temple and Sacrifices. The same Learned Eather saith, that the Romans used to run about Bare-foot, to Translate their Gods from one Place to another, to visit some Temples every Day, viii. some once a Year. (m)

The exact Agreement between the Romish and the ancient Pagan Worship is such that Ludovicus Vives confesses, that there is no visible difference, but that the Romanists have only chang'd the Names and Titles of their Gods. The same is affirm'd by Cornelius Agrippa, and others.

The Bishops at Trent were not agreed in their Opinions about the Adoration of Images. The Archbishop of Lanciano said, no Honour was due unto them but by Relation to the thing signified. But Lainez the General added, that when they were Dedicated, and put in the Place of Adoration, a Worship did belong to them, besides the Adoration due unto the Saint Worshipp'd in them, calling ling this Adoration Relative, and the other Objedive. The Cardinal of Varmia, for fatisfaction of both, concluded, that the Aiftory of the Opinion of the Archbishop ought to be expressed (in the Decree) as more viii. p. 744. facile and plain, but without words which might prejudice the other. (n)

Pursuant to the Cardinal's Advice, the Council Decreed, that Images should have due Honour and Veneration given them, because the Honour given ten is refer'd to the Prototypes which they represent font; so that by the Images which we Kiss, and before which we uncover our Heads, and Profirate our selves, we Adore Christ, and Worship the Saints, whose images they are.

The Greeks, as we have feen in the Acts of the Second Council of Nice, were against all Images of God, or of the Sacred Trimity, which are allow'd by the Council of Trent. They of Nice gave to I-mages the Inferior sort of Worship, which they call Greeting, Sulatation, Adoration to with Bowing the Knees, they gave not to any Images, no, not to the lina-ges of Christine Supream Worship of Latria, which is given to those of Christ by the Romanists.

The Greeks pretend, at least, that they give no other Honour to Images, but what is given to Sacred Vessels, the Books of the Evangelists, and Sacred Garments.

The Arguments of the Bishops of Nice do often run this way, and the Eighth General Council of Constantinople decrees the Image of Christ to be Adored with equal Honour with (p) Can. 3. the Book of the Evangelists. (p)

But the Romish Idolatry is of the groffest Nature, and far from being contain'd within the Limits of these Greek Councils. This appears both by their

r. Tho' the Council of Trent speak Ambiguously of Image-worship, the Popis Doctors explain the Delpbick Oracle, and deliver themselves without Referves on this Article.

Bellarmin saith, that Images ought to be Worshipp'd by themselves, and property so that they terminate the Worship, as consider'd in themselves, and not only as they represent the Original: That we must not say, especially in our Sermons to the People, that Images ought to be Worshipp'd with Latria, or Supream Worship: But Images may be Worshipp'd improperly, or by Accident with the Lib. 11. Cap.

Worship the Original, or Prototype. (9)

By these Assertions the Cardinal excuses the Opinion of Thomas Aquinas, Alexander Hales, Bonaventure, Biel, Cajetan, Carthusian, Capreolus, Vasquez, Gregory de Valentia, of all the Jesuits, and generally of the Schools, who unanimously attribute the Worship of Latria to the Images of Christ and bis Cross. The Romish Church has never condemn'd these Opinions as Heretical or Erroneous.

Aquines faith, that if the Image be confider'd as as a piece of Wood, Engraven or Painted, no Worthip is due unto it; but if it be confider'd as the 'I- mage of Christ, it must be Worshipp'd with the A- doration of Latrie, as Christ himself. Therefore, I faith he, we Address the Cross, as if it were 'Christ Christ himself, saying, All hail, O Cross, our only Hope.

Bonaventure affirms, that the Worship of Latria is due to the Image of Christ, and adds these Verses, Effigiem Christi, dum transis, semper adora, Non tamen Effigiem, sed quod designat, bonora.

Durandus confesseth, that to Worship Images is Idolatry, but excuseth the Romish Church, saying, We do not Worship them, nor call them Gods, nor put our Hope of Salvation in them, for this were Idolatry: But we Reverence them in Commemoration of things past. Hence adds he those Verses,

Effigiem Christi, qui transis, pronus honora;
Lib. 1. c. 3. Non tamen Effigiem, sed quod designat, adora. (5)

It is observable, that G. Durandus renders these Verses otherwise than Bonaventure, who lived about an Age after Durandus, thought sit to render them. In Durandus Mimatensis his Time (Anno. Dom. 1286.) the words pronus bonora were applied to the Image of Christ, and Adora applied to Christ himsels. In Bonaventure's Time (Anno. Dom. 1387.) the Image of Christ had the same Adoration which was given unto Christ himself, and therefore the words pronus honora were changed into semper adora.

2. The Practice of the Romanists is agreeable to their Doctrine, and proves them guilty of gross Idolatry. As their Doctors Teach, so their People Practice. They give the very same Worship to the Images of Christ, that is given to Christ himself. How miserable are the ignorant Laicks, who not understanding the nice Distinctions of Latria, Worship, and Doublid.

Doulia, Service, do terminate their Worship in the very Images, and fo are guilty of damnable Ido. latry! How much more miserable are those blind Guides, who lay these Stumbling-blocks in the way of the People, and make them believe, that they may fafely give, not only Service, but Religious Ado. ration to Graven Images!

This shews, that in the Roman Church the old Pagan Idolatry is reviv'd under another Name, and become a necessary Article of the Popish Religion, and all that oppose this Pagan Article are Censur'd for Hereticks, and condemn'd to the Flames, in imi-Tis fit tation of Nebuchadnezzar's Fiery Furnace. that Pagan Idolatry should be supported by Pagan Punishments. The Romish Cruelty is less excusable than that of the Pagans, for the Babylonians believ'd the Fire to be the Supream God, and therefore the God of Ifrael gave a Demonstration of his Divinity, in preserving the three young Men in the Fiery Furnace from the Violence of Fire, to whose devouring Flames they committed themselves, rather than fall down before a Graven Image.

An Image is an Image, call it by what Name you will. Not Images of fuch a Denomination, but all Images without distinction are forbidden in the Word of God, and all Image-worship is there condemn'd as Idolatrous.

§. IV. The abominable Idolatry of the Romanists in Worshipping Images, excited the Pious Zeal of the first Reformers to remove Images out of the Churches, and to destroy the Monuments and Occasions of Idolatry.

In the Year 1559, Gardiner, Bilhop of Winchester, wrote a Letter to one Vaughan, wherein he complains of the taking down of images at Partsmouth, as an Innovation, and calls those that were for Deltroying Images, Hogs, and worse than Hogs, to whom he would never Preach, for that would be casting of precious Stones before Hogs, which is forbidden in the Scripture. These Hogs, adds he, in England are called Lollards, (2) (3) Fox, Ibid.

My Lord Protector Answer'd this Letter of the Bishops, and observes among other things, that the Romanists ' have shew'd more Gentleness towards the (Laymen's) Books of Images, than to the True and Unfeigned Books of. God's Word, both being abused, the one with Idolatry, the other with Contention. The Scripture was remov'd for a Time from certain Persons, and almost from all: Images were left still to them, who most did abuse them, the thing yet being hid from them which should teach the Use. Wherefore unto us it appears meet to take more diligent heed, that the Abused before be not Abufed again. The Advantage of fome Priefts. In.

In Queen Mary's Reign Images were restor'd an Essential part of Popery.

Queen Elizabeth inclined to keep Images still in the Churches, and tho' the Reformed Divines made many Applications to divert her from it, yet she was not easily wrought on.

The Divines put all their Reasons against them in Writing, and desir'd her to commit the Determining of that Matter to a Synod of Bishops and Divines, and not to take up an unalterable Resolution on Political Considerations.

They laid before her the Second Commandment, and the Curse Pronounced against those that made an Image, and put it in a secret Place, that is, in an Oratory.

The Book of Wisdom calls them a Snare for the Feet of the Ignorant.

St. John charg'd the Christians to beware of 1dols, and not only of Worshipping them. The use of them sed Superstition, and ended in Idolatry.

They shew'd that Images were not allow'd in the Church till the Seventh Century, and the Contests that were rais'd about them in the Eastern Empire, occasion'd such Distractions, as in a great measure made way for its Ruine, and laid it open to the Mahomitans.

(a) Burn. Abridg. of the Hiftory of the Reformation. Lib: EV. ad An. 1559.
(b) Eliz. ad An. 1559.

These things wrought so much on the Queen, that she was at last content they should be put down. (a)

Mr. Camden saith, that Images were removed without Tumultuous Opposition, by Authority of Parliament. (b)

But

But I meet with no A&t of Parliament to that Purpose. The Supremacy lodged in the Queen by an A&t of Parliament, was sufficient to enable the Queen to Abolish Images by her Royal Injunctions, and Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

Our first Reformers had good Authority to destroy Images, which had been Superstitiously introduc'd into the Churches, and abused to the most abominable Idolatry.

God commanded the Israelites to destroy the Altars of the Idolatrous Canaanites, to break down their Images, or Statues, and cut down their Groves, and burn their Graven Images with Fire. (c) (c) Deut, VII.

In Obedience to this Law the Reforming Kings of Juda destroy'd the Monuments of Idolatry. So did Hezekiah, Jofiah, &c.

The Destruction of Images is one of the Fruits of Repentance.

Our Reforming Princes, in Destroying Images, imitated the Heroick Zeal of the Emperors of the East, who destroy'd those Monuments of Idolatry, and thereby drew upon themselves the Rage of the Roman Pontiffs, and the Idolatrous Monks, as we have shew'd at

I will conclude with the Words of St. Auffin, which shew the Practice of the Primitive Christians in defacing Images, as far as their Power reach'd. May the Lord, saith he, grant this, and put all things in your Power, as he did that which is destroy'd. For this, I say, Betoved, you must not do this, when it is not in your Power to do it. It is the Part of Wicked Men, I mean the Circumcellians, to rage where they have no Power, and to expose themselves to Death without Cause. You have heard what was read unto you all, who were lately in the Villages.

When the Land is in your Power. He first tells them, that the Land is brought under their Power, and then directs them what they must do, ye shall destroy their Altars, Groves, Images, &c. When you receive Power, do this. Where we have no Power, we do it not; where we have Power, we always do it. Many Pagans. bave these Abominations on their Ground. Do we ever go thither to destroy their Images? We first endeavour to destroy the Idols that are in their Hearts. When they are made Christians; either they invite us to So good a Work, or they prevent us by do-

Pray for them, and not be wrath with Serm. VI. them. (d)

In a word, our Reformers Purg'd the Land of Images in Obedience to God's Law, and in Conformity to the best Examples, both in the Jewish and Christian Church.

The introducing of them again into our Liturgy, and Books of Devotion, is without Warrant, reflects on the Practice of our first Reformers, and has a manifest Tendency to beget in us a favourable Opinion of Images, and to dispose Weak and Superstitious Minds for the Idolatry of Image-worship.
